Big South Conference delays fall seasons; targets spring

Charlotte, N.C. – With the health and well-being of its student-athletes as its top priority, the Big South Conference announced on August 12 that it is delaying its fall sports seasons with the intent of playing in the spring. This includes the sports of men's and women's cross country, football, men's and women's soccer, and volleyball. Additionally, fall competitions in the sports of men's and women's golf and men's and women's tennis, and out of season competitions in spring sports have been suspended as well. Football members will be allowed to participate in up to four non-conference games in the fall due to contractual obligations.

Big South member institutions may continue with permissible athletics activities, as defined by NCAA regulations and with the exception of fall sport competition, at their own discretion and in accordance with applicable local and state regulations and procedures.

A special surprise for some special educators

Spartanburg School District Two recently held their Welcome Back Convocation. The difference this year, is that school teams watched a live-streamed ceremony at their individual buildings on the District YouTube page.

As part of the celebration, the District announced the Teacher of the Year and Ambassador of the Year, and surprised them at their school with some awesome gifts thanks to a pair of generous community partners.

The Teacher of the Year is 4th grade teacher Michelle Monroe from Cooley Springs-Fingerville Elementary School. She received a check for $3000 courtesy of Thompson Turner Construction (builders of the new Boiling Springs High School).

The Ambassador of the Year is Spanish Language Interpreter Maria Obando from Hendrix Elementary School. She received a check for $1500 courtesy of Founders Federal Credit Union.

Spartanburg businesses taking action

RJ Rockers Brewery and Ameri-Mask have taken the Spartanburg Mask Challenge to new heights with an oversized mask on Rockers' signature Silo. RJ Rockers is also donating $1 from every 32 oz. Crawler sale to the Bringing Back the Burg Small Business Fund. What better excuse to pick up some locally-brewed beer than supporting a good cause while you're at it?

Spartanburg businesses commit to combating COVID-19

More than 160 businesses – ranging from hospitality to manufacturing to professional services – have made the commitment to combat COVID-19. Thanks to a donation from BMW Plant Spartanburg, committed businesses can receive up to 50 free face masks.

In addition to following CDC & DHEC industry-specific guidelines, businesses are helping to Bring Back the 'Burg safely by following these steps:

1. Screen Team Members: Monitoring employee health before each shift

2. Wear Masks: All staff will wear face coverings when social distancing is not possible

3. Hand Safety: Hand sanitizers and wash stations are available

4. Clean Environment: Cleaning thoroughly between guests

5. Provide Space: Following social distancing and capacity guidelines

Fry's fantastic summer continues

For the third consecutive week in July USC Upstate senior golfer Hunter Fry (Dacula, Ga.) found himself in the top-10 of an amateur tournament, this week it happened to be at the Georgia Open Qualifier at Chattahoochee golf course.

In the one round event, Fry had a runner-up finish with a final score of 67 (-5). The Peach State native, led the field on the front nine, shooting four-under par and he led the field in par-5 scoring with a three-under par round. Once again, Fry led the tournament with a seven birdie round. For the sixth consecutive year, Fry has qualified for the Georgia Open.

"This summer has been a continuation of my spring season," Fry said. "I was playing really well right before everything shutdown, so I've just been trying to pick back up where I left off. I was hitting the ball very well at the Spartanburg County Amateur Tournament last weekend. I'm really looking forward to getting back out there and seeing if I can give it a good run this year."

pitals rankings and ratings, now in their 31st year, are designed to assist patients and their doctors in making informed decisions about where to receive care for challenging health conditions or for common elective procedures.

For the 2020-21 rankings and ratings, U.S. News evaluated more than 4,500 medical centers nationwide in 16 specialties, 10 procedures and conditions. In the 16 specialty areas, 134 hospitals were ranked in at least one specialty. In rankings by state and metro area, U.S. News recognized best regional hospitals based on high performing rankings across multiple areas of care.

"For more than 30 years, U.S. News & World Report has been helping patients, along with the help of their physicians, identify the Best Hospitals in an array of specialties, procedures and conditions," said Ben Harder, managing editor and chief of health analysis at U.S. News. "The hospitals that rise to the top of our rankings and ratings have deep medical expertise, and each has built a track record of delivering good outcomes for patients."

The U.S. News Best Hospitals methodologies in most areas of care are based largely on objective measures such as risk-adjusted survival and discharge-to-home rates, volume, and quality of nursing, among other care-related indicators.

Logan Pace and Upstate women's soccer spend their summer giving back

After organizing and executing a successful food drive earlier this summer that yielded over 380 pounds of canned goods to local food banks, the USC Upstate women's soccer team continued to reach out and serve in their local communities.

Recently USC Upstate junior goalkeeper Logan Pace (Belmont, N.C.) has been working with Elevation Outreach and their annual "Love Week" events. The church's annual love week reaches local communities from the Southeastern United States, all the way across the northern border to Toronto, Canada.

"If you know Logan, you know that she wears her heart on her sleeve and she has such a passion for people," USC Upstate Associate A.D. for Student-Athlete Enrichment and SWA Sarah Gildersleeve said. "Having the opportunity to hear her stories all summer then getting the opportunity to see her in action and serve alongside her last week at Love Week has been so inspiring."

Pace is very passionate about her volunteer work and the reach that Elevation Outreach has had on her local community. "Serving with the people I love for the community I love has been the best experience of my life," Pace said. Through the help and organization of Pace, the women's soccer team has driven the 74 miles to Charlotte from Spartanburg to volunteer alongside their fellow teammate.

For Pace, however, this is not the first week she has volunteered this summer. In fact, the Tar Heel State native has volunteered every day since April 17 and has accumulated over 400 hours of service. A few places that Pace has worked this summer include local food drives in both Charlotte and Winston-Salem, the Dream Center (Charlotte, N.C.), Nation Ford Elementary School (Charlotte, N.C.) and the Second Harvest Food Bank (Winston-Salem, N.C.).

Through Elevation Outreach, Pace also volunteered her time in Talladega, Ala. with the Convoy of Hope and the Joey Logano foundation. The Convoy of Hope, founded in 1994, is a non-profit organization that focuses on feeding the world through children's feeding initiatives, community outreaches, and disaster response. The Joey Logano Foundation invests in organizations offering second chances to children and young adults during times of crisis and works to inspire others to live a life of generosity.

The junior also volunteered her time with the nonprofit pharmacy Med-Assist, which helps primary low-income patients with medical and medication bills. One of the final places that Pace worked was at the A21 Foundation, a non-profit organization that is working to end human trafficking across the globe.

"Getting to know so many people and hearing so many amazing stories has affected me on a deep level," Pace replied. "I can't wait to take all of that back to the soccer field and to my teammates. I have learned that right outside of USC Upstate people need help. I took heart to seeing each person intentionally."

"Logan has grown so much over the past year and it has been awesome to see her find her passion in serving others," Gildersleeve stated. "She serves in various leadership roles within student-athlete organizations, including SAAC (Student-Athlete Advisement Committee) and FCA (Fellowship of Christian Athletes), and I'm looking forward to her bringing her experience from Elevation Outreach to Upstate. I'm so proud of Logan and am excited to see how she continues impacting our Upstate and Spartanburg communities."

Flat out fabulous grilled steaks

Steaks are one of the most popular types of grilled meats. Chuck steaks are a tasty alternative to more expensive steaks. While not as tender as other steaks, chuck steaks are favorably enhanced by marinating them before grilling. Whether cooked in a skillet, broiled or grilled, chuck steaks are best when cooked for a few minutes per side, allowed to rest for 5 minutes, and served medium rare. Longer cooking times will make the meat tough.

GRILLED FLAT IRON STEAKS WITH GARLIC MARINADE

Don't add salt when making this marinade. Sprinkle the steaks with a teaspoon of salt right before placing them on the grill. If using the marinade as a salad dressing, sprinkle the salt on the salad greens first then add the marinade. Makes approximately 2 1/4 cups.

- 6 (1/2-pound each) flat iron or chuck eye steaks
- 1 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 1/2 cup soy sauce
- 1/3 cup red wine vinegar
- 1/4 cup fresh squeezed lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tablespoon black pepper
- 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
- 1 tablespoon onion powder
- 1 tablespoon garlic powder
- 1/2 tablespoon paprika
- 1/4 teaspoon red pepper flakes

1. Place the steaks in a shallow baking dish. Using a medium-sized bowl, stir together the oil, soy sauce, vinegar, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, pepper, mustard, onion powder, garlic powder, paprika and red pepper flakes until well-combined.

2. Pour all but about a 1/4 cup of the marinade over the steaks. Reserve the marinade in the bowl for later use and set it aside. Turn the steaks in the pan to coat on both sides. Cover the dish with plastic wrap. Let the steaks marinate at room temperature for 10 minutes.

3. Heat the grill to medium-high heat. Oil the grill grate with a paper-towel dipped in vegetable oil to clean the grill and keep the steaks from sticking. Remove steaks from dish. Aggressively sprinkle both sides of the steak with salt to create a flavorful crust.

4. Place steaks on the cooler part of the grill, over medium heat. Cook steaks for 4 to 5 minutes on each side, brushing steaks often with the reserved marinade.

5. After the steaks have cooked on both sides, remove them from the heat and cover with a piece of foil to keep them warm. The steaks will stay warm and continue to cook. Allow the steaks to rest for 5 minutes before slicing to retain the juices and keep it tender and moist. Serve immediately.

S.C. Technical College System building a workforce

People, and the strength of the workforce they make up, are at the core of economic development. And in South Carolina, it's hard to talk "workforce" without the SC Technical College System, a network of 16 technical colleges across the state that is nationally recognized for programs such as readySC and Apprenticeship Carolina.

Whether it's readySC helping to train employees at new industries or Apprenticeship Carolina™ offering "earn while you learn" opportunities, these programs and the Upstate institutions Greenville Technical College, Spartanburg Community College, Tri-County Technical College and Piedmont Technical College are key to supporting Upstate employer's needs.

And, as the economy rebounds from the disruption of the COVID-19 pandemic with 12.5% statewide unemployment reported for May 2020, these institutions are resources for those displaced from restaurant, retail and other service industry jobs, unlocking opportunities to up their skills and wages.

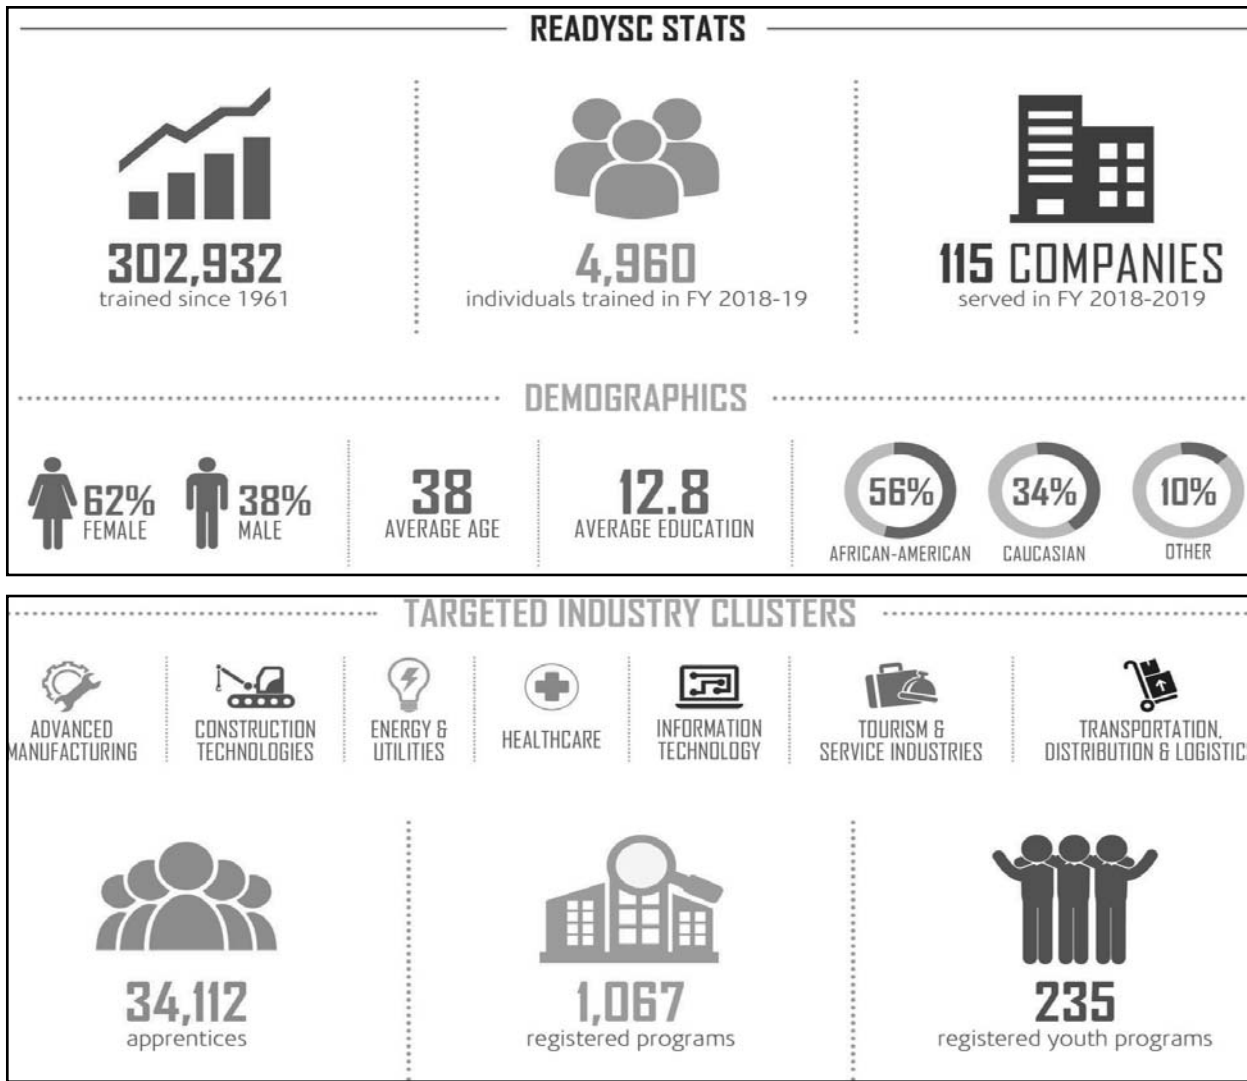

During a May 27 Coffee & (Tele)Conversation webinar, system president Dr. Tim Hardee spoke about how the system supports employers, its response to COVID-19, and what's on the horizon.

The SC Technical College System

The system serves an average of 100,000 credit-seeking and 60,000 continuing education students statewide, keeping price points as affordable as possible, with locations ready to serve all South Carolinians within a 30-minute drive.

Courses and programs are geared toward jobs that exist in South Carolina, as demonstrated by the fact that 90% of system grads are placed in their field of study within a year of graduation.

readySC & E-Zone Workforce Training and Support readySC is the training program that supports industries as they enter the state, and a range of companies from Michelin to BMW and Boeing – and many smaller companies – have benefited from it.

For employers implementing readySC training, such as Volvo and Mercedes-Benz Vans, programs were paused during the early stages of the pandemic. Now, with added PPE, social distancing, and handwashing, the program is back up and running.

For companies who pivoted to respond to critical need items – introducing new processes as a result of modified operations, the Ezone program offers helps to offset training costs.

The E-Zone program offers financial support for incumbent worker training on new technology or processes, offering up to 66% in savings on training costs. The program has been activated by a number of businesses who adapted their production to meet critical item demands in response to COVID-19.

On any given day, readySC is working with approximately 115 projects across the state. Last year, they recruited and trained just over 5,000 people for jobs in the state. EZone is a System program that offers an incentive to companies for training incumbent workers. Last year, 78 companies across the state took advantage of this program with nearly 30,000 South Carolinians eligible for retraining.

"We certainly have had a lot of those companies who have gotten involved in producing masks, PPE and hand sanitizer," Hardee said.

The 16 colleges transitioned quickly to online course delivery, using the existing system that previously allowed one-third of courses to be offered online.

One hurdle the system overcame: working with the Governor's Office and the State Board of Nursing to enable 1,100 nurses to complete their clinical coursework using online simulations, so that they could graduate and enter the workforce.

Apprenticeship Carolina Fosters On-the-Job Learning

Another growing success for the system: the Apprenticeship Carolina™ program, which offers companies consultation services in launching federally-qualified apprenticeship programs.

"It's nice to be viewed as the place that other states come to see how we do it. Our apprenticeship program has grown extensively over the last 12-15 years. And, we have started to delve even more into Youth Apprenticeship Programs," Hardee said.

The system has served 34,000+ apprentices with more than 1,067 registered programs, and another 235 youth apprenticeships have been established.

The program's core components include a job-related education, supervised on-the-job learning, and a scalable wage progression. And, the average tenure among employees who have completed apprenticeships is 3.6 years longer than those who have not.

More than 1,000 occupations can be part of the program, including: advanced manufacturing, construction technologies, healthcare, information technology, tourism & service industries, transportation & logistics, and energy & utilities.

Employers can take advantage of a $1,000 per apprentice per year for up to four years.

Overcoming Workforce Shortages with SC WINS, ManuFirst and Statewide Marketing

And, apprenticeships aren't the only way the system is engaging the emerging talent pipeline.

Last year, nearly 11,000 students took advantage of the new SC WINS (the Carolina Workforce Industry Needs Scholarship program, which supplements Lottery Tuition Assistance and additional scholarships to increase enrollment in programs that train for high-demand fields.

Six areas were identified: Advanced Manufacturing, Healthcare, IT and Computer Technology, Construction, Hospitality and Tourism, and Transportation, Distribution and Logistics.

Another program with room to grow: ManuFirst, a certificate program designed to meet Volvo's hiring needs of 4,000 people by offering a 62-hour training course on teamwork, safety and OSHA requirements that the car-maker used in lieu of required one-year of manufacturing experience.

"I would see us expanding that quite a bit across the state in the coming year," Hardee said.

And, there's a new $1.5 million, 3-year statewide marketing initiative, I DEFY, in the works geared toward igniting interest in manufacturing among rising high-school seniors.

Developing Future Talent

With such rapid change in the economy – and education delivery – in the first half of 2020, how does the system's fall look?

"Historically, when unemployment goes up, we have more students," Hardee said, "when we have lower than 3% unemployment, enrollment goes down."

Hardee acknowledged that some jobs lost in tourism and hospitality may not return quickly, though openings in healthcare and manufacturing may offer different opportunities.

The system anticipates a return to in-person instruction – especially in fields that require hands-on learning – though with modifications that allow for physical distancing.

"We're encouraged that the fall semester is going to be a good one for the system, but what that number is, I can't really tell you now."

Tips to help erase bullying this back-to-school season

(StatePoint) This back-to-school season may look a little different, but no matter what learning environment kids find themselves in this fall, bullying is a real cause for concern.

One in five kids aged 12 to 18 has encountered bullying, according to StopBullying.gov. It can happen in person, online or even by text. In an effort to combat the problem, Pilot Pen launched the Erase Bullying for Good campaign in 2015 to help support bullying prevention programs in schools nationwide. For a smooth start to the school year, they are offering parents these back-to-school tips for facing the issue:

- Sometimes kids hesitate to share negative situations they're encountering. That doesn't mean they aren't showing signs that something is wrong. Pay attention to sudden changes in mood, sleep patterns, study habits or other signs of stress. Let kids know that if they're bullied or witness bullying, it's okay to come to you or another trusted adult, like a teacher, counselor or coach. A strong trust network helps kids feel safe and empowered.

- If your child is being bullied, reassure them that they're not alone and have done nothing wrong. Let them know you'll work through this together. Follow up with school officials to ensure the negative behavior is being addressed, especially if your child is being physically bullied or feels like they're in danger.

- The presence of digital devices and broad reach of social media means more avenues for bullies to reach their targets. Maintain an open dialogue with your child regarding online activity, and don't be shy about keeping an eye on profiles and posts.

- Being the target of bullying can feel isolating and overwhelming. If your child witnesses bullying, encourage them to be an "upstander," not just a bystander. This involves being an ally who stands up to bullies, and it can be as simple as seeking help from an adult, or as ambitious as starting an anti-bullying program at school.

- It can be disheartening to learn that your own child has engaged in bullying. Remember, bullying is a behavior, and behaviors can be changed. Help your child identify underlying feelings that may be causing them to act out in this way and encourage them to find positive outlets such as sports, art or journaling.

- It's important for kids to understand that the goal of bullying is to make the victim feel scared or powerless. Parents can equip children with the knowledge, resources and confidence they need to feel empowered in the face of bullying, as well as with tools that align with this cause. By the end of 2020, the Erase Bullying for Good campaign, through purchases of Pilot's FriXion Erasable pens, will have contributed more than $450,000 to organizations committed to bringing bullying prevention and education programs to US schools. FriXion's unique, thermo-sensitive erasable ink writes smoothly and erases cleanly, so students, teachers and parents can write, create and express themselves fearlessly without the stress of written mistakes, empowering them to be upstanders through the written word. Bullying is all too common. However, parents can play an active role in helping put a stop to it this back-to-school season and beyond.

First-ever, free drive-through S.C. State Fair to be held October 20 - 21

Columbia — In an effort to give back to the community in response to the COVID-19 pandemic, the nonprofit South Carolina State Fair will host its first-ever free, Drive-Through S.C. State Fair on Tuesday, Oct. 20 and Wednesday, Oct. 21. Find details leading up to the event at www.scstatefair.org and follow @scstatefair on social media.

"In the midst of the worst global crisis of our lifetime, we wanted to give the community something positive to look forward to," said General Manager Nancy Smith, who also serves as the current chair of the International Association of Fairs and Exhibitions (IAFE). "Our team is proud to offer a free event where families and friends can experience the joy of the State Fair in a safe and fun environment."

Guests will enjoy free admission to drive through the fairgrounds and experience unique, car-friendly attractions that highlight South Carolina's agriculture, history, arts and culture — all from the comfort and safety of their cars. Meanwhile, in a twist on the restaurant drive-through concept, guests will be able to drive into the Lexington Medical Center Fair Park on the fairgrounds and purchase their favorite fair foods.

"The Drive-Through State Fair is going to give folks a snippet of the fair they've known their entire lives," said Smith. "It will certainly look different, but we look forward to sharing this gift with the community. It will truly be a year like no other."

While rides will not be on the menu in 2020 due to safety precautions, the organization has devised a creative, family-friendly way to experience the food, exhibits, crafts and animals for which the S.C. State Fair is known and loved — in a safe environment.

"As the state's largest event, we have a responsibility to take care of our neighbors and protect those we love," said Smith. "To prioritize community health and well-being, our team has spent countless hours developing the best and safest State Fair possible. Safety is always our number one concern, and it is clear to us that the State Fair must adapt to the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic."

The State Fair is dedicated to using its facilities and resources to support and serve the community. Earlier this year, the fairgrounds hosted S.C. DHEC and Kroger Health's free COVID-19 testing and Richland County's annual Richland Recycles collection day. Historically, a wide variety of community service functions have been provided by the fair's facilities during emergencies, and the State Fair team intends to continue this tradition.

"As a 501c3 nonprofit organization ourselves, we exist to serve the community, and we understand the toll that the coronavirus is taking on family farms, concessionaires, exhibitors, small businesses, community groups and countless others," said Smith. "I'd like to recognize our fellow fairs, here in South Carolina and across North America and beyond, that are also making difficult decisions to best serve their communities. Our state is SC Strong, and our fair community is Fair Strong."

The public is encouraged to submit stories, photos and videos of their "Prize-Winning Memories" from S.C. State Fairs of the past. The State Fair will share these images on social media in October 2020 — and they might even be seen at the Drive-Through State Fair — to highlight the unforgettable moments that create the largest event in the state. Photos, quotes and videos are now being accepted via email at favoritememory@scstatefair.org.

"We've been bringing folks together for 150 years, and we plan on being here to continue our beloved tradition for decades to come," said Smith. "Thank you for standing by us now, and thank you for keeping the spirit alive as we bring your tradition — your South Carolina State Fair — to you in a new way this October. We'll be back — better and stronger — in 2021."

Next year's S.C. State Fair will take place October 13-24, 2021.

The South Carolina State Fair, a self-supporting 501(c)3 nonprofit organization, was organized in 1869 and is dedicated to preserving and promoting South Carolina's agricultural roots while supporting statewide education. The South Carolina State Fair has awarded more than $4 million in scholarships since 1997.
