White named Co-Big South Player of the Week

Charlotte, N.C. – The Big South Conference named USC Upstate junior guard Dalvin White (Norcross, Ga.) and Winthrop senior guard Chandler Vaudrin are the Big South Co-Players of the Week for the week of Jan. 3-9.

This is the first player of the week honor for Dalvin White in his career and he is the first Upstate player to hold the honor since Malik Moore earned the recognition on December 10, 2018.

White posted career outings against Longwood in back-to-back games this past week. The Peach State native scored 17-points on Monday night and then rest his career high with a 20-point outing against the Lancers the following night. Over the two game series, White averaged 18.5 points per game, 4.0 rebounds per game, 3.0 assists per game, 2.0 steals per game, shot a team high .619 percent from the field and .643 from beyond the arch.

S.C. Commerce Office of Innovation announces grant awards

Columbia - The South Carolina Department of Commerce Office of Innovation recently announced $670,000 in grant awards to 14 organizations as part of the Relentless Challenge grant series. With the mission of progressing and supporting technology-based economic development projects, commercialization of new ideas and the next generation of industry-leading companies, the Relentless Challenge targets strategic investments in localized initiatives.

Projects commence in early 2021. The 14 projects include:

- Greenville Local Development Corporation - The "GVL Starts" Program
- GrowCo - Project Flywheel
- Increasing H.O.P.E. - Accelerator Pilot Program
- NEXT Upstate - NEXT Learning Labs Extension, Office Hours, Entrepreneur-in-Residence, Internship Program Extension

Dr. Toni Bennett named SMC Associate Provost for Online Strategy

With the expanded importance of online instruction and course delivery, Spartanburg Methodist College announced that Dr. Toni Bennett will be the college's first Associate Provost for Online Strategy. Dr. Bennett comes from Lincoln Memorial University in Knoxville, TN, where she served as Chair of Graduate Programs for the School of Business and an Associate Professor of Marketing. She will be instrumental in helping to shape and direct the future of the school's online degree programs.

Debbie Turbeville, South Carolina USDA Rural Development State Director, remembered as a leader committed to rural residents and communities

Columbia - USDA Rural Development's South Carolina office recently announced the passing of State Director Debbie Turbeville, who was known for her strong commitment and love for the people of South Carolina and its rural communities.

Turbeville, who served as the State Director since November 2017, passed away on Jan. 8, 2021.

Her civil service career with USDA extended over 36 years. In addition to serving as state director, Turbeville held several positions within USDA Rural Development: area director, assistant county supervisor, county supervisor, cooperative development specialist and agriculture marketing specialist.

Her passing is a major loss for South Carolina, as she was an important member of our USDA team, a key figure in what we have accomplished at Rural Development, and, above all, a great human being and friend. She will be remembered as a dedicated leader committed to rural residents and communities, a genuine friend, a loving wife, mother and grandmother. She will be missed by all who had the privilege of knowing her.

Spartanburg's Homeless Court participants complete program

This article originally appeared on the City of Spartanburg's website

The man was no stranger to Judge Erika McJimpsey's courtroom. Usually answering to a misdemeanor charge such as trespassing, he had been locked up dozens of times over the years. But just like band-aids don't prevent injuries, throwing a destitute person in jail doesn't fix the root causes of homelessness.

So every few weeks, the man would again stand in front of Judge McJimpsey, who has served as the City of Spartanburg's municipal judge since 2009. Sometimes, the judge and her staff through their connections with local homeless shelters and other organizations and charities would find temporary housing for him. Sometimes, they had no choice but to confine him to jail for a short period of time.

"He had come before the court over 100 times, and we had begun to notice a decline in his health," McJimpsey said. "It was a gradual decline that had become more obvious. He came to court back in January 2019, and we had a really, really bad cold snap around that time — around three or four weeks of really cold weather and he was out there in the cold."

Two days later, McJimpsey received a phone call on her way to work, notifying her that the man had frozen to death.

"From a judicial standpoint, you must be neutral and unbiased, but that doesn't shut down your compassion to want to see people live a better life," McJimpsey said. "Sometimes I may do that more than some people would like, but I want to help. And sometimes that help is not locking someone up."

"At that point, I felt like we had to do something. We had to do something different."

That something became the City's Homeless Court, an innovative approach to addressing the root cause of homelessness.

What is Homeless Court?

Spartanburg is one of just five cities in South Carolina (the other four are Columbia, Charleston, Myrtle Beach and Florence) to create a homeless court as an alternative to the punitive approach the criminal justice system normally takes toward homelessness.

As George Cauthen, an attorney who has helped develop homeless courts in the state, and Jennifer Wilson, a municipal judge in Myrtle Beach, wrote in the May 2019 issue of SC Lawyer magazine, the theory behind creating a Homeless Court is that homeless people come into contact with law enforcement and receive citations more often than other people. At the same time, they often do not show up for court. Cauthen and Wilson explain:

"... The greatest single factor that prevents individuals who are homeless from attending a traditional court is fear. They fear a system that in general has not treated them well in the past. They fear their inability to pay the fines imposed on them. They fear incarceration, especially when they are working or in some type of treatment program and incarceration means starting over at square one upon release. Other than providing temporary housing, incarceration of the homeless does nothing to benefit the homeless or the community. Yet, court attendance is the only way to resolve legal issues."

But resolving those legal issues isn't the only goal of Spartanburg's homeless court.

"Back in 2018, we started to notice a marked increase in the number of homeless people appearing in municipal court," McJimpsey said. "There were growing numbers of people falling on hard times, and from my perspective there was no direction for how to help them when they came here. There was nothing to address the underlying problems."

After McJimpsey and Spartanburg Court Administrator Alma Miller met with Cauthen and homeless court officials in Columbia, they came back to Spartanburg and got to work. They met with leaders from social service organizations across the community and learned what resources Spartanburg already was investing in addressing those underlying issues.

They also met with 7th Circuit Solicitor Barry Barnette, Deputy Solicitor Derrick Balsa and the Public Defender's Office to share the idea, which they quickly got behind. "The things we really needed — the passion, the goodwill — were already in place," McJimpsey said. "Everyone was like 'Yes, let's do it.'"

"We met with Hannah Jarrett from United Way of the Piedmont and Carey Rothschild from Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System. We met with SPIHN (Spartanburg Interfaith Hospitality Network) and our community's Homeless Task Force. I knew what homelessness looked like in my courtroom but I didn't know what it looked like beyond that. Spartanburg was already doing some things that needed to be done to establish a homeless court. There were a lot of things in place because a lot of people were doing the work and had laid the foundation."

That foundation was critical to getting the homeless court up and running in record time — normally, it takes a community a year or two to receive approval from the state Supreme Court to establish a homeless court. But with many of the wraparound services and resources in place and the organizations who provide them already collaborating, Spartanburg was able to launch its homeless court in September of 2019, just eight months after McJimpsey started to research the concept.

What Happens in Homeless Court?

Every person who has their case moved to homeless court is appointed a local attorney and a case manager who has volunteered their time to help. From housing assistance and health care to SNAP benefits and help finding employment, homeless court case managers create a plan for each person and then connect them to the social services they need to get off the streets and begin to build a more stable life for themselves and their families.

Andrea Moore and Suzy Cole are two of the dozen or so local attorneys who head-lead the court's call for pro bono legal services. Their firm, Village Legal Hub, focuses on assisting nonprofits and charitable organizations and the two women have worked for many years in the community's social service sector. Cole and Moore make a unique team because Moore is able to serve as both counsel and case manager for homeless court clients.

Their first homeless court client was a young pregnant woman who had been living under a bridge, but with Moore and Cole's help, the woman now has stable employment and an apartment, where she is raising her baby. She was one of the first five graduates from the city's homeless court earlier this month. To graduate, one must have obtained stable housing, be employed or receiving unemployment benefits, and be connected to a primary service provider. Upon graduation, the charges the person was facing are expunged.

When McJimpsey congratulated the young woman and announced she had completed the requirements of the homeless court and her charges were expunged, the other people in the courtroom stood and applauded. It was "the most uplifting and rewarding experience I have ever had in court," Cole said. "You don't usually walk out of a courtroom feeling like that."

"These are lives that have been changed," McJimpsey said of the initial class of homeless court graduates. "Not changed by homeless court, but by people like the service providers and the local attorneys and a lot of other people who are willing to do the work. We should be proud of our community — we have a lot of people who care and are working very hard."

Soupify your supper

January is National Soup Month, and I've been busy making homemade chicken stock in my slow cooker and using the flavorful broth as a base for several belly-warming bowls of soup. I've also enjoyed exploring new soup recipes, starting with a unique new cookbook.

"SOUPified: Soups Inspired by Your Favorite Dishes" contains 31 cozy, comforting recipes -- one for every day of January. Created by Michele Di Pietro, it transforms supper recipes into soups. "SOUPified" was released to coincide and celebrate National Soup Month, as well as inspire readers during another season of sheltering in place.

Chef, culinary consultant and rising social media star (50k with a bullet), Di Pietro didn't set out to create the perfect response to another snowy pandemic winter season, but that's precisely what she did with her new book.

"I once read that every good soup tells a story," Michele says. "So true!"

"These soups were born out of the quarantine period of the COVID-19 pandemic, when I spent countless days being cooped up in a one-bedroom New York City apartment with no outdoor space and a lot of extra time on my hands. I needed to focus on something positive, challenging and delicious," she said. "I began by transforming a handful of favorite dishes into soup versions -- things that were nourishing, hearty and spoonable -- while still keeping the true essence of the dishes intact, or, in my parlance, I SOUPified them. My desire soon grew into a full cookbook of SOUPified recipes, which has never been done before."

Recipes include SOUPified versions of Eggplant Parm, Lasagna, Shrimp Scampi, Philly Cheesesteak, Clams Casino, Chinese Egg Roll and one of my favorite suppers, Chicken Marsala in "Soupified" form. Portions are generous, and each recipe is scaled to feed either 4 to 6 or 6 to 8 hungry diners, yielding multiple meals in some instances, or freezer stashes for the future. SOUPified is a salute to National Soup Month, and the perfect way to spoon up a bowlful of your favorite comfort foods on a chilly winter day.

Driving our region vibrantly forward with new Valkyries athletics teams

It's no secret Converse is growing and implementing some monumental changes in 2021. With the July 2021 name change from college to university and the fall 2020 shift to co-educational, Converse is looking into the future and driving our region vibrantly forward while still honoring our rich history. A significant element of the model change includes launching the first men's sports teams.

Converse has a rich history of competitive NCAA Division II athletics programs and currently has 13 women's sports teams: Acrobatics & Tumbling, Basketball, Cross Country, Equestrian, Field Hockey, Golf, Lacrosse, Soccer, Softball, Swimming, Tennis, Track & Field, and Volleyball.

In 1894, Converse was one of the first progressive colleges in the country to implement women's sports, some of which included tennis, bowling, gymnastics, and a variety of other activities. In 1899, five years after the launch of the women's athletics teams, Converse began encouraging and hosting basketball games for women as well.

Converse will continue building and growing elite

Converse is adding men's teams to their athletic department during the 2020-21 academic year, including men's basketball.

women's teams while also welcoming male athletes to the unique and diverse tapestry of the Valkyries. Beginning in 2021, each corresponding to its own season, the NCAA Division II men's teams will include: Basketball, Cross Country, Soccer, Tennis, and Track & Field. In addition, Converse will transition to a co-ed Equestrian program (IHSA) and add an inaugural eSports co-ed team. "The male student-athletes who have recently signed with us are excited to be a part of a brand new program," said Chris Sawyer, Converse Assistant Athletic Director for Athletic Communications. "It's a chance for them to be a part of history and shaping the future of men's athletics at Converse. There are opportunities for scholarships, and there's an opportunity for everyone to play right away." "With the addition of men's sports, we will continue our momentum in Conference Carolinas, one of the best conferences in the region. Our existing women's Division II teams are getting the opportunity to play Division I teams, and they are succeeding and gaining victories," remarked Sawyer. "We are anticipating making big waves next year in all of our men's teams, but the basketball, soccer, Cross Country/Track & Field and eSports teams especially are already gaining rapid momentum. Our Head Men's Basketball Coach, Ryan Saunders, comes to Converse with an impressive record working in Conference Carolinas. Our Head Men's Soccer Coach, Rob Miller, has close to 300 collegiate victories. Rob has taken teams to a number of championships over the past 20 years and has had a very successful career. We are thrilled he has chosen to come to Converse to start the inaugural men's soccer program."

"We are also excited to begin co-ed eSports next year," Sawyer said. "eSports is one of the biggest things happening right now in collegiate athletics, and this is just the beginning. We are anticipating eSports to grow rapidly over the next few years. eSports will add so much to Converse and bring in a whole new dynamic. Our Head eSports Coach, Max Wood, is already recruiting for the 2021 games and we're looking forward to a great season."

Converse is eagerly anticipating the positive growth next year will bring with the institution's forward progress, the strengthening of the women's athletic teams, and the beginning of men's athletics teams. In 2021, Converse will continue providing innovative opportunities for its students and drive the Upstate region vibrantly forward.

Department of Art presents 'Matthew Baumgardner: Grids and Glyphs' in Thompson Gallery

Greenville - An exhibition celebrating the life and work of visual artist Matthew C. Baumgardner (1955-2018) will be presented by the Furman University Department of Art Jan. 19 - Feb. 19 in Thompson Gallery of the Roe Art Building. Thompson Gallery hours are 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

As the campus remains closed to the public due to COVID-19 protocols, in-person viewing of the exhibition is limited to Furman students, faculty and staff. However, the online Zoom exhibition opening, which takes place Thursday, Jan. 28, 6:30-7:30 p.m., is free and open to the public. RSVP by email to the Furman Department of Art at furmanart@furman.edu to obtain a Zoom link.

Curated and organized by Furman art students, the exhibition, "Matthew Baumgardner: Grids and Glyphs," is the culmination of the Curatorial Issues and Practices class taught by Diane Fischer, adjunct professor of art history, and marks the second exhibition of Baumgardner's work hosted at Furman.

The show explores Baumgardner's creative process and inner spirit through a selection of works and ephemera spanning the artist's career from 1977-2018, and includes 17 paintings, sculptures, notes, journals and materials from his Travelers Rest studio.

Central to the exhibition are paintings rendered on birch plywood with Baumgardner's signature medium - "mud" - a thick, paint-like paste created with gypsum and powdered pigments he applied to surfaces in multiple layers of grids and glyphs.

This technique and the series of paintings born from it won him a Visual Arts Fellowship in Painting by the National Endowment for the Arts in 1993.

For the Jan. 28 Zoom opening, Furman's Sarah Archino, associate professor of art history, and Fischer will give context for the exhibition, followed by students who appear in pre-recorded mini-presentations, including a video walk-through of the gallery, a chronological study of Baumgardner's work, a discussion of a special display, and explanations of artifacts from the artist's estate. A live Q&A will follow the student presentations.

Installation images and video of Baumgardner's work in "Grids and Glyphs" will be available online at <https://baumgardnerarchives.com/> by late January 2021. For more information, contact Diane Fischer at diane.fischer@furman.edu. Or contact the Furman News and Media Strategy office at 864-294-3107.

Fighting flu and staying healthy all year with Medicaid and CHIP

(StatePoint) Each year, millions of Americans get sick from “seasonal influenza” (“the flu”). According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), more than 38 million people got sick with the flu during the 2019-2020 flu season. The flu is more dangerous than the common cold and children are at higher risk for developing serious complications. More than 12 million children under the age of 18 were diagnosed with flu last year, and of those children diagnosed, more than 52,000 were hospitalized. However, there are preventive steps parents can take to protect their children and family from the flu.

Flu viruses change each year, so the best way to keep your kids and teens healthy is to make sure they get their yearly flu shot. The flu is a serious illness, but getting the flu shot helps lower the number of hospital visits and deaths. Remember, even healthy kids can get sick from the flu and spread it to family and others.

This year, it’s more important than ever for children 6 months and older, as well as adults, to get a seasonal flu shot. The CDC recommends getting a flu shot early in the season, but getting it at any time during the flu season can help.

Medicaid offers free or low-cost health insurance for eligible kids up to age 21; the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP) covers eligible kids up to age 19. Medicaid and CHIP covers vaccinations for children, like the flu shot, but also other services like preventive care, well-child visits, dental and vision care, and mental and behavioral health care. Eligibility varies by state and depends on your household size and income. On average, a family of four earning up to $50,000 a year or more may qualify for Medicaid or CHIP. Enrollment is open all year, but you have to renew your health coverage yearly.

Catch Up on Missed Care

This is also a good time to catch up on other care and necessary preventive services your child may have missed because of COVID-19, like routine well-child visits and vaccinations. Routine well-child visits help health care providers ensure children are growing and developing normally, including meeting important developmental milestones and provide age-appropriate counseling and immunizations to keep children healthy. With Medicaid and CHIP coverage, parents can schedule preventive visits for their children. Your provider will tell you how to be safe and how to get important care to protect your kids’ health now and for the future.

Preventive care can keep you, your family and community healthy. Get covered with Medicaid and CHIP and catch up on care to prevent disease. Don’t forget to schedule your child’s yearly flu shot and protect your child’s health.

AAA urges drivers to be cautious of deer presence on all roads

Charlotte, N.C. – AAA is urging motorists to keep an eye out for deer on the road this season in order to avoid collisions.

Although October through December is considered by AAA to be “the worst months of the year for vehicle collisions with animals,” other months can be hazardous as well.

“A collision with a deer endangers the passengers, as well as the vehicle and the deer,” said Tiffany Wright, spokesperson, AAA – The Auto Club Group in the Carolinas. “During this season we urge motorists to be on the lookout and always scan the sides of roads for animals, especially deer.”

In 2019, there were 20,335 reported animal collisions in North Carolina, of which 90% are assumed to be deer. The months of October through December account for 51% of those crashes (10,375), according to NCDOT. In the most recent data provided by the SCDPS, South Carolina reported 3,086 collisions with animals in 2019.

AAA encourages motorists to keep these tips in mind when on the road:

Most deer are active between 5:00 a.m. – 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. – 8:00 p.m. so pay extra attention during this time if you’re out on the road.

If you see a deer, slow down and watch out for other deer that may follow.

While slowing down,

honk your horn to scare the animal.

Brake firmly and do not swerve.

In the event of a collision, AAA says:

Do not make eye contact with the deer.

Turn your hazard lights on.

Move the car to a safe location.

Call local law enforcement or highway patrol for insurance purposes.

To report an injured deer in North Carolina, call the NCDNR’s Wildlife Enforcement Division at (800) 662-7137. To report an injured deer in South Carolina, call the SCDNR office at (803) 734-3886 to locate a rehabilitator near you.

When in North Carolina, deer-related crashes should be reported to the NC Department of Transportation. When in South Carolina, deer-related crashes should be reported to the SC Department of Transportation.

The Auto Club Group (ACG) is the second largest AAA club in North America with more than 14 million members across 14 U.S. states, the province of Quebec and two U.S. territories. ACG and its affiliates provide members with roadside assistance, insurance products, banking and financial services, travel offerings and more. ACG belongs to the national AAA federation with more than 60 million members in the United States and Canada. AAA’s mission is to protect and advance freedom of mobility and improve traffic safety. ## VETERANS POST

by Freddy Groves

Get the VA Welcome Kit

It doesn’t matter if you’ve been out for years or are just now separating from the service, the Department of Veterans Affairs has a gift for you: the VA Welcome Kit. It’s something every veteran needs to have on hand for current information you need now or things that can come up over the years.

It’s all about your VA benefits and the services it offers for the veteran, families, survivors and caregivers. Each kit has over a dozen quick-start guides for a wide array of topics, including health services for women, accessing urgent care, mental health services, getting caregiver benefits, home loans, explanation of disability ratings, applying for burial in a VA cemetery and getting educational benefits. They give step-by-step instructions, as well as listing the documents you’ll need, links to specific web pages (put your cursor on one and click), telephone numbers and departments within the VA system.

Getting one of the kits is easy: Just download it (www.va.gov/welcome-kit) as a .PDF file either in black and white or color. If you only want one specific guide, scroll down the page and pick your topic. Further down are links to other topics such as housing assistance, careers, life insurance, pension and more.

I give this kit an A grade. The VA put a lot of thought into it, and it’s well done. Take a look. So far there have been over 1 million downloads. Suggestion: Print it out (42 pages) and put it in a folder so it’s handy.

As a final note: Are you still doing the full minute hand washing? Never mind the 20 second wash, go for the full minute. Keep your nails short and scrubbed. Wash often. It doesn’t matter that the vaccine is now being given. Don’t slack off. For a long time we’ll still need to do the distancing and mask wearing ... and hand washing.

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Feb. 1, 1790, the Supreme Court of the United States meets in New York City for the first time, with Chief Justice John Jay presiding. The U.S. Supreme Court was established by Article Three of the U.S. Constitution, which took effect in March 1789.

• On Feb. 7, 1812, the most violent of a series of earthquakes near Missouri causes a so-called fluvial tsunami in the Mississippi River, making the river run backward for several hours. The strongest of the aftershocks, an 8.8-magnitude, caused church bells to ring in Boston, over a thousand miles away.

• On Feb. 4, 1861, delegates from South Carolina, Mississippi, Florida, Alabama, Georgia and Louisiana convene to establish the Confederate States of America. Within two months, Virginia, Arkansas, North Carolina and Tennessee all had joined the Confederacy.

• On Feb. 6, 1891, three members of the Dalton Gang stage an unsuccessful train robbery in California — an inauspicious beginning to their careers as serious criminals. A year later, the gang botched another robbery, boldly attempting to hit two Kansas banks at the same time.

• On Feb. 3, 1953, French oceanographer Jacques-Yves Cousteau publishes “The Silent World,” a memoir about his time exploring the oceans. In 1950, Lord Guinness, a British patron, bought him an old British minesweeper to use for his underwater explorations. Cousteau christened it Calypso.

• On Feb. 2, 1980, details of ABCAM, an FBI sting operation to uncover political corruption in the government, are released to the public. Thirty-one public officials were targeted. In the operation, FBI agents posed as representatives of a fictional Arab business, offering money in exchange for special favors.

• On Feb. 5, 2003, U.S. Secretary of State Colin Powell gives a speech to the United Nations justifying an invasion of Iraq that is full of fabrications. Powell later called it a “blot” on his record.

Convenient, functional gear prepares you for adventures or emergencies

(StatePoint) The new normal and natural disasters are dominating the headlines. At the same time, consumers have embraced socially distant adventure travel. Whatever your reasons for wanting to be prepared, easy to carry, functional gear will prepare you for what's to come. Here's how:

Secure Packing

Whether you're backpacking on your favorite trail or evacuating from a disaster zone, knowing your gear is protected from mishaps and extreme weather is important.

Keep organizational packing tools handy, such as Reusable Rubber Twist Gear Ties, that provide a versatile way to wrap and hang items. It may also be helpful to store a few Slidelock Aluminum S-Biners in your to-go bag to secure keys and water bottles.

When it comes to waterproofing, gear should endure the harshest elements. That's where options like the CorSurf 25L Waterproof Dry Backpack come into play. It floats and features special pockets to protect electronic equipment. Finally, expand your travel possibilities with a bag designed to adhere to TSA's Liquids Rule for carry-ons, such as Nite Ize's RunOff Waterproof 3-1-1

Pouch. Its gusseted bottom keeps travel-sized toiletries organized while protecting against leaks.

Safe Water

Safe tap water is not a given on outdoor adventure trips or during natural disasters when local water sources can become compromised.

Having a low-maintenance, long-term means to filter water, whether sheltering in place or on the road, gives you peace of mind.

Ultralight and durable, the LifeStraw personal water filter straw lasts for up to 1,000 gallons of water -- enough drinking water for an individual for over five years, and protects against bacteria, parasites, microplastics, dirt, sand and cloudiness. Another good choice for personal use --and great for hikes -- is the LifeStraw Go Insulated Stainless Steel water filter bottle, which not only protects against contaminants, but also keeps water cold for hours.

With family or friends? Look for water filtration designed to accommodate many people, such as the LifeStraw Mission water purifier, which features a built-in backwashing system and removes viruses, bacteria and parasites.

Illumination

Maintain visibility during power outages or when enjoying nature with battery-operated light sources.

A durable, tactical flashlight is a must. Try the INOVA T8R Powerswitch Rechargeable Dual Color LED Flashlight to preserve night vision while pitching a tent or looking for the circuit breaker. For a hands-free option, consider a lightweight headlamp with a rechargeable battery. The Biolite HeadLamp 330 sits flush on the forehead and its moisture-wicking fabric keeps the wearer cool and dry.

Finally, let tools pull double-duty. The Radiant 314 Rechargeable Lantern will not only illuminate your home or campsite, its built-in power bank allows you to charge devices anywhere, handy for staying connected when it's most vital.

Protection

From emergency uses (e.g. self-defense) to the mundane (e.g. slicing fruit), you never know when you'll need the utility of a pocket knife. Pack light with the Nite Ize Doohickey Key Chain Knife. Its 2-inch blade offers everyday portability.

Insect bites can be a major health hazard and an unwanted factor during weekend getaways or emergency scenarios. For naturally-derived DEET-free solutions, pack Natrapel Lemon Eucalyptus insect repellent. Individually-wrapped Natrapel Picaridin insect repellent wipes provide all-day protection from ticks and mosquitoes.

A high-quality first aid kit is vital for any household and the Adventure Medical Kits Mountain Backpacker contains hospital-quality contents ideal for multi-day adventures.

Whether you love adventure travel or just value emergency preparedness, great gear is essential.

Even Exchange

by Donna Pettman

Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you exchange the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters.

Differences: 1. Letter on pillow is different. 2. Man's shirt is black. 3. Mouse design is different. 4. Lamp is missing. 5. Picture on wall is missing. 6. Curtain is longer.

AUNT FLO'S FLAMINGO FRENZY! See if you can add up all of the pink flamingoes that Aunt Flo has put in her front yard. (Count them with a friend and see if you both get the same total.)

MESMERIZING MATH! The swami has discovered that if you multiply 99 by any number from 1 to 100, the product will always contain digits that total 18. Try it out: (99 x 9 = 891; 8 + 9 + 1 = 18), (99 x 4 = 396; 3 + 9 + 6 = 18).

LINK-UPS! Here's a list of 12 short words, divided into two columns. Turn them into six longer words by linking them together. To do this, draw a line from one word in the left column to one word in the right.

Answers: Legion, Legion, maledict, needed, replace, nonevent, palate.
