Wofford among New York Time's

'Top Colleges Doing Most for the American Dream'

For the third consecutive year – as long as the ranking has existed – Wofford College has been named to the New York Times's College Access Index, a ranking of the most economically diverse colleges in the country labeling them the "Top Colleges Doing the Most for the American Dream."

Wofford ranks at #103 on the list of 171 public and private colleges and universities, which is based on the institutions' commitment to economic diversity among its students. Wofford is one of only three South Carolina institutions on the list; Clemson University (#73) and Furman University (#142) also are ranked.

Spartanburg felon enters guilty plea in federal court on ammunition charges

Columbia - United States Attorney Beth Drake stated that Ray Anthony Kelly, age 55, of Spartanburg, pled guilty in federal court in Anderson to possession of ammunition by a prohibited person. United States District Judge Timothy M. Cain accepted the plea and will impose sentence after he has reviewed the presentence report which will be prepared by the U.S. Probation Office. Kelly, a previously convicted felon who is prohibited from possessing firearms or ammunition, faces a statutory maximum sentence of 10 years in federal prison. Kelly was arrested on federal firearms charges on June 16, 2016, and has remained in custody since his federal arrest.

Evidence presented at the change of plea hearing this morning established that on June 6, 2016, members of the Spartanburg Police Department (SPD) responded to a call regarding shots-fired in the parking lot of an auto repair store on John White Boulevard. When SPD officers arrived and began to process the scene, they recovered eight .9mm shell casings and interviewed multiple individuals present at the location. Based on those interviews, SPD officers determined that an earlier argument between two individuals in the parking lot led to an exchange of gun fire. Officers learned that during that exchange, Kelly returned fire, firing 9mm shots from a firearm. A firearm was not recovered however, as earlier noted, .9mm shell casings were collected by SPD. On June 9, 2016, during an interview with SPD officers, Kelly admitted to possession of the ammunition during the shooting.

The Spartanburg Police Department along with agents from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF) investigated the case. Assistant United States Attorney Max Cauthen is prosecuting the case.

Spartanburg Community College welcomes Rebecca Parrish as grant director

Spartanburg Community College recently welcomed Rebecca Parrish as the director of grants. In this role, Parrish is responsible for the planning, writing, securing, and managing of all grant funding and serves as SCC's liaison to all grant funding agencies.

Parrish has extensive grant writing and management experience, spending the past 12 years in Spartanburg's non-profit community working with local, state, and national funders. Parrish has also been an adjunct instructor at SCC, teaching in the transitional studies department.

Parrish is a native of Lakeland, Florida and a graduate of Wofford College, where she earned a Bachelor's Degree in English and Spanish. She also holds a Master's of Liberal Arts from Converse College. She is an active community volunteer, serving on the board of directors for the Spartanburg Little Theatre and as Treasurer for the Jesse Boyd Elementary Parent Teacher Student Organization. Parrish is married to Remsen B. Parrish and they have one son, John Remsen (age 9).

The SCC grants department has secured 18 grants ($655,226) since June 2016 and is currently seeking grant funding for 25 projects.

Local women graduate from Furman's Women's Leadership Institute

Greenville - The Women's Leadership Institute (WLI) of Furman University recently recognized the following Class of 2017 graduates from Spartanburg: Tammy Compton - Spartanburg County First Steps; Katie Hottel - Upstate Forever; Simone Pace - Camping World of Spartanburg; Michelle Pugh - Michelin North America; Jatoya Rector - Verizon Wireless.

By working with one another, the goal of WLI is to enhance vital leadership skills and form a collaborative, lasting network of relationships.

Leadership Spartanburg graduates class of 2017

The Spartanburg Area Chamber of Commerce honored 42 graduates of the Leadership Spartanburg program class of 2017 at a ceremony at The Country Club of Spartanburg on Thursday, May 11.

In his keynote address to the class, Chamber President and CEO Allen Smith encouraged the graduates to continue their leadership and community activism.

"From the economy to education to health to overall quality of life, the progress and momentum in Spartanburg today is both tangible and growing," Smith said. "It is a credit to the large number of leaders from all walks of life who are investing their time, talent and resources in our community. For decades, Leadership Spartanburg has been at the forefront of helping people to develop and enhance their leadership skills and understanding of where they can contribute, and this year's class is no exception. I look forward to both working with this year's 42 graduates and seeing what they accomplish for years to come. There's only one Spartanburg, and our deep roster of community-minded leaders is a big reason why."

The 2017 Leadership Spartanburg class kicked off in September 2016 with an overnight retreat focused on team building. Over the course of nine months, class members participated in monthly activities to enhance their understanding of the history of Spartanburg; local and state government; community health and social issues; education; arts and culture, recreation and other local quality-of-life factors; environmental and resource management; economic development; and Spartanburg's future. In addition, the eight stories identified by a leading community and economic development strategy firm in a community assessment last year were integrated into the curriculum. Those eight stories focus on education, economic development, poverty, talent, quality of place, entrepreneurship and community cohesion. The strategy and supporting data are available at onespartanburg.com.

The Leadership Spartanburg Class of 2017 graduates include: Dan Atkinson, Wilkes Law Firm, P.A.; Duffy Baehr, Baehr Feet; Maria Batson, IT Pros, Inc.; Colleen Bishop, ETV Endowment of South Carolina; Karen Brazeal, Country Club of Spartanburg; Suzanne Brooks, Spartanburg County Historical Association; Karen Canup, Sherman College of Chiropractic; Luke Connell, The Palladian Group; Daniel Craig, Johnson, Smith, Hibbard, & Wildman Law Firm, LLP; Jed Dearybury, Palmetto State Teachers Association; Brian Earnest, Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System; Louise Fagan, Spartanburg Philharmonic Orchestra; Phil Feisal, Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System; Elizabeth Fletcher, Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System; Ryan Gaylord, Hyde Law Firm, P.A.; Doug Gregory, Economic Futures Group; Matt Hammett, Wofford College; Aundi Hunter, Alzheimer's Association; Jay Jackson, Spartanburg Community College; Hannah Jarrett, United Way of the Piedmont; Chris Jennings, Spartanburg Convention & Visitors Bureau; Carter Johnson, Community Volunteer; Eric Kocher, Hub-Bub; Jeremy Long, Bank of America/Merrill Lynch; Jonathan Lounsberry, The Stevens Firm, P. Do the kids really know how you feel?

From the American Counseling Association

Experts will constantly tell you that good communication is a necessary element in any successful relationship. While we generally think of that advice in relation to spouses, friends and co-workers, one of the most important relationships to evaluate for good communication is with our children.

Do your kids really know how you feel about them? Yes, they should assume you care about them, since you provide shelter and food, but are you really communicating your love, care and pride in them on a regular basis?

It's easy to do when our children are small. Babies and toddlers are easy to hug and whisper "I love you" to even when misbehaving. But that constant communication of love often diminishes as our children grow up, and may almost disappear as we face a grumpy teen whose response to most communication efforts is a grunt, eye-roll or that ever popular, "Whatever."

But regardless of a child's age, or attitude, it's important to communicate your positive feelings in a variety of ways. The easiest, and most direct, is simply to say, "I love you" on a regular basis. Even if the response is only, "Yeah, whatever," your children should know your bottom line is that you really love them.

There are other important ways to communicate your feelings for your children. Simply demonstrating that you care about your child's world and its problems will always improve parent and child communication. When your child wants to share, you need to take the time to listen to what he or she is saying. Your job isn't to judge, criticize, or dismiss the problems, but to really listen, to understand and to care about what you're hearing.

It's also vital that you let your children know you're proud of them. When a child puts in extra effort and is truly working hard, that's the time to tell him or her how proud you are of that effort and of what's being accomplished. Learn to praise the effort being expended, not just the final result, and you can help motivate a child to continue to work hard and be proud of their achievements.

Communicating with our children can often be difficult task, especially as they become teenagers, but putting a real, daily effort into communicating to your child the love, caring and pride you have for him or her can only result in a stronger, more positive relationship.

Furman University receives $2.2 million bequest

By Vince Moore, Director, News & Media Relations

Furman University has received a $2.2 million bequest from the estate of the late Mary Frances Edwards Garrett to create an endowed scholarship fund for students who are interested in entering teaching and ministerial professions.

The Mary Frances Edwards Garrett and T. Lloyd Garrett Scholarship is named in honor and memory of Garrett, a 1937 Furman graduate, and her husband. The first scholarships will be awarded in the 2018-19 academic year.

"Furman is so grateful that Mrs. Garrett would remember her alma mater in such a generous and Garrett was a long-time high school teacher in Greenville County.

profound way," said Furman President Elizabeth Davis. "She was a great supporter of the university, and, as a highly respected teacher, she had a great impact on many young people and the communities she served. This bequest ensures that Furman students pursuing careers in teaching or the ministry will receive significant financial assistance, which is always among our top priorities."

Garrett, an education major at Furman who received her master's degree in 1947, was a lifelong resident of Fountain Inn. She was married to T. Lloyd Garrett, who died in 1995 and served as the executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Mary Frances Garrett (1916-2015) taught high school in Honea Path, as well as at Greenville, Hillcrest and Mauldin high schools. She was a member of Zetosophia, the academic honor society of Greenville Woman's College, which later became known as the Woman's College of Furman University. She was also a member of Delta Kappa Gamma honor society for women educators.

A longtime Furman supporter, Garrett also funded the Edwards-Garrett Gallery in the Melvin and Dollie Younts Conference Center on campus.

Garrett was a member of Fountain Inn First Baptist Church and the Fountain Inn Garden Club.

South Carolina earns financial reporting award for 29th consecutive year

Columbia - For the 29th consecutive year, S.C. Comptroller Richard Eckstrom's office has received a prestigious national award for the high quality of the financial information it prepares.

The accolade, a "Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting," confers special recognition on the state's 2016 comprehensive annual financial report (CAFR). Eckstrom's office produces the CAFR, which contains state government's year-end financial statements and related financial disclosures.

The Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada (GFOA) awards the Certificate of Achievement annually to state and local governments that produce excellent financial reports. GFOA is a nonprofit, professional association that encourages governments to issue their financial statements in an accurate, easy-to-follow format.

"The Certificate of Achievement is the highest form of recognition in the area of governmental accounting and financial reporting, and its attainment represents a significant accomplishment by a government and its management," the GFOA said in announcing South Carolina's latest award.

The association added, "The CAFR has been judged by an impartial panel to meet the high standards of the [Certificate of Achievement] program, which includes demonstrating a constructive 'spirit of full disclosure' to clearly communicate its financial story and motivate potential users and user groups to read the CAFR."

Continuing a streak that began in 1987, the S.C. Comptroller General's Office has earned this coveted award for 29 years in a row.

This record is increasingly notable because the Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB), which establishes governmental accounting standards and guidelines for the CAFR, continues issuing new requirements. One example is the new GASB 77 rule mandating disclosure of information about a government's tax abatement agreements used to encourage economic development.

Eckstrom advised in the preparation of the 1987 CAFR that was awarded the state's first Certificate of Achievement. At that time he was a certified public accountant with a major international accounting firm the state hired for assistance.

"The CAFR is an important transparency and accountability tool for state government," Eckstrom says. "It is studied by national bond rating agencies, our bondholders, and by financial analysts and others who monitor state finances."

Eckstrom credits the dedication and hard work of his CAFR team with extending the state's Certificate of Achievement record. "This award is a testament to their professionalism and dedication," he says.

South Carolina's CAFRs for each of the past 10 years are available on the Comptroller General's Office website at: <http://www.cg.sc.gov/publicationsandreports/Pages/CAFR.aspx>.

In addition to preparing the state's CAFR, Eckstrom's office monitors spending by state agencies to ensure they stay within their annual budgets set by the General Assembly; pays invoices on behalf of state agencies; and processes bimonthly payrolls for about 45,000 state employees.

Eckstrom is the first certified public accountant to serve as South Carolina's comptroller general.

Red Cross issues top summer safety steps for swimming, grilling & fireworks

Greenville – This summer many people will be swimming, firing up the backyard grill or enjoying fireworks, and the American Red Cross offers a series of steps everyone can follow to safely enjoy the holiday weekend.

“The summer season is a great time to relax and enjoy time with family and friends,” said Lisa Colby, executive director for the Red Cross of Upstate SC. “Regardless of whether you are relaxing at home or heading for a fun-filled weekend at the beach or lake, we want you and your family to be safe this summer season.”

WATER SAFETY TIPS

The following tips are layers of protection that will help people stay safe in, on and around the water:

1. Do your part, be water smart! Ensure that everyone in the family learns to swim well.
2. Adults: actively supervise children; stay within arm’s reach of young children and newer swimmers. And kids: follow the rules.
3. Don’t fool with a pool: fence it in. Enclose your pool and spa with four-sided, four-foot fencing and use self-closing, self-latching gates.

4. Don’t just pack it; wear your U.S. Coast Guard-approved life jacket – always when on a boat and if in a situation beyond your skill level. Inflatable children’s toys and water wings can be fun, but they are no substitute for a life jacket and adult supervision.

5. Swim as a pair near a lifeguard’s chair - everyone, including experienced swimmers, should swim with a buddy in areas protected by lifeguards.

6. Reach or throw, don’t go! Know what to do to help someone in trouble, without endangering yourself; know how and when to call 9-1-1; and know CPR.

FIREWORKS SAFETY

The best way to enjoy fireworks is to attend a public fireworks show put on by professionals. Here are five safety steps for people setting fireworks off at home:

1. Never give fireworks to small children, and always follow the instructions on the packaging.
2. Keep a supply of water close by as a precaution.
3. Make sure the person lighting fireworks always wears eye protection.
4. Light only one firework at a time and never attempt to relight “a dud.”

5. Never throw or point a firework toward people, animals, vehicles, structures or flammable materials.

GRILLING SAFETY

Every year people are injured while using charcoal or gas grills. Here are several steps to safely cook up treats for the backyard barbecue:

1. Always supervise a barbecue grill when in use.
2. Never grill indoors – not in the house, camper, tent, or any enclosed area.

3. Make sure everyone, including the pets, stays away from the grill.

4. Keep the grill out in the open, away from the house, the deck, tree branches, or anything that could catch fire.

5. Use the long-handled tools especially made for cooking on the grill to keep the chef safe.

RED CROSS APPS

People can download the all-inclusive Red Cross Emergency app which combines more than 35 emergency alerts to help keep the user safe. And there is a special mobile app - Monster Guard - designed for kids, teaching them to prepare for emergencies at home by playing an engaging game. Users can find the apps in smartphone app stores by searching for the American Red Cross or going to redcross.org/apps.

WHAT PEOPLE CAN DO

People can visit redcross.org/homefires to find out more about how to protect themselves and their loved homes from fire. They can become a Red Cross volunteer by visiting redcross.org/sc or calling their local Red Cross. They can also help by donating to Red Cross Disaster Relief by visiting redcross.org, calling 1-800-RED CROSS or texting the word RED-CROSS to 90999 to make a $10 donation. Donations to Disaster Relief will be used to prepare for, respond to and help people recover from disasters big and small.

Wofford posts strong APR scores from NCAA

Wofford College athletic programs received strong scores in the latest Academic Progress Rate (APR) results that were released by the NCAA on Wednesday. Overall, fourteen of the eighteen sports offered at Wofford were above the Division I average of 981 for all institutions.

Every Division I sports team calculates its APR each academic year. Scholarship student-athletes each semester receive one point for remaining eligible and one point for staying in school or graduating. Teams scoring below certain thresholds can face consequences intended to require additional focus on academics, including practice restrictions and playing season reductions.

Rates are an average of the past four years' performance. National aggregates are based on all teams with usable data at the time of analysis. In order to compete in the 2017-18 postseason, teams must achieve a 930 four-year APR. NCAA member representatives chose the 930 standard because that score predicts a 50 percent graduation rate for the team. Additionally, teams must earn at least a 930 APR to avoid penalties.

Four athletic teams from Wofford College received praise from the NCAA last week with public recognition awards for their latest APR scores. Teams recognized were baseball (997), men's golf (1000), rifle (1000), and women's basketball (1000). All four teams recognized were first in the Southern Conference in APR score, along with football. Teams that were second in the league were women's golf and women's tennis, while men's basketball, men's soccer and women's soccer were third in the conference.

Other teams and their multi-year scores include football (981), men's basketball (977), men's cross country (947), men's soccer (989), men's tennis (983), men's indoor/outdoor track (980), women's cross country (992), women's soccer (997), women's tennis (992), women's indoor/outdoor track (994), and volleyball (987).

APRs for each team, lists of teams receiving public recognition and those receiving sanctions are available online through the NCAA's searchable database.

Alex Hamilton named Men's Golf head coach

Wofford College has named Alex Hamilton as head coach of the men's golf program. Hamilton spent last season as head coach at South Alabama. He replaces Vic Lipscomb, who is retiring after 13 seasons as the head coach.

Prior to South Alabama, Hamilton spent three seasons as an assistant coach at the University of South Carolina. He helped the Gamecocks to three straight NCAA Championship appearances.

In 2016-17, he led the Jaguars to a sixth place finish at the Sun Belt Conference Championships. On the season, South Alabama had five top-five performances while placing among the top 10 in all but the opening event of the year. Freshman Rasmus Karlsson earned second team All-Sun Belt honors.

"We are pleased to introduce Alex Hamilton as head coach of the men's golf team," said Richard Johnson, Director of Athletics. "During our search, one of the names that kept coming up was Alex's. He has strong connections in the South Carolina golf community and has all the attributes we were looking for in a leader for this program. We look forward to working with Coach Hamilton."

"I am extremely excited for the opportunity to coach the men's golf team at Wofford," said Hamilton. "The Terriers have a strong tradition and the chance to lead such a great program is something that I am looking forward to. Wofford has a track history of producing professional players such as William McGirt and the recruiting base in the Carolinas is one of the best in the country."

During his three seasons as an assistant on the Gamecock staff, he helped coach three individuals who earned All-America accolades and a trio of all-Southeastern Conference selections as USC won 12 tournaments with nine players picking up medalist honors. The program finished among the top five at an NCAA Regional each of those seasons to advance to the national championship, where they would move on to the final day of stroke play and end up among the top 15 on each occasion. In 2016, the Gamecocks advanced to match play for the first time since the format was adopted in 2009.

South Carolina had a 286.58 scoring average in 2015-16 and placed among the top five nine times, which both stand second in the program's record book. Carolina won four tournaments on the season — including three events in the spring — before going on to record a second-place finish at the NCAA Tuscaloosa Regional. Matt NeSmith was a first-team All-America selection, also receiving PING All-Southeast Region and first-team All-conference recognition. Keenan Huskey was also named All-region, while the team would end up 10th in the final Golfweek/Sagarin rankings.

USC's 2014-15 squad had 10 top-five finishes, surpassing the mark recorded in Hamilton's first year on the staff. That included earning five tournament titles as Carolina would go on to end the campaign ranked sixth in the final Golfweek/Sagarin ratings. NeSmith became just the second Gamecock to claim medalist honors at the SEC Championship, winning by a six-stroke margin with a school-record 14-under-par 196 total, as both he and Will Starke were chosen first-team all-league while adding PING all-Southeast Region recognition; the duo were named All-Americans by both Golfweek and PING.

During his first season on the staff, Hamilton helped the Gamecocks earn three tournament championships and tie a then school record with nine top-five performances. Will Murphy earned All-America honors after tying for 15th place at the tournament and NeSmith collecting first-team all-region and second-team All-SEC accolades.

His efforts in recruiting helped the Gamecocks secure commitments from eight top-100 players, while off the course USC had 29 individuals named to the SEC Academic Honor Roll and eight recognized as Cleveland Golf/Srixon All-America Scholars by the Golf Coaches Association of America.

In addition to coaching duties both in competition and at practice, Hamilton was responsible for assisting with recruiting, helped oversee team workouts, handled NCAA compliance paperwork, and aided with oversight of the program's budget. He also served as tournament director for the Camden Collegiate Invitational.

Hamilton joined the coaching ranks as an assistant at Mercer during the spring 2013 semester, where helped the program have two individuals earn an invitation to an NCAA Regional for the first time in school history.

He received his degree in economics and real estate from South Carolina in 2005 after earning four letters as a member of the golf team. In addition to collecting second-team All-SEC honors as a junior, he was twice selected a GCAA All-America Scholar-Athlete and made the SEC Academic Honor Roll three times. The Gamecocks earned an invitation to an NCAA Regional all four of his years, including advancing to the NCAA Championship when he was a sophomore.

Upon graduation, Hamilton competed on several professional tours including playing in a pair of PGA Tour events during the 2010 season. In six-and-a-half years, he participated in more than 100 tournaments, picking up 31 top-10 finishes highlighted by a pair of victories on the eGolf Tour.

Hamilton, a native of Aiken, and his wife Kristin, have one daughter, Hope. His father, Jim, was a two-year captain and four-year letterwinner for the Gamecock golf program as well.

Don't let your wireless bill ruin your big trip

(StatePoint) Travel can be rife with inconvenience, from delayed flights to lost luggage and more. And the high cost of staying connected via mobile devices is an additional headache for a growing number of travelers, especially those with international adventures ahead.

This summer travel season, T-Mobile and research firm GfK released a new study that shows Americans' reliance on their smartphones, and how potentially pricey travel could be for those who don't understand the costs of international roaming.

The study found that 69 percent of Americans take their smartphone when they leave the country and travelers are willing to make extreme tradeoffs for connectivity and the ability to maintain contact with friends and family.

Indeed, more than half (55 percent) of Americans would rather lose their luggage than their smartphone, and two thirds (66 percent) of Americans would trade their preferred seat on a plane to ensure they have their cell phone when traveling abroad.

While people plan for the foreign country and 66 percent are worried about getting lost. With the right carrier, and access to unlimited data, your phone can break down these barriers for you! Make sure you have the apps you need and a plan that lets you utilize those apps for everything from maps and navigation to translation technology.

- Use Wi-Fi when you can. If you don't have a data friendly travel plan, put your phone in airplane mode and only use Wi-Fi when it's available. You won't be alone. Staying connected is such a concern that one in five (21 percent) smartphone users reported going to extreme measures, like eating at a restaurant they didn't like, just to use the Wi-Fi, or even illegally pirating strangers' Wi-Fi connections!

So, take your family somewhere exciting this travel season and don't forget your smartphones! You'll be glad you have them while traveling, particularly if you take steps to keep your bill in-check.

cost of hotels, airfare and other travel expenses, they can sometimes underestimate the cost of connectivity while traveling if they are not careful.

To help you prepare for the busy travel season ahead, T-Mobile is offering tips to make sure you and your family can stay connected without coming home to an outrageous wireless bill.

- Know your plan. Shockingly, six in 10 survey respondents (59 percent) confessed to not knowing what their international plan rates were. Considering that the average week abroad for a family of four can be more than $7,000 if you don't plan ahead, this could be a major setback when you return from that fun vacation!

In order to avoid bill shock, seek out a plan that helps eliminate unexpected expenses. For example, T-Mobile ONE is designed with passport-holders in mind, and automatically includes texting and data at no additional cost in more than 140 countries and destinations. And if you travel to Mexico and Canada a lot, you'll be happy to know that high-speed data in those countries is included. To learn more about the plan offerings, visit t-mobile.com.

- Use data to your advantage. Fifty eight percent of survey respondents reported being worried about not knowing the language in a
