Pandemic aid for foster youth & alumni available from federal sources

Young people between the ages of 14 and 26, who are currently or were previously in foster care, are eligible for emergency Pandemic Relief Funds through the federal Consolidated Appropriations Act. More than $4.1 million will be available to youth in South Carolina to be distributed by the South Carolina Department of Social Services' (SCDSS) Chafee/ETV Program. The program works to help young people in the successful transition to adulthood.

Currently in South Carolina, there are 3,847 youth potentially eligible for a share of this targeted stimulus support. The potential benefits for eligible youth include funds to assist with basic needs like food, access to technology, and other expenses. The ETV award is also temporarily raised to up to $12,000 per academic year for higher education. Assistance and resources are also available to help eligible youth get into or maintain a home. These are just some of the benefits.

More information on this one-time funding opportunity can be found on the agency's website at <https://dss.sc.gov/child-well-being/foster-care/chafeeetv-program-independent-living/>. GSP recognized as Best Small Airport in North America by customers in 2020

Greenville-Spartanburg International Airport (GSP) has been recognized as the Best Airport in North America among airports serving 2-5 million passengers annually by the 2020 Airport Service Quality awards.

Airports Council International (ACI), the world's most prominent industry association for airports, revealed the recipients of 2020 Airport Service Quality awards recently, highlighting the world's best airports as judged by their customers.

The Airport Service Quality program is the world's leading airport customer experience measurement and benchmarking program. The ASQ Departures program measures passenger satisfaction across 34 key performance indicators.

"ACI's Airport Service Quality awards represent the highest possible accolade for airport operators around the world," ACI World Director General Luis Felipe de Oliveira said. "This year more than any other, the awards recognize those airports that have listened to their customers and adapted services and experiences they offer to meet changing needs and expectations under very trying circumstances.

GSP was recently recognized as the Best Small Airport in North America by the 2020 Airport Service Quality awards.

"GSP takes great pride in providing our customers with a superior airport experience", said Dave Edwards, president and CEO of the Greenville-Spartanburg Airport District. "In recent years, the airport has received numerous awards of excellence from industry organizations for our restaurants, retail stores, amenities, and marketing activities. However, we are humbled to be recognized with such a prestigious award by the customers who have chosen GSP to meet their air travel needs."

Since March 2020, GSP has proactively implemented numerous safety measures to protect the traveling public, employees and business partners through the airport's "Prepare for Takeoff" program. GSP encouraged social distancing, provided additional hand sanitizing stations, installed Plexiglass shields in high-traffic areas, increased cleaning and sanitization protocols in the terminal, encouraged the use of touchless technologies and required face masks at the airport.

Despite the pandemic's significant impact on the travel industry in 2020, GSP continued to survey its passengers to determine their needs, perceptions, and desires. The airport used this research to prioritize safety measures, the re-opening of food, beverage, and retail outlets in the terminal building and the addition of new non-stop flights to Houston, Jacksonville, Orlando, and Tampa.

Spartanburg Philharmonic embraces change in 2021-22

Spartanburg Philharmonic recently announced several changes for the upcoming 2021-22 season, most significant that Music Director Stefan Sanders's tenure with the orchestra will conclude at the end of the 2020-21 season.

President of the Board Chip McLeod stated, "Music Director Stefan Sanders's tenure as Spartanburg Philharmonic's Music Director will conclude at the end of June 2021. During his time with us, Stefan has contributed to the continuation of our mission to enrich, inspire, and educate through live performances of high-quality music. He stands with his predecessors in leading the orchestra in high caliber performances of our established series, continuing our history in Spartanburg and the surrounding area. Please join us in wishing him well."

Executive Director Kathryn Boucher said, "We thank Stefan for his work over the past three seasons as a member of our storied orchestra family and celebrate his passion for classical music."

"The past three years have been memorable," said Maestro Sanders. "It has been an incredible experience to bring the gift of music to the Spartanburg area, to get to know the people of this community and to celebrate with them the beauty of our art form. It has been my honor to become a part of this almost 100-year-old orchestra."

Sanders will have completed three seasons with the Spartanburg Philharmonic when his contract ends. He continues in his music directorships of the Central Texas Philharmonic and the Fayetteville Symphony Orchestra.

The upcoming live 2021-22 Spartanburg Philharmonic season will feature invited guest conductors. It's long-standing and popular Zimmerli, Espresso and Bluegrass series continue. Of special note is a collaboration with Ballet Spartanburg for the first time in over 20 years for The Nutcracker; the world premiere of a work by Spartanburg Philharmonic Composer in Residence, Peter B. Kay; performances of Brahms's Symphony No. 2; the Philharmonic premiere of Mahler's Symphony No. 1; and an all-John Williams program; the Espresso Series Silent Movie Double Feature of Charlie Chaplin's The Tramp & Buster Keaton's One Week; and performances by the Sam Bush Band and Powerhouse acoustic duo Rob Ickes and Trey Hensley. Full details on the 2021-22 season, including concert programs, invited guest conductors, and guest soloists will be announced soon.

Almost a century old, Spartanburg Philharmonic has its roots in the 1895 May Festival, the precursor of the South Atlantic States Music Festival founded in 1898, and one of only four such festivals featuring orchestras in the United States at that time. Recognized as a pillar of creativity, inspiration and entertainment, Spartanburg Philharmonic is a modern orchestra with a strong foundation in traditional and contemporary music.

As a firm proponent of diversity and inclusion, the Philharmonic is dedicated to creating innovative and exhilarating experiences through memorable performances of well-known and rarely played works by female composers, composers of color, and both established and contemporary composers, for all members of the Spartanburg community and beyond.

An arts organization whose mission is to enrich, inspire, and educate through live performances of high-quality music, the Spartanburg Philharmonic partners with a variety of community, health, and education organizations to provide opportunities for all ages and abilities to enjoy.

Soup! It's not just for winter

My favorite comfort meal, no matter what the season, is a vegetable-packed bowl of homemade soup. Soup is a simple, unapologetic dish that is a culinary classic with primitive roots.

Anthropologists who study old pottery and other ancient remnants of our society have discovered that soup may be even older than originally believed. Scientists at Harvard University have found 20,000-year-old pottery that shows evidence of being exposed to fire. No one knows for sure what was heated, but there are many reasons to believe it was the first recipe for a broth cooked up by our human ancestors.

Fast-forward several thousand years, and there is more information available about the one-pot meal called "sop," which referred to a piece of bread eaten in broth. By the 17th century, the word "soup" was being used to describe a pottage, or broth. What we know today is that soup, in all its flavors, has humble beginnings. But plain or fancy, complicated or straightforward, it's an ingenious way to have a complete meal in one bowl.

Soup, in its many international versions, is an edible ambassador of its origin. From rich, spicy Mexican soups to light Asian broths, soup is as distinct as the people and the language of the countries from which it comes. If most Americans were asked to say the first word that comes to mind when they hear the word "soup," it would be "chicken" or "beef." This reflects our distinct history and what was available to our ancestors.

The early origins of soup consisted of the boiled carcass of an animal. As the early settlers began to have success agriculturally, vegetables were added to the pot. The slaves of the American south, who had little in the way of meat, harkened back to their African roots and were inventive in making soups and stews with vegetables of all kinds. Gumbo, a word from West African dialects meaning okra, originated this way. The soup consisted of a variety of meats, thickened with okra or file, a powder made from ground sassafras leaves.

My favorite soup recipes showcase seasonal vegetables in a richly flavored broth. Although some soups are cold, most are hot, and whether it's served in fall, winter, spring or summer, soup is a wonderful way to create a simple, satisfying meal.

The beauty of soup is that it can be created from whatever you have on hand.

It's a great way to use leftovers or make the most of a full cup of rice or macaroni, a few carrots or potatoes, or a mixture of greens. It's also an incomparable way to get the most out of meat trimmings or to just be luxurious and cook a chicken for no other reason than to make the best chicken soup ever.

Chris Norfolk wins provost's award for teaching with technology

Chris Norfolk, a senior lecturer in the Department of Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering, is winning the Provost Award For Outstanding Teaching With Technology.

When the pandemic hit, Norfolk made quick use of technology to adapt to social distancing. He created computer and 3D-printed models to help teach his students and keep them on track to graduation.

Robert Jones, executive vice president for academic affairs and provost, said the award is well deserved.

"Dr. Norfolk did an excellent job of using technology to enhance his teaching at a critical time for the University and its students," Jones said. "The high ratings he has received from students and the laudatory remarks from them and his colleagues are a testament to the effectiveness of his efforts. I offer him my deepest congratulations on this award."

For those familiar with Norfolk's teaching, it's just the latest way he has stood out. He has long been known as one of the most dedicated educators in the Department of Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering, said the chair, David Bruce.

"Chris helps students learn chemical engineering concepts after hours and on weekends, he takes class materials to injured students in the hospital and he creates custom educational plans for students with significant handicaps or disabilities," Bruce said. "His care for the 'whole student' is beyond comparison."

Spencer Temples, who has taken three classes with Norfolk and serves as a teaching assistant under him, said the senior lecturer has demonstrated a pattern of helping his students in any way he can.

"As a testament to this, our group emailed him in a panic at the end of last semester on a Sunday afternoon and he met with us via WebEx 10 minutes later," Temples said. "Going above and beyond all expectations has simply become normal operating procedure to him."

Among Norfolk's duties is running the department's learning labs for juniors and seniors.

"We're one of the only labs I know of that is doing labs in-person for everyone who wants to come and do it," he said. "That requires us to be flexible in what we are doing and how we can keep people safe."

For those who can't attend in person, Norfolk came up with an alternative.

He worked with two students to build 3D, computer-aided design models of lab equipment, similar to those used in industry. Students are able to rotate the interactive models as they learn how to plan experiments.

Norfolk said he will continue using the models in the course, even when the pandemic subsides and students return to the lab.

Among the courses Norfolk teaches is CHE 3190, a course on engineering materials. A major topic in the course is the arrangement of atoms to form crystals and how those arrangements affect material properties.

It can be difficult to visualize, so Norfolk created models that he 3D printed. He started off using his personal 3D printer, but it quickly became clear it was too big of a project to do at home.

Norfolk worked with the Watt Family Innovation Center to complete the printing in its Makerspace.

"I ended up borrowing all of their 3D printers while they were shut down for winter holiday to create approximately 500 individual pieces which I allow students to borrow while they are registered in the class," he said.

When students lose or break a model, Norfolk asks them to replace it. That means students have to learn how to 3D print independently, an added bonus, Norfolk said.

Each model Norfolk has created so far is one color and shows one type of atom. But now he is also creating models of alloys that contain several colors representing different types of atoms, such as when carbon is added to iron to make steel. On that project, he is enlisting the help of Machining and Technical Services in the College of Engineering, Computing and Applied Sciences.

For Norfolk, teaching at Clemson is a way of paying back the University for helping lay a foundation for his life. Clemson is where he received a Bachelor of Science in chemical engineering in 2000 and met his wife, Noelle, who received a Bachelor of Science in graphic communications and now works in real estate in Greenville. The couple now have a 13-year-old daughter, Ava, who is in 8th grade.

After Clemson, Norfolk attended Notre Dame, where he received a Master of Science and Ph.D., both in chemical engineering.

He worked as a postdoctoral researcher at the U.S. Army Research Laboratory in Maryland before returning to the Upstate, where he worked from 2005-13 as a program director for the South Carolina Research Authority.

He has been teaching at Clemson since 2006, starting as an assistant adjunct professor. Norfolk made the jump to full-time lecturer in 2014. He credited the Office of Teaching Effectiveness and Innovation with helping him improve his teaching.

Norfolk said what he likes best about teaching is the relationships with students and helping them find their directions in life.

"Before I joined the University, I was in the defense industry, and that fit really well for me because my dad was military and his dad was a World War II vet," he said. "I really enjoyed feeling like I was helping and part of something important. I think teaching is the same way. I feel like I'm saving the world by training the best generation of engineers possible."

City of Greenville recently awarded $20,000 TD Green Space Grant

TD Bank Group (TD) and the Arbor Day Foundation have awarded the City of Greenville a $20,000 TD Green Space Grant. Greenville was among only 20 cities in the U.S. and Canada to receive grants, which are awarded annually for tree planting, maintenance costs and educational activities. The City will use its grant to plant 50 native trees in the Greater Sullivan and Nicholtown neighborhoods. In addition to the tree plantings, the City will also work with the Greater Sullivan Neighborhood Association and the Nicholtown Neighborhood Association to host tree giveaways and educational events. The educational events will include tree planting demonstrations led by the City's arborist, community clean-up activities and informational workshops about the importance of trees and the City's efforts to protect and refurbish Greenville's tree canopy.

The City identified Greater Sullivan and Nicholtown as prime project areas based on three factors. First, an examination of the results from a recent U.S. Forest Service flyover, which revealed that both neighborhoods are suffering from tree canopy loss. Over the past 10 years, more than 20% of Greater Sullivan's and nearly 7% of Nicholtown's tree cover disappeared. Second, both neighborhoods were recently the focus of an extensive street tree inventory. Completed in September 2020, this GIS-based inventory provides a shovel-ready plan that will thoughtfully inform the project's tree planting efforts. Finally, the City has community centers in each neighborhood, which will serve as headquarters for community engagement activities related to the project.

Reversing tree canopy loss not only strongly aligns with City Council's stated priorities but also with citizens' priorities. Community input received during the recent planning process for GVL2040, the comprehensive plan that will shape Greenville's growth and evolution over the next two decades, prioritized open space and the environment as a top issue. "As we strive to address the issue citywide through our commitment to planting 1,000 trees annually on public property and initiatives like Rooted in Greenville, an ongoing public awareness campaign to encourage residents to plant trees on private property, this grant award will help reverse the problem at a neighborhood level."

5 tips to help protect seniors from financial scams

(StatePoint) Social isolation among seniors is not only linked to numerous negative health consequences like depression and cardiovascular disease, but it's also a primary contributing factor in financial exploitation and scams. Estimated to affect one in 10 older adults and cost billions annually, the threat of elder financial fraud is pervasive, and especially so right now.

With seniors more isolated than ever due to the pandemic and stimulus checks being sent to millions of Americans nationwide, experts suggest that seniors and their families be extra vigilant.

"Scammers look for key time periods where money and private financial information are in motion. Not only is IRS fraud one of the most common and successful types of scams that exists, as a general rule, additional money equates to additional fraud," says Ron Long, head of Aging Client Services at Wells Fargo.

"Scammers are banking on the fact that many seniors are apart from families and friends due to COVID-19. When someone is alone, physically or socially, they often miss out on the added benefit of a second pair of eyes and ears."

Compounding the risks associated with isolation is the number of seniors who feel their chances of falling victim to a financial scam is unlikely. According to a recent Wells Fargo study conducted by The Harris Poll, 69 percent of all seniors age 60 and above believe they're not likely to be susceptible to a financial scam, despite nearly all seniors (97 percent) acknowledging that older people are very or somewhat susceptible to becoming a victim. When asked about their peers, the poll found that 47 percent of all seniors knew someone who had already fallen victim to a scam.

"The results indicate what most of us want -- the ability to age relatively unaffected from the realities associated with aging," says Dr. Marti DeLiema, a gerontologist and consultant for Wells Fargo's Aging Client Services. "The problem is that when someone doesn't feel they're at risk, they're unlikely to take precaution."

To better protect seniors from elder financial fraud and abuse, consider these tips from Wells Fargo:

1. Don't wait for a crisis. Seniors should speak with trustworthy family members about financial plans, as well as consult them when something doesn't feel right.

2. Stay up-to-date. Seniors and families should draft and periodically update legal documents such as wills, healthcare directives and powers of attorney.

3. Automate. Seniors should consider signing up for direct deposit, automatic bill pay and large transaction alerts.

4. Prioritize security. Seniors should keep checks and credit cards locked away, and update passwords when information is compromised. They should also carefully review credit reports, account statements and bills for unusual activity or charges.

5. Be aware. Families can help seniors stay aware of the latest and most common scams, as well as help them identify potential red flags, including:

- Alleged emergency situations involving family members, often grandchildren, requiring immediate payment.

- Lottery winnings requiring upfront cash payment for taxes and other fees.

- Phone calls from alleged government agencies, such as Social Security, threatening arrest or penalties.

For more information on fraud prevention, visit wellsfargo.com.

"Aging resiliently requires planning ahead and not shying away from difficult conversations," says Long. "We have to talk with our older loved ones about the risks, the warning signs and prevention -- and we have to keep talking."

S.C. Ports Authority awards Spartanburg Community College Foundation $2,500 for CDL program simulation

Spartanburg Community College received a $2,500 grant from the SC Ports Authority to support the college's commercial driver's license program. The grant will fund equipment purchases to enhance the college's CDL simulation lab by allowing all students to view the simulation programs while one student operates the simulator.

Randall Parnell, SCC's CDL training coordinator, says "This grant allowed us to purchase additional equipment that gives students on the outside of the simulator the opportunity to observe someone training inside the simulator. This additional observation time offers an enhanced learning experience for the students, and we have already seen an improvement in student test scores because of this enhancement."

The original 2020 purchase of the state-of-the-art CDL simulation system was made possible through a Workforce Opportunity grant from the U.S. Department of Labor. The equipment allows students to experience a wide variety of situations that cannot be accurately reproduced in training, such as extreme weather, dangerous inclines, or heavy traffic driving and reduces damage to truck clutches during shifting training.

Transportation employees continue to be in high demand all over the country, and the COVID-19 pandemic has proven that truck drivers are essential to our nation's well-being. Moments in time
THE HISTORY CHANNEL

- On May 22, 1455, the battle of England's War of the Roses begins in St. Albans, 20 miles northwest of London. The forces of House of York, whose badge was a white rose, defeated the red-rose House of Lancaster. Both families claimed the throne and the war would stretch on for 30 years.
- On May 23, 1934, famed fugitives Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker are killed in a police ambush near Sailes, Louisiana. They died in a two-minute fusillade of over 150 bullets. The Barrow Gang was believed responsible for the deaths of 13 people, including nine police officers.
- On May 21, 1955, then-unknown singer Chuck Berry pays his first visit to a recording studio and cuts "Maybellene." The song became a No. 1 R&B hit and a top 5 pop hit. It helped that DJ Alan Freed played the record for two hours straight during his WINS radio show in New York City.
- On May 17, 1965, after a two-year investigation, the FBI declares the supposedly pornographic lyrics of "Louie Louie" to be officially unintelligible.
- On May 18, 1980, Mount St. Helens, a volcanic peak in southwestern Washington, violently erupts. The massive blast killed 57 people and leveled nearly all vegetation as far as 12 miles away.
- On May 19, 1997, a 3-year-old boy dies of avian influenza in Hong Kong. Before the outbreak was controlled, six people were dead and 1.6 million domestic fowl were destroyed. The virus mutated and caused 62 more human deaths in Asia by 2005.
- On May 20, 2007, Fox's long-running animated series "The Simpsons" airs its 400th episode. "The Simpsons" debuted in December 1989 with a special Christmas show, "Simpsons Roasting on an Open Fire." Its success paved the way for other adult-oriented animated series, notably "King of the Hill," "The Family Guy" and "South Park."

VETERANS POST
by Freddy Groves

Still Waiting on Records?

Weeks ago, I wrote about the National Personnel Records Center (NPRC) being mostly closed due to COVID-19 with staff unable to process requests for information. I warned that unless you have one of a very short list of essential reasons for asking, your request is going back on the pile to be handled later.

Now, the Department of Veterans Affairs is going to work with the National Archives and Records Administration to get COVID-19 vaccines to on-site staff so that they can return to work to process compensation claims. The VA is going to provide enrollment specialists and medical staff with vaccines provided by the Department of Health and Human Services.

The short list of requests the NPRC is able to handle are true emergencies: records information so veterans can get medical treatment, burials and homeless veterans trying to get into homeless shelters.

And, no, in answer to one Missouri veteran who asked if he could just show up in St. Louis and do his own research. All National Archives research rooms are closed. All museums are closed. No tours, no school visits, nothing involving the public strolling in.

If you have a genuine emergency, you'll need to fax them Standard Form 180, Request Pertaining to Military Records. The NPRC's website says its fax machines are down, but here are alternate fax numbers to send your emergency request: 314-801-0764, 314-801-0762, 314-801-0569, 314-801-0984, 314-801-9195. Include an email address.

On the off chance the records you need have already been digitized online, check www.archives.gov, click Veterans' Service Records. Unfortunately, at this point, all records digitizing has come to a halt.

One has to wonder about the true size of the records request backlog. A letter signed by 185 members of Congress gave the number as 480,000. It also mentions the $15 million given to NPRC to help get the backlog cleared, the emergency number that isn't answered and the call center that isn't staffed.

What did we get for that $15 million?

Petition

PETITIONER would respectfully show unto the Court:
1. Kenneth A. Aldrich (the "Decedent") died testate in Pinellas County, Florida on October 15, 2015, leaving a Last Will and Testament dated July 16, 1996 (the "Will"), a copy of which is attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibit A.
2. Decedent was not a resident of Spartanburg County, South Carolina but died owning an interest in real property located at 205 Lexington Road, Landrum, Spartanburg County, South Carolina (the "Property"). Petitioner is informed and believes that no probate estate has been administered for Decedent in any jurisdiction.

3. Decedent was predeceased by his wife, Patricia A. Aldrich and his adult daughter, Michele A. Loescher. Decedent was survived by his adult children, Respondents Rhea Aldrich, Moira A. Bowman, and Daniel Aldrich, and his adult grandson, Richard Loescher, the only child of Michele A. Loescher. Decedent has no other predeceased children.

4. Decedent's predeceased wife, Patricia A. Aldrich is named as primary Personal Representative in Decedent's Will, and his predeceased daughter, Michele A. Loescher, is named as first alternate Personal Representative. Decedent's daughter Rhea Aldrich is named as second alternate Personal Representative but she prefers to let Petitioner serve as Personal Representative since he resides in Spartanburg County. Petitioner is not named as Personal Representative in the Will but has applied to the Spartanburg County Probate Court to be formally appointed as Personal Representative of Decedent's estate.

5. Despite diligent efforts, Petitioner has been unable to locate the original Will of Decedent. Decedent provided a copy of his Will to his daughter, Michele A. Loescher, and her husband after he and his wife executed their wills. Petitioner is informed and believes that the Decedent kept his original Will in a safe deposit box which was emptied by his daughter, Respondent Moira A. Bowman, after his wife's death.

6. Petitioner is informed and believes that Decedent did not intend to revoke or destroy his Will but that the original Will was lost, misplaced, or destroyed by a third party without the Decedent's knowledge.

7. Petitioner filed an action for the Probate of the Will previously. Petitioner experienced difficulty serving Moira A. Bowman and Daniel Aldrich. Copies of attempts of service are attached hereto as Exhibit B and incorporated herein by reference. Petitioner intends to serve Moira A. Bowman in this matter via publication.

8. The Aldrich Family Trust U/A Dated July 16, 1996 ("the Trust"), a copy of which is attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibit C, is the only devisee of Decedent's Will. Respondent Rhea Aldrich is the currently serving trustee of the Trust. The Trust was amended on October 13, 2004, a copy of which is attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibit D. The Trust, as amended, states that the beneficiaries of the Trust are Rhea Aldrich and Richard Loescher, equally, if they survive Michele A. Loescher and Charles R. Loescher. Rhea Aldrich and Richard Loescher did survive Michele A. Loescher and Charles R. Loescher.

9. The Property was deeded to Kenneth R. Aldrich, Patricia A. Aldrich and Michele A. Loescher by deed dated July 3, 1990, a copy of which is attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibit E.

10. Michele A. Loescher died on October 21, 2004 and her one-third interest in the Property was deeded to Charles R. Loescher, a copy of which is attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibit F.

11. Patricia A. Aldrich died on November 26, 2008 and her one-third interest in the Property was deeded to the Trust, a copy of which is attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibit G.

12. Rhea Aldrich, as Trustee of the Trust, deeded a one-third interest in the Property (that being the one-third interest in the Property deeded to the Trust from Patricia A. Aldrich's estate) to Charles R. Loescher on December 15, 2015, a copy of which is attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibit H.

13. The Trust is the only devisee of the Decedent's Will. Should the Court grant the admission of the Will to Probate, the Personal Representative would deed the Decedent's one-third interest in the Property to the Trust. The Trust beneficiaries would be Petitioner and Rhea Aldrich. Rhea Aldrich has confirmed she does not want any interest in the Property and shall deed any share of the Property she may inherit to Petitioner.

14. Charles R. Loescher died on August 22, 2019 and Petitioner is his sole heir. Therefore, Petitioner owns two-thirds of the Property currently.

15. Upon confirmation that Rhea Aldrich shall deed any share of the Property she may inherit from the Trust (after transfer from Decedent's estate) to Petitioner, Petitioner desires to market and sell the Property since Petitioner moved to the Property solely to take care of his father, Charles R. Loesch, for the years preceding his father's death. Petitioner currently has a buyer who is willing to pay fair market value for the Property pending Court approval of the admission of Decedent's Will to Probate such that the proper chain of title of the Property may be evidenced.

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays that this Court:

a. Issue its Order admitting the photocopy of Decedent's Will as the Decedent's Last Will and Testament and duly appoint Richard D. Loesch as Personal Representative of the Estate of Kenneth A. Aldrich without the requirement of a bond.

b. For such other and further relief as this Court deems just and proper.

This is a source from which a grower gets new planting material that is identical to its "mother" plant. In choosing a plant for this purpose, pick one you like, that also has strong roots, a strong stem, a strong stem, is resistant to pests and fungi and matures steadily and easily. Pruning the branches of mother plants regularly encourages new branches to grow that you might replant in your garden, sell or give as gifts. Pruning the top keeps the mother plant from growing too large. Keep in mind that for some types, cutting a stem near its end may cause two new stems to grow! Some types grow their own "babies."
