Racing for a cause: Gibbs Cancer Center employee Chad Dingman is training for an upcoming Ironman triathlon to raise money for cancer patients.

Training for Ironman, aiming to raise money for cancer patients

By Baker Maultsby

Early in the mornings, Chad Dingman runs long distances, bikes across the county and swims laps at the YMCA.

He has two goals: to complete an Ironman triathlon and to raise money for Spartanburg Regional Foundation's Cancer Special Needs Fund.

The race will take place on Sept. 29 in Chattanooga, Tenn. An Ironman event involves 2.4 miles of swimming, 116 miles of cycling & a 26.2-mile run.

"I've done a half Ironman, so this is a new challenge," Dingman said.

Many Ironman events promote a specific charity. Dingman credits his daughter with suggesting that he raise money to support Gibbs Cancer Center patients.

"I said, 'Hey, I think you're onto something. We should do this,'" he said.

As director of oncology support and the Center of Integrative Medicine at Gibbs Cancer Center & Research Institute, Dingman works closely with clinical navigators and social workers who support patients along their treatment journey.

He sees firsthand the barriers some patients face when it comes to treatment and recovery, including financial hardships. The Cancer Special Needs Fund helps assist with these barriers and needs.

It is not uncommon for the side effects of treatment to force patients to take extended time away from work. Financial challenges often follow.

"We started the Cancer Special Needs Fund, because we noticed a growing need for crisis financial support," Dingman explained.

The fund can be used to help patients afford the cost of medications or to pay for transportation to and from physician appointments. In some cases, the fund helps patients pay utility bills or buy groceries.

The cause gives Dingman added motivation as he's working out on these hot summer days.

"My training is really starting to ramp up. The heat isn't helping - I have to get up early and do it," he said. "But the opportunity to raise money for the Cancer Special Needs Fund is exciting. It's nice to see how the fund is used to directly benefit our patients."

Why do men often have a hard time building friendships?

From the American Counseling Association

As kids we all had close friends. Maybe they were classmates, neighbors, or sports teammates. But studies now show that for many women those friendships often carry on throughout their lives, while for men, not so much.

Researchers say one of the reasons for this is that men and women relate differently to those of the same sex. Men tend to have friendships with other men that are based on shared interests such as their profession, sports or perhaps a hobby. Women, on the other hand, tend to be more sharing with other women of their feelings and emotions. Women learn early on that it's okay to share what's happening in their lives with their friends. Men, instead, are often more comfortable with a "manly" image, perhaps covering up what they're really feeling and experiencing. Men often believe it's not right to discuss their personal matters with another man, while most women think that such sharing builds friendship.

Studies have shown that early in life men are usually so caught up in work, career building and being more involved with their children than their own fathers were that they don't believe they can make time to foster close friendships with other men.

Women, however, even though they may also be pursuing career goals, working just as hard, and raising children, seemed to have learned that there's real value in maintaining friendships with their female friends, and often have closer relationships because they're based on emotional connections, rather than simply shared interests.

For many men this lack of close male friends can become a problem, even a source of loneliness and depression, later in life, especially after the loss of a spouse. But experts advise it's never too late to build or rebuild male friendships.

The key is for a man to simply get out and meet more people. It might mean taking courses at a local college or senior center. Joining a gym or the Y can let someone see the same people on a regular basis. Hospitals, museums, animal shelters and similar organizations are always looking for volunteers. And simply getting in touch once again with old friends can often result in a surprisingly warm welcome.

Studies have shown that creating and maintaining friendships may even play a role in longevity. With a little effort it can be a very rewarding for a man to build friendships.

Michelin partners with PlayStation's Gran Turismo

PlayStation has selected Michelin as "official tire technology partner" for its Gran Turismo franchise, the best and most authentic driving game, the companies announced on August 23rd at the PlayStation Theater on Broadway.

Under the multi-year agreement, Michelin also becomes "official tire supplier" of FIA Certified Gran Turismo Championships, with Michelin-branded tires featured in the game during its third World Tour live event also in progress at PlayStation Theater throughout the weekend.

The relationship begins by increasing Michelin's visibility through free downloadable content on Gran Turismo Sport available to users by October 2019. The Michelin-themed download will feature for the first time:

- * A new Michelin section on the Gran Turismo Sport "Brand Central" virtual museum, which introduces players to Michelin's deep history in global motorsports, performance and innovation.

- * Tire technology by Michelin available in the "Tuning" section of Gran Turismo Sport, applicable to the game's established Michelin has recently been selected by PlayStation as the 'official tire technology partner' for its Gran Turismo franchise.

hard, medium and soft formats.

* On-track branding elements and scenography from many of the world's motorsports competitions and venues.

In 1895, the Michelin brothers entered a purpose-built car in the Paris-Bordeaux-Paris motor race to prove the performance of air-filled tires. Since that storied race, Michelin has achieved a record of innovation and ultra-high performance in the most demanding and celebrated racing competitions around the world, including 22 consecutive overall wins at the iconic 24 Hours of Le Mans and more than 330 FIA World Rally Championship victories.

Through racing series such as FIA World Endurance Championship, FIA World Rally Championship, FIA Formula E and International Motor Sports Association series in the U.S., Michelin uses motorsports as a laboratory to collect vast amounts of real-world data that power its industry-leading models and simulators for tire development. Tire technologies proven on the track eventually transfer to road-going performance vehicles like many of those on screen in Gran Turismo.

Michelin will share this knowledge openly with Sony in the first co-development exchange of its kind, aiming to provide Gran Turismo players with a new dimension of strategy and competition linked to tire selection and performance, drawing ever closer to the pit-level decisions that race teams evaluate on every track.

"This relationship is a perfect match, connecting the most successful virtual driving experience with the global leader for high-performance tires," said Scott Clark, executive vice president of the Americas region for Michelin Group, responsible for the Company's global automotive, motorsports and experiences business segments.

"Michelin leads the industry in tire simulation," Clark said. "Michelin develops and tunes virtual tires on virtual vehicles before the tires are even produced, with extremely accurate translation to real tires on real vehicles. Combining this technology with real motorsports data will enable Sony to bring more tire strategy into the game, and in the longer term, also helps more people understand the critical role that Michelin tires play in optimizing vehicle performance."

"The FIA Certified Gran Turismo Championships is founded on a technical base established through 25 years of automotive physics simulation within Gran Turismo, and the unique automotive culture it has achieved over the years. With its passion for motorsports and solid engineering knowledge, having MICHELIN, the world's leading tire brand, come on board as an official tire supplier of The Championships and technical partner helps us continue our vision of bridging the gap between virtual and real racing. The partnership also further highlights these events as the future of motorsports," said Kazunori Yamauchi, series Producer and President of Polyphony Digital Inc.

Furman listed in 2020 Princeton Review's 'Best Colleges' guide

By Vince Moore, Director, News & Media Relations

Furman University has once again been selected for inclusion in the newest edition of The Princeton Review's college guide, "The Best 385 Colleges."

Among the featured lists the publication cited as being especially important to prospective students and their parents, Furman ranked No. 3 for "Most Politically Active Students" and No. 12 in the category of "Most Accessible Professors."

"We chose the 385 colleges for this edition as our 'best' overall, academically, based on data we gathered in 2018-19 from more than a thousand school administrators about their schools' academic programs and offerings," said Robert Franek, The Princeton Review's editor-in-chief and lead author of the book.

The book's 62 ranking lists are based on its surveys of 140,000 students attending the 385 colleges in 2018-19 and/or the previous two academic years. The company does not rank the 385 schools in numerical order. Only about 13 percent of America's 3,000 four-year colleges made the list.

Furman is also regularly included in other Princeton Review lists each year, including "Best Value Colleges," "Top Green Colleges" and "Best Schools for Making an Impact."

"The Best 385 Colleges is available online.

How to update home lighting to be easy on the eyes (StatePoint) If you ever experience eyestrain, tired itchy eyes, blurry vision or headaches, it may be time to give your home a lighting makeover.

Problems caused by bad lighting can be intensified by using it for longer, something most households should keep in mind, as 74 percent of Americans in a recent survey, commissioned by lighting manufacturer, Signify, say they spend eight hours or more a day under artificial light.

The World Health Organization predicts that 50 percent of people will be short sighted by 2050.

Unfortunately, there's a disconnect between people's concerns about eye health and the steps they are taking to support eye comfort at home. While 80 percent of U.S. consumers in the same Signify survey say they believe good lighting is beneficial for eye health, a 2017 Signify study found only 21 percent take that into account when purchasing light bulbs, and only 29 percent consider light quality.

For many consumers, the Improving the comfort of your eyes could be as simple as changing a light bulb. Source: Signify disconnect may stem from overwhelming choice when it comes to home lighting and from not having enough information to make an informed decision. Luckily, manufacturers are taking steps to improve lighting quality and help guide consumers in their search for comfortable light that's easy on the eyes.

For example, Signify has defined specific lighting quality parameters, which take into account factors such as flicker, strobe, glare and dimming effects that can affect one's eye comfort. Consumers can look for an EyeComfort label on product packaging to identify the Philips LED light bulbs that meet the standards for quality lighting that's easy on the eyes.

To further protect your eyes and avoid discomfort, try the following:

- If you are in front of screens (computers, smartphones, televisions) for extended periods of time, close your eyes for 20 seconds or more, every 20 minutes, to allow them to relax.

- If outdoors, wear sunglasses with 100 percent UV protection to help protect your eyes from the sun. It's helpful to keep a pair in your bag or car, so they are always nearby. Also consider spending a bit more time in natural light and less in artificial light.

- Exercise and strengthen your eyes by incorporating simple, yet effective eye yoga exercises into your daily routine for a few minutes daily.

- Schedule regular check-ups with an eye specialist, who will be able to detect the first signs of any eye condition or disease.

While certain eye conditions are beyond one's control, why not do what's in your power to protect your family from eyestrain and related discomfort? The simple DIY project of upgrading your home lighting can mean happier, healthier eyes and better quality of life.

South Carolina must act wisely with $350 million surplus

By Richard Eckstrom, S.C. Comptroller

I'll start with the good news: I recently closed the books for the fiscal year that ended June 30, and even after some additional "contingent" spending at year-end the state finished with $350 million in surplus revenues. Annual tax revenue totaled $8.8 billion, an increase of 8.6 percent over last year.

The state actually brought in a windfall of $755 million beyond what it had anticipated it would need to fund the $8.1 billion budget. But, not surprisingly, the General Assembly had already pre-committed to spend much of that windfall money.

First, there were the tax rebates. After one fortunate Upstate South Carolinian stepped forward in March to claim a nearly $1.5 billion lottery jackpot, state tax collectors skimmed off their $61 million share in state taxes. Lawmakers then decided that, should there be excess revenue after the 2019 budget was funded, part of any surplus revenue would be used to send $50 tax rebate checks to over one million income tax return filers right before this coming Christmas.

I suppose it's always a good thing when politicians return money to taxpayers, even if it's only $50... and even if most taxpayers would probably rather get real, longer-term tax relief instead of a small, one-time rebate. But theirs is hardly an efficient exercise; the Legislature approved $6 million -- about $6 per tax return filer -- to send out the checks.

Interestingly, taxpayers will be getting money back in one hand only to pay it back with the other to cover state retiree pension payments. More on that later.

Second, lawmakers approved $344 million in "supplemental" spending from any "leftover" revenue. This approval covers nearly 50 items of varying necessity -- such as $7 million for a purely local Cultural and Arts Center, $6.5 million for "park revitalization," $5 million for "professional services" for the Department of Administration, $2 million to renovate a state-owned boat landing on James Island, $1.2 million for advertising to promote tourism, $1 million for the "state aviation fund," and numerous facility maintenance projects.

Sizing up these supplemental expenditures can be difficult, because their approval usually receives minimal scrutiny, very little debate (but great legislative horse trading), and their descriptions in the budget tend to be very vague. (See "professional services" above.) That's a problem in itself. But what really concerns me about the supplemental spending is what it doesn't include: any money to cover our mounting pension fund shortfall.

And therein is the bad news: State lawmakers continue to minimize our looming pension crisis, which I firmly believe is the most critical issue we face.

I've often used this space to warn about South Carolina's pension woes, but just to recap: Our state employee retirement systems face a $24 billion unfunded liability -- meaning we currently owe $24 billion more in retirement benefits than we'll have to cover them. Closing that gap is going to require some very, very tough decisions.

It's going to have to happen sooner or later. But the longer we ignore the problem, the more dire our options will be.

Across the country, states that have amassed and ignored large unfunded pension liabilities like ours have had to take drastic measures to deal with them -- steep tax hikes, substantial cuts to vital services, sharp reductions in the hard-earned pensions of public retirees, and even municipal bankruptcies. That's what happens when problems are swept under the rug.

So in announcing the $350 million surplus, I urged the legislature to apply at least some of it toward paying down our unfunded pension obligations -- just as I did when I announced a revenue surplus a year ago. Last year's plea fell on deaf ears. Let's hope this time is different.

Certainly, more money alone won't fix our retirement system problems. Believe me when I tell you, broad structural reforms are needed to truly establish a sound footing for our retirement system. But every bit we pay now will help us deal with some of the trials and pain ahead.

_, Plaintiffs, vs.
Robert Steven Davis, Jr., and Rodney Daniel Jackson, a minor under the age of fourteen (14) years, Defendants.

through their undersigned attorney, would respectfully show unto the Court the following:

zens and residents of _ tiffs.

logical mother of the minor ried, having married on _ in __,

6. The Plaintiff __ is the stepparent of the minor child, Rodney __.

7. This is an action for a stepparent adoption, pursuant to S.C. Code Ann. §63 9-1110.
It is the desire of the Plaintiffs that the Plaintiff __ adopt the minor child, Rodney __, and they believe it is in the best interests oldie minor child that the Court grant the adoption. This Court has jurisdiction of the parties and subject matter of this action.

8. The Plaintiff __ does not know the identity of the biological father of the minor child. The Plaintiff __ was married to the Defendant the time the minor child, Rodney __ was born, and, therefore, the Defendant Robert Steven Davis, Jr. is the legal father of the minor child, Rodney __. However, Robert

Steven Davis, Jr. is not the biological father of said child. The Plaintiff __ and the Defendant Robert Steven Davis, Jr. were married on __, 2008, known that the Defendant not the biological father of

10. The Defendant Robert Steven Davis Jr.'s whereabouts are unknown. He was informed, through his parents, that the Plaintiffs were commencing this action to terminate his rights and allow the Plaintiff __ to adopt the child; his parents have informed the Plaintiffs that the Defendant Robert Steven Davis, Jr. does not want the Plaintiffs to bother him with this action, because he states that hi is not the father of the minor child and that he has nothing to do with the minor child.
Further, he would not allow his parents to provide his address to the Plaintiffs.

11. The Plaintiffs are informed and believe that the Defendant Robert Steven Davis, Jr.'s parental rights, if any,
to the minor child should be permanently terminated for willful failure to visit the child for a period of more than six months (South Carolina Code Section 63-7-2570(3)), and willful failure to pay child support for the minor child for a period of more than six ther because lie is not the biological father of the minor child.

Plaintiffs for the Plaintiff __ to adopt the minor child, and the Plaintiffs are informed and believe that it is in the minor child's best interests to be adopted by the Plaintiff

16. The Plaintiffs are informed and believe there is no property of value, real or personal, owned or possessed by the child.

17. The Plaintiffs are informed and believe there are no known prior Court Orders which affect the custody, support, or visitation of the minor child which are inconsistent with the relief requested herein.

18. Pursuant to S.C. Code Ann.
§63-9-1110, the Plaintiffs ask the Court to find that a home study and an accounting are not necessary, and further ask that the Court waive the waiting period set forth in S.C.
Code §63-9-750, because good cause exists to do so, as follows: this is a stepparent/relative adoption, and the child is a special needs child.

19. The Plaintiffs are informed and believe that no payments of money or anything of value has been made within the past five (5) years or agreed to be made in the future by or on behalf of the Plaintiffs to any person, agency, request this Court to appoint ters mentioned herein and to interests.

request this Court to approve the adoption of the minor child by the Plaintiff and to issue its Order granting the adoption of the minor child §63-9-750.

22. The Plaintiffs further request this Court hold these proceedings, papers, and hearings in full confidence as required in S.C. Code Ann. § 63-9-780.

23. The Plaintiffs respectfully requests the Court to order the child's birth certificate to be amended to reflect that the minor child is now the child of both of the Plaintiffs, and that the Plaintiffs are the parents of the minor child, pursuant to S.C. Code Ann. §63-9-790.

WHEREFORE, the Plaintiffs respectfully pray unto the Court:

1. That this Court issue its Order granting the adoption by the Plaintiff __ of the minor child, thereby establishing the relationship of parent and child among __ and said minor
child;

2. To declare from and after the date of the final adoption Decree that the minor child be considered for all legal purposes the child of both Plaintiffs;

3. That the minor child's birth certificate be amended to include the names of both of the Plaintiffs as parents, and to change the minor child's name to __.

4. That the Court appoint a Guardian ad Litem to protect the best interests of the minor child for the purposes of these proceedings;

5. To provide that there is
personal, owned or possessed by the child at the time of these proceedings;

6. To hold that there are no prior Court Orders which affect the custody, support, or visitation of the minor child which are inconsistent with this action;

7. To hold that no payments of money or anything of value has been paid within the last five (5) years or agreed to be paid in the past five (5) years by or on behalf of the Plaintiffs to any person, agency, or organization connected with the adoption other than attorney's fees, GAL fees, and Court costs;

8. To find that pursuant to S.C. Code Ann. § 63-9-1110, that it is not necessary for a home study to be conducted or an accounting to be filed, and that the waiting periods set forth in S.C. Code Ann. § 63-9-750 may be waived, because good cause exists for the requested relief;

9. To hold these proceedings in full confidence as required by S. C. Code Ann. § 20-7-1780;

10. For such other relief as this Court deems just and proper.

(Quiet Title)

25. The foregoing allegations of this Complaint are incorporated herein and re-alleged.

26. Upon information and belief, the afore described executions and sales of the Property were proper and complied with all relevant sections of the applicable Code of Laws of South Carolina in all material aspects; and, further, the time period during which those sales conducted in 1971 and 2005 may be challenged and set-aside has expired.

27. The duly assessed real property taxes for years 1961 through 1970, together with all penalties and costs, and thereafter the duly assessed real property taxes for year 2004, together with all penalties and costs, and thereafter the duly assessed real property taxes for year 2012, together with all penalties and costs, constituted first liens in all cases whatsoever upon the Property, which first liens attached at the beginning of the fiscal year during which the tax was levied, as provided in Section 12-49-10, Code of Laws of South Carolina. The aforementioned tax liens were senior to and took priority over all liens, and any liens on the Property were junior to and subordinate to the aforementioned tax liens.

28. Upon information and belief, Simpson is entitled to a judgment terminating any and all interest in the Property of Defendants, their heirs, successors and/or assigns or anyone or anything claiming through them, irrespective of the nature of that interest, and barring any future claims they may assert.

29. The Master-in-Equity for Spartanburg County, South Carolina should hear this case for final determination with direct appeal to the Supreme Court for the State of South Carolina.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Simpson prays of the Court for the following relief:
A. That any and all interest of Defendants, their spouses, heirs, devisees, successors, assigns, representatives and administrators and anyone or anything in the whole world claiming under them, irrespective of the nature of such claim, in and to the Property be terminated;
B. That Defendants be barred from asserting any future claims against the Property; and

C. That Simpson be awarded such other and further relief as this Court deems just and proper.
