Spartanburg County, Spartan Race partner for Carolinas Ultra, Beast, and Sprint Race Weekend

Spartanburg is once again partnering with Spartan Race for the Carolinas Ultra, Beast and Spring Weekend on Nov. 23 and 24.

"As the host community for a third-straight year of Spartan Races, Spartanburg looks forward to welcoming thousands of ultra-athletes to our great selection of authentic dining and entertainment venues, modern hotels and spectacular outdoor recreation opportunities," said Chris Jennings, executive vice president of the Spartanburg Convention and Visitors Bureau.

This year the races will be hosted at the Tryon International Equestrian Center, just over the North Carolina border on Nov. 23 - 24. The race had previously been hosted on land at Milliken & Company's global headquarters, near the USC Upstate campus, however that land is no longer available.

The courses at the Tryon International Equestrian Center will be suited for beginners and elites alike. The 3-mile Sprint with 20-plus obstacles is back, as is the Beast, a 12-plus mile course with more than 30 obstacles. New to the Carolinas Spartan Weekend this year is the 30-mile Ultra course, which features 60 obstacles and will be sure to test any Spartan Racer.

"The terrain at the Tryon International Equestrian Center allows us to bring the Ultra to the Carolinas this year, giving local and regional racers an additional challenge than in years past," said Garfield Griffiths, Spartan race director. "Spartanburg has been a great partner and host for Spartan over the last couple of years, and we have no doubt that will continue this year."

Registration and additional information on the Carolina Beast and Sprint weekend can be found at <https://www.spartan.com/en/race/detail/5077/sponsors>

S.C. Department of Commerce announces new Palmetto Sites designation

Columbia - The S.C. Department of Commerce recently unveiled the new Palmetto Sites program, which is designed to increase the inventory of marketable sites in South Carolina. As part of S.C.'s commitment to being 'Just right' for business, Palmetto Sites offers prospective industry partners access to an inventory of industrial sites that have been vetted to meet an individual project's needs.

In partnership with Site Selection Group, the Palmetto Sites program layers a technical site analysis with robust workforce and target industry data. The outcome of this comprehensive analysis provides a strategic development plan, prioritizing site development and marketing efforts for communities.

"Team S.C. recognizes that product development is key to being ready for business," said Secretary of Commerce Bobby Hitt. "The customized approach of the Palmetto Sites program will result in a plan that positions each property - and community - to be competitive and successful."

Palmetto Sites have verified critical information and are reviewed and evaluated in the following areas: property ownership and control, site characteristics, utility and transportation infrastructure and due diligence reporting.

Applications for the Palmetto Sites program are accepted twice a year. S.C. Commerce will launch a pilot round this fall before opening the program statewide in early 2020. For more information, visit <https://www.locatesc.com/PalmettoSites>

SCC President Henry C. Giles, Jr. receives S.C. Order of the Palmetto

For the past 56 years, Spartanburg Community College has been a driving force in Upstate economic and workforce development initiatives and in educating thousands of students of all ages and walks of life. SCC President Henry C. Giles, Jr., has been an integral part of that history, and today celebrates 50 years at the college. Although no longer in the classroom, Giles continues to make a difference in the lives of students, just as he did when first hired as a math instructor in 1969.

Giles' many contributions were recognized today at a celebration at the college's Downtown Campus where he was awarded the SC Order of the Palmetto on behalf of Governor Henry McMaster and received honors from the Spartanburg County Commission for Technical and Community Education. The SCC Foundation announced a new, privately funded scholarship established in Giles' honor.

SCC faculty and staff as well as Giles' family gathered at the annual "all college meeting," which kicks off the new academic year and is an opportunity for reflection on past accomplishments and future successes. Giles shared a state-of-the-college address as did Dr. Tim Hardee, president of the SC Technical College System. Hardee shared the system's efforts to remain affordable, accessible and relevant to the approximately 175,000+ South Carolinians who are educated and trained through credit and continuing education programs at the 16 colleges across the state.

In a surprise presentation by Mike Forrester, SCC's vice president of economic development, on behalf of Gov. McMaster, Giles was awarded the Order of the Palmetto. "It is my pleasure to award you the Order of the Palmetto, South Carolina's highest civilian honor, in recognition of your exceptional dedication to the people of our state," wrote Gov. McMaster in a letter to Giles. "From your outstanding leadership of Spartanburg Community College to your extensive involvement in civic affairs, you have demonstrated an uncommon commitment to the highest standards in all you do. Your passion for educational and workforce development opportunities in the Upstate has helped strengthen our economy, resulting in rewarding employment and brighter futures for individuals and families. You have made a positive impact throughout our state that will last for generations to come. We are fortunate to have you in South Carolina, and I thank you for all you have done to make the Palmetto State a special place to live, work, and learn."

Letters of support for the prestigious award also came from Spartanburg County Council, the Spartanburg County Legislative Delegation and Dr. Hardee.

SCC President Henry C. Giles, Jr.

Spartanburg County Council unanimously endorsed the nomination, sharing, "Spartanburg County has a strong partnership with Spartanburg Community College that produces positive results for the community. Henry is always willing to work together for a common goal. Henry is a strategic partner in Spartanburg County's economic development. The College has been instrumental and proactive in the economic development needs in a changing global environment ... We attest to the remarkably positive impact that Henry has had on Spartanburg County, as well as the State of South Carolina."

Jeffrey Horton, former chair of Spartanburg County Council, wrote, "It is my honor to recommend Henry Giles to be awarded the Order of the Palmetto. I have known Henry and worked with Henry on many projects during my tenure on County Council in Spartanburg. Henry's entire career has been dedicated to helping people of all ages enjoy a better life through his work in education. Henry is dedicated, hardworking, humble, and embodies the true meaning of the Order of the Palmetto."

Dr. Hardee recognized Giles' leadership as reaching beyond the Spartanburg region to include all of SC. "Mr. Giles has been instrumental in developing a partnership between the Heritage Golf Foundation and the SC Technical College System. His leadership on the statewide partnership agreement led to a commitment of over $400,000 from the Heritage Golf Foundation for the purpose of training mechatronics faculty members at all 16 technical colleges in SC."

Linda Hannon, chair of the SCC Foundation Board of Directors, presented Giles with a $59,550 check, establishing the "President Henry C. Giles Jr. Scholarship," in honor of Giles' service to the college and his devotion to students. Private contributions from past Foundation board members and Commissioners funded the schol-

Before being named the sixth president of SCC, Giles served as interim president as well as vice president and executive vice president of business affairs for 18 years. He was responsible for the financial management of the College during the majority of his SCC tenure. Giles was instrumental in facilitating the purchase of the Evans Building in downtown Spartanburg, now the SCC Downtown Campus, as well as the creation and expansion of the SCC Spark Center, an invaluable economic development tool for Spartanburg County. He also held college positions as program manager, vice president for development and vice president for academic affairs. Giles brought a tenacious fiscal responsibility to all endeavors, which resulted in the College receiving favorable audits and maintaining balanced budgets over the years, thereby positioning the College today to serve more than 6,000 students across five campuses throughout the three-county service area.

A native of Cowpens, Giles earned a Bachelor's of Arts degree in mathematics at Wofford College and a master of arts in teaching degree in mathematics at Converse College. Mr. Giles continued his educational pursuit by completing graduate work in higher education administration from Nova University in Florida and in management from the University of South Carolina. He was awarded an Honorary Doctorate in Education from the University of South Carolina Upstate and an Honorary Doctorate in Humanities from Wofford College. He has served as chair of the State Board for Technical and Comprehensive Education's Chief Business Officers Peer. Giles is also active in the local community, having served in leadership positions on boards and committees with the Spartanburg Area Chamber of Commerce, East Spartanburg Rotary Club, Spartanburg School District 7 School To Work, Spartanburg School District 3 Leadership Council & more.

School mornings don't have to be chaos

From the American Counseling Association

So what does the typical school morning look like in your house? Quiet conversation over a leisurely breakfast, everyone dressed and ready to depart on time, all their books, papers and lunch neatly packed and ready to go? No? Not quite? More like a minor riot with lots of stress? If so, it's time for a change.

There's no magic way to guarantee that the bedlam that marks those getting ready for school times in too many homes will totally disappear, but there are steps to take to help minimize the school-morning frustration, stress and anger.

You can start by not blaming the kids for all the problems. Make it clear that you're not happy with how you're acting (you know, that yelling and lecturing virtually every day). Tell them you want to change and you need their help in making it happen.

An important step is give the kids more responsibility. A kitchen timer, for example, is a great way to help young children finish that breakfast with time left to get dressed for school. For older kids, let them use an alarm clock, maybe on their phone, and have them agree to a "no-snooze-alarm" rule.

For both younger and older children there have to be consequences, discussed and agreed to ahead of time, if they don't stick to the time rules. They give up a favorite something if they slide back into the old ways. And you also need to set a consequence for yourself if you flip back into yelling and nagging to get them moving.

You can also make changes to move things along faster. No morning TV for starters and that cell phone can wait until after breakfast and getting dressed before it becomes the center of their lives.

Being more organized will also help. Have a designated place for backpacks and school books, and make sure they're in place before bedtime. School clothes get laid out the night before. Have a special in-box for school papers that need to be signed. If your child forgets to put the papers there after school, consequences should kick in.

There's no perfect cure to school morning craziness, but making the kids shoulder more of the responsibility, and giving them a system to help make things more organized, can not only make that morning rush more civilized, but can also provide skills that will help them throughout life.

Student from Greenville works with zoo animals in South Africa

By Tina Underwood, Contributor

Kate Stuart, a Furman University junior and Greenville resident, spent two weeks this summer in South Africa studying wildlife at Lory Park Zoo in Johannesburg, and through the experience, came closer to shaping her eventual vocation in the field of conservation.

She was part of a small group of volunteers selected to participate in a zoo medicine program through Loop Abroad, a study away organization that also operates in Thailand, Ecuador and Australia.

Working alongside conservationists and veterinarians at the accredited Lory Park Zoo, volunteers studied a variety of African animals, from lions and tigers to primates such as lemurs and gibbons, to understand how the animals' diets, enclosures and enrichments are designed to keep them physically and mentally healthy.

Stuart, a sociology major at Furman, originally planned to pursue a career in veterinary medicine, but through hands-on experiences in South Africa, her focus has shifted to conservation.

"I fell in love with the exotic flora and fauna of South Africa when I first went in 2017 following high school graduation," she said. "Since then, I've gone back two more times, and each year my passion for conservation deepens."

Stuart's first trips to South Africa took her to Limpopo province and Feracare Wildlife Centre, a facility mainly involved in the conservation of cheetahs, but which also houses impalas, kudus, blue wildebeests, zebras, giraffes, sables, antelopes, ostriches and various smaller species.

It was at Feracare that Stuart's fondness for big cats developed, and when she heard about the zoo medicine program through Loop Abroad, she jumped at the chance.

"Because this specific program was held at a zoo, I was able to encounter even more species than I had been exposed to before. My time spent there gave me such a respect for accredited zoos and animal sanctuaries," said Stuart. "There certainly are bad facilities out there that are not concerned for the well-being of the animals, but places like Lory Park and Feracare are the reason why so many species still survive."

The Lory Park Zoo is one of only six zoos in Africa accredited by the Pan-African Association of Zoos and Aquaria. Lory Park Zoo leads conservation efforts, such as research in black-footed cats and education programs in local schools, and the zoo has recently appeared in the news for providing radiation skin cancer treatment for a resident lion named Chaos.

"This is our tenth summer of providing engaging field courses around the globe, and we continue to be so impressed by our students and their eagerness to learn about the world around them and have a lasting, positive impact," said Loop Abroad Managing Director Jane Stine.

"By partnering with locally-run, leading conservation organizations, we help our students learn from the experts and understand the connection of conservation and culture, and we're always so proud to see what they go on to do after their study abroad experience."

Tips for creating the perfect home office

(StatePoint) With more people nationwide opting to create their own businesses or work for their employer remotely, the home office has become one of the most used spaces of the house, with many people spending more than eight hours a day in this room. If you're one of these people, the kitchen table just won't cut it if you're looking to get serious and organized.

To create a dedicated workspace that is beautiful, smart and functional, consider the following tips:

Tip 1: Design a space where you'll enjoy spending time. Simple touches like lighting, a bright touch of paint or a wide-open window, can help create an inviting ambiance, and so can the addition of certain accessories. Instead of opting for a simple ceiling light fixture, dare to add a pop of style and color with a new ceiling fan. Not only can this addition make your space more comfortable, it can elevate your décor, with the ceiling as the centerpiece. Options from Hunter Fan Company like the Norden or Hepburn can bring the Satin Copper trend from the kitchen to the office, while new finishes in some of the brand's fan favorites, such as the Cranbrook in Dove Grey or Blush Pink, will fit seamlessly into a bright and inviting space.

Tip 2: Add life. Add color and vitality to your home office with some plant life. Not only will you be improving indoor air quality, you'll be adding beauty to the space. To save precious desk-space, consider a few hanging planters, opting for plants that thrive indoors, such as spider plants or jade.

Tip 3: Don't forget function! As the wheels turn and your creative juices start flowing, nothing can be more distracting than a creaking ceiling fan or a light that just doesn't do the trick. A simple switch can make all the difference. While a desk lamp might solve your lighting problem, why not opt for a fixture that can solve both of those issues at the same time? Tech-savvy ceiling fan options from Hunter Fan Company like the Tunable White LED Dempsey, allow you to adjust the temperature of the light, ensuring your fan will operate quietly, keep you cool, and work as hard -- and as late -- as you do. With its dimmable remote, you can adjust the light temperature for your eyes, using warm white lighting for nighttime work and cool white lighting to perk you up in the morning. Such details will help any entrepreneur avoid distraction and create a more productive work environment.

Tip 4: Get personal. You may be doing business, but when it comes to decorating, it's time to mix in the personal. Items such as photographs of friends and family or reminders of previous accomplishments will bring you joy and help you stay motivated. Whatever you do, don't settle for completely bare walls!

Gone are the days of dark wood-paneling, moody lighting and rolodexes. Today's most effective home offices are brighter, more welcoming, and unite function with your personal style.

Do not lose hope: 5th annual Walk/Remembrance event September 7th

Polk County's 5th annual Walk/Remembrance event -- in recognition of mental health and suicide prevention -- will be Saturday, Sept. 7, 5:30 - 8 p.m. at Tryon's Harmon Field. This growing and well attended public event includes a casual stroll opportunity to carry a candle in support of someone's suffering and struggling with mental health issues. First names are provided to emcee to call out. The dove release is at 6:30 p.m. Doves are freed by a collaborative effort of children honoring those who have lost their battles, potentials lost, and survivors left behind to reconcile.

Last year, more than 500 people attended and came from several states as far away as the Midwest. It will usher in National Suicide Prevention Awareness Week, Sept. 8-14, and World Suicide Prevention Day, Sept. 10.

This event was initially organized through joint efforts of Mary Wells Prioleau and Tamara Black who joined forces with a sense of urgency and grief. Prioleau reached out to Black in February 2015, following the suicide of Black's brother, Mr. Jaheir Ford. Mr. Ford and Prioleau's daughter, Miss Caroline deRosset Wesley, were friends at Polk County High School. Miss Wesley had also died from suicide, October 2014. Miss Wesley had funds in her bank account that Prioleau wanted to spend in a manner honoring her. Prioleau and Black concluded that a wise investment would be an annual community focused event.

"Do Not Lose Hope" as the theme is particularly significant as Miss Wesley wrote these words moments before hanging herself. More than 1,000 Do Not Lose Hope T-shirts have now been given away, along with car decals and temporary tattoos with the same message.

The first year drew a crowd of approximately 100. Last year the event brought 500. Each year the event has grown tremendously with incredible community support and sponsorship. Last year, as result of Polk Fit, Fresh and Friendly (PF3) deciding to be a non-profit host, Polk County Community Foundation secured 100 percent funding and is again this year.

The third year, resource vendors were added to educate and raise awareness of all factors involved. A discernible distinction between Miss Wesley and Mr. Ford is that Miss Wesley had a diagnosed mental illness whereas Mr. Ford appears to have experienced a mental health crisis, Prioleau said. "Understanding the difference between mental health issues and mental illness is critical in providing proper support to all affected, ending the stigmas and saving lives."

"The most amazing aspect of this event is the diversity among participants and attendees affirming that mental health issues know no boundaries," Prioleau said. "Race, religion, culture, gender, age, socio-economics: are all represented."

"Our goal is reaching the masses, ending stigma and making our best effort to ensure healthy, safe communities for our loved ones, neighbors and ourselves," she said. "This is not a 'them' issue. It's 'us' -- all of us."

This year, the event is solely funded by the Polk County Community Foundation. It is being organized by Polk Fit, Fresh and Friendly (PF3), a coalition of local agencies that promote health and wellness in Polk County. Prioleau is an at-large board member of PF3, serving as an appointee to the Polk County Mental Health Commission. "I really must thank the Foundation and PF3 for stepping up to make this happen," she said.

"The Polk County Community Foundation is constantly asking about the needs and wants of our community," the Foundation's President and CEO Elizabeth Nager said.

"When one of our committees met with all of the counselors at Polk County Schools, we learned more about urgent needs in the area of mental health. As a result of that meeting, the Foundation provides funding for additional resources identified by the school counselors to support their work and looks for other ways to fund mental health solutions in our community. Donors have contributed to the Unrestricted Fund at the Foundation to support the evolving needs and wants of our community such as the Walk/Remembrance event at Harmon Field. We appreciate all the volunteer hours and PF3's efforts to organize this needed event."

"PF3 considers mental health to be a major health concern for Polk County," the agency's Executive Director Haley Suskauer said. "It is our hope is that bringing the resources of the community together, we can continue to shine a light on this problem. We share in Mary's passion to openly understand mental health, mental illness, and suicide; and to end fear, judgement, and discrimination. This annual coming-together shows we are not alone. More importantly, it shows that people who have these issues are not alone either. We are here to help."

Using the 2018 Polk County Community Health Assessment identifies mental health as the #1 priority, Prioleau said. The statistics show 284 people served by an area mental health program; 13.7 percent of Polk adults self reported having greater than seven days of poor mental health in the past month, with 5.2 percent of those not having received care. Polk County had 18 deaths related to unintentional poisoning between 2009 and 2013. In Polk County, 8.1 percent of the adults indicated they are dissatisfied with life.

The Walk/Remembrance will start at 5:30 p.m. at Harmon Field, and attendees will be greeted with free food being cooked by high school athletes, free

T-shirts, and various community agencies that will have information tables. Also, children's games will be on-going, Polk County School Superintendent Aaron Greene will be the event's emcee for the fifth year, providing a special selection of inspirational music will play as people walk around the track in remembrance of a lost loved-one. Attendees can give the first name of a suicide victim to Greene, who will announce the names to the public. Photographs of victims can also be posted and shared on a special wall. Attendees may speak publicly and share in their experience. At 6:30 p.m., live doves will be released, as they are a symbol of hope.

"I believe strongly in raising awareness and promoting discussion on the mental health issues that confront so many of our young people and community members of all ages," Greene said. "The Walk/Remembrance allows us to honor loved ones who lost their battles and to lean on each other as we search for answers and solutions. Perhaps just as important, it helps create productive dialogue around the issue and removes the stigma that prevents many people from bringing these issues to light. Sadly it affects all of us. I have lost students, family members, and friends in the community. Many people deal with depression and anxiety daily as the hope for a better existence. So doesn't it make sense for us to get together and remind everyone we can that we are here for them and not to lose hope. I have great respect for Mary Prioleau, Tamara Black, and all the folks who work so hard to make this event special. I feel fortunate to be a small part." "It is very moving and inspiring event on many different levels," Prioleau said. "I've seen people in wheelchairs make a lap around the track. They carry candles and comfort each other. We hear the names being called out; see pictures; we hear music that has special meaning. There's a lot of sharing. There are some sad moments, but most of all there is a feeling of hope, that you are not alone in your grief or struggles. That is really what this Walk/Remembrance is all about. It is about the living and how we can go forward, coping with mental health issues, mental illness, or suicide that has touched our lives. Personally, I think this is something that my daughter and Tamara's brother would be proud of us for."

18. Pursuant to S.C. Code Ann. §63-9-1110, the Plaintiffs ask the Court to find that a home study and an accounting are not necessary, and further ask that the Court waive the waiting period set forth in S.C. Code §63-9-750, because good cause exists to do so, as follows: this is a stepparent/relative adoption, and the child is a special needs child.

19. The Plaintiffs are informed and believe that no payments of money or anything of value has been made within the past five (5) years or agreed to be made in the future by or on behalf of the Plaintiffs to any person, agency, or organization connected with the adoption, other than attorney's fees, GAL fees, and Court costs.

20. The Plaintiffs are informed and believe that it is necessary to appoint a Guardian ad Litem for the minor child, and respectfully request this Court to appoint one to inquire into all matters mentioned herein and to represent the child's best interests.

21. The Plaintiffs further request this Court to approve the adoption of the minor child by the Plaintiff and to issue its Order granting the adoption of the minor child pursuant to S.C. Code Ann. §63-9-750.

4. That the Court appoint a Guardian ad Litem to protect the best interests of the minor child for the purposes of these proceedings;

5. To provide that there is no property of value, real or personal, owned or possessed by the child at the time of these proceedings;

6. To hold that there are no prior Court Orders which affect the custody, support, or visitation of the minor child which are inconsistent with this action;

7. To hold that no payments of money or anything of value has been paid within the last five (5) years or agreed to be paid in the past five (5) years by or on behalf of the Plaintiffs to any person, agency, or organization connected with the adoption other than attorney's fees, GAL fees, and Court costs;

8. To find that pursuant to S.C. Code Ann. § 63-9-1110, that it is not necessary for a home study to be conducted or an accounting to be filed, and that the waiting periods set forth in S.C. Code Ann. § 63-9-750 may be waived, because good cause exists for the requested relief;

By deed dated April 16, 2016 and recorded in Deed Book 111-Z, Page 992 in the Office of the Register of Deeds for Spartanburg County, South Carolina the Forfeited Land Commission of Spartanburg County conveyed the Property to Simpson.

24. The duly assessed real property taxes as herein described, together with all assessments, penalties and costs constituted a first lien in all cases whatsoever upon the Property, which first liens attached at the beginning of the fiscal year during which the taxes were levied, as provided by Section 12-49-10, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1976, as amended, the aforementioned tax liens were senior to and took priority over all liens, and any liens on the Property were junior to and subordinate to the aforementioned tax liens.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF (Quiet Title)

25. The foregoing allegations of this Complaint are incorporated herein and re-alleged.

26. Upon information and belief, the afore described executions and sales of the Property were proper and complied with all relevant sections of the applicable Code of Laws of South Carolina in all material aspects; and, further, the time period during which those sales conducted in 1971 and 2005 may be challenged and set-aside has expired.

27. The duly assessed real property taxes for years 1961 through 1970, together with all penalties and costs, and thereafter the duly assessed real property taxes for year 2004, together with all penalties and costs, and thereafter the duly assessed real property taxes for year 2012, together with all penalties and costs, constituted first liens in all cases whatsoever upon the Property, which first liens attached at the beginning of the fiscal year during which the tax was levied, as provided in Section 12-49-10, Code of Laws of South Carolina. The aforementioned tax liens were senior to and took priority over all liens, and any liens on the Property were junior to and subordinate to the aforementioned tax liens.

28. Upon information and belief, Simpson is entitled to a judgment terminating any and all interest in the Property of Defendants, their heirs, successors and/or assigns or anyone or anything claiming through them, irrespective of the nature of that interest, and barring any future claims they may assert.

29. The Master-in-Equity for Spartanburg County, South Carolina should hear this case for final determination with direct appeal to the Supreme Court for the State of South Carolina.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Simpson prays for the Court for the following relief:

A. That any and all interest of Defendants, their spouses, heirs, devisees, successors, assigns, representatives and administrators and anyone or anything in the whole world claiming under them, irrespective of the nature of such claim, in and to the Property be terminated;

Tips for parents to help teens make the most of doctor's visits (StatePoint) The transition from childhood to adolescence is a complex time for kids, but it's also a complex time for you, and you may find yourself unsure how to give your children more independence and when to stay involved. But when it comes to doctor's visits, medical experts emphasize the importance of empowering teens to talk to their doctors one-on-one.

"During routine doctor visits, it's important for adolescents to feel comfortable discussing their health care needs with their physicians," says Dr. Maria Trent, chair of the American Academy of Pediatrics Section on Adolescent Health. "Often, it is only during confidential, one-on-one conversations that teens are able to get the information and resources that they need to be healthy and safe."

When teens and young adults aren't sure if what they tell their doctors is confidential, they are less willing to discuss sensitive topics or may skip care altogether, suggests research published in the Journal of Adolescent Health. This is especially true for adolescents who report engaging in risky behaviors or report experiencing psychological distress, meaning those who need care the most may not be seeking it from their doctors.

You, your teens and their doctors should work together to ensure that confidential, one-on-one care is a part of every visit.

In an effort to increase the number of adolescents and young adults receiving preventive services, and to help you support your teen's journey towards independence and responsibility, here are some tips developed by the Adolescent Health Consortium, a collaborative effort between the American Academy of Pediatrics, American Academy of Family Physicians, the Society for Adolescent Health and Medicine, and the American Congress of Obstetricians and Gynecologists:

- Understand the benefits of one-on-one time between adolescents and doctors and make it a priority. Confidential care is good for teens' health. If one-on-one time isn't offered or encouraged during the visit, consider volunteering to leave the room.

- Prepare your teen for one-on-one time with their doctors by explaining its purpose and benefits, and encouraging them to come to the visit with a list of questions to have answered. Let teens know that it's their bodies, their health, and their life, and that they should feel empowered to get the information they need. Explain how patient confidentiality works, so teens feel comfortable addressing any health concerns they have.

- Talk to teens about healthy relationships, positive choices, social media, as well as potentially sensitive topics, such as substance use and sexually transmitted infection prevention, gender identity and sexual orientation and more. Regular communication at home can lead to greater trust and a bigger chance that teens will open up about health concerns.

More parent resources and tips can be found at healthychildren.org.

Experts say that confidential, one-on-one care can help teens make the most of their doctor's visit. As a parent, you can actively promote discussions between doctors and patients that will allow teens to get the care they need.
