Director of Elementary and Middle Level Education

Tuesday evening, March 10, the Spartanburg School District 2 Board of Trustees approved the administration's decision to name Deana Watson as the Director of Elementary and Middle Level Education. Kim Ashby currently serves in this position. Mrs. Ashby has announced that she plans to retire in June.

Watson is a Chesnee native with nearly 3 decades of service as an educator in her home community. Presently, Watson is the Principal of Chesnee Elementary School, but she has also worked as a teacher's assistant, teacher, and assistant principal.

"As a product of Spartanburg District 2, it is with great honor and enthusiasm that I accept this position," Watson said. "There is a long list of Spartanburg District 2 leaders that have helped me over the past twenty-eight years, and now I have the opportunity to do the same. I have learned firsthand that the strength of our district lies not only in our strong academic, athletic and arts programs but also in relationships. In partnership with our community, our D2 Family is strong, we make differences in the lives of students, and we help prepare our young people for bright futures."

Take a walk on the calm side Spartanburg church, local physician offer meditation mindfulness to reduce stress

In addition to physical illness, the novel coronavirus COVID-19 is stressing out the world. To help reduce the amount of stress in Spartanburg, John Simmons, M.D., will conduct meditation and mindfulness sessions at Central United Methodist Church-Spartanburg's Central Park Tuesdays and Sundays at 5:30 p.m., starting Sunday, March 28.

Dr. Simmons, the Church's lay leader, is certified as a Mind Body Skills Trainer by the Center for Mind Body Medicine in Washington, DC. In the past 12 years, he has led dozens of workshops using mindfulness to help patients with cancer, chronic pain, and post traumatic stress, in addition to people who suffer from anxiety and mild to moderate depression.

The sessions will be held outdoors at the Church's Central Park where there is a walkable meditative labyrinth and spacious seating. Because of the large two-acre outdoor space - conducive to social distancing - the Church received governmental clearance to conduct these sessions.

These sessions will be free and open to the public. However, if attendance is deemed too high for safe social distancing, people will have to wait in their cars or at a safe distance until they can be admitted to Central Park.

"Dr. Simmons is to be commended for his willingness to offer this service to the community," The Rev. Tom Norrell said. "He has taught this sort of stress-reduction program many times at places like Wofford College. Now, in this time of great need, he's offering it to the public in the Church's Central Park, which we built about two years ago. It is the perfect location. It is wide open so people can space themselves out. There's plenty of parking, especially in the city's adjacent parking garage. I'm especially gratified that he'll be using the labyrinth we built. For centuries, labyrinths have been used by people seeking answers, peace, and the love of God. It can be simply beautiful to walk the labyrinth alone and find inner peace."

Central United Methodist Church - Spartanburg, Spartanburg's first and oldest church, is located at 233 N. Church St., Spartanburg. Central Park, located behind the Church, is best accessed via N. Liberty St. by way of E. Saint John St. or E. Daniel Morgan Ave.

For more information, please call the Church at (864) 582-7263.

USC Upstate and College of Charleston announce dual-degree nursing partnership

The University of South Carolina Upstate and the College of Charleston recently announced they will partner to offer an innovative, dual-degree program that will enable students at the College to earn two degrees in five years, one in biology and a Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) from USC Upstate's Mary Black School of Nursing. Third-year biology students who have completed a set of required prerequisite courses with a minimum cumulative and pre-requisite science GPA of 3.0, will be invited to apply for the fast-track program beginning in Fall 2020.

"We've developed a pathway for College of Charleston biology students to transition into USC Upstate while identifying high-caliber students who are interested in graduating from the Mary Black School of Nursing," said Dr. Shirleatha Lee, dean. "A lot of the students who go to the College of Charleston for their biology degree are from the Upstate area, so this is an opportunity for some of them to return home to finish their degrees and work in the medical centers that serve their communities."

Approximately 70 percent of the nurses

The new dual-degree program will enable students to earn two degrees in five years, a Bachelor of Science in Nursing from USC Upstate and a biology degree from the College of Charleston.

employed by Spartanburg Medical Center, for example, are graduates of the Mary Black School of Nursing. The school touts a very high placement rate for graduates, with nearly 90 percent of students passing the rigorous National Council Licensure Examination (NCLEX) on their first attempt.

Students who take part in the program will be assigned a faculty advisor in the College of Charleston's biology department who will monitor their progress until they make the transition to USC Upstate. Staff advisors on both campuses will also assist students to ensure they are meeting the requirements of the program.

According to a recent study by the U.S. Health Resources and Services Administration, South Carolina is one of four states in the nation facing a nursing shortage expected to exceed 10,000 positions by 2030.

"I've spoken to nearly a dozen chief nursing officers at hospitals across the region," said Lee. "The message they share is the same: The nursing shortage is real, it is pervasive, and if left unaddressed, it will negatively impact the health of the state in the next decade."

"We welcome this collaboration with the College of Charleston, which will enhance the educational experiences for students at both campuses and equip them with career-ready skills that are in high demand in our state," said USC Upstate Provost Clif Flynn.

Don't take the fun out of sports for the kids

From the American Counseling Association

Warmer weather is approaching and with it increased opportunities for organized outdoor sports activities. For most kids it's a chance to be active, have a good time with friends, enjoy competition and, hopefully, to have fun.

Unfortunately, some parents don't handle those sports opportunities as well as their kids. Most of us have seen news stories, or maybe even witnessed, unseemly parental behaviors at kids' sporting events, ranging from verbal abuse of referees and coaches to physical altercations between parents.

Such behavior comes when parents make their child's sporting activities so important that their emotions override their judgment and common sense. Hopefully, your reactions at your children's sporting events doesn't run to violence, but there are other indicators that help indicate if sports are playing too important a role in a family.

One such indicator is evaluating how much of the family's life revolves around children's sports. Have your children not only been "pushed" into playing sports but also to train extra hard and to excel at the chosen sport? While the child may not want to disappoint the parent and tries to meet expectations, doing so is often at a price for the child. He or she may be practicing hard, but is it at the expense of school work and other activities?

When kids try their best but end up falling short of a parent's expectations, any resulting negative or critical reaction from the parent can lower the child's self-confidence and self-esteem and can ensure that playing the sport really isn't fun.

While parents want their children to do well, it crosses a line when you find that you experience mood swings related to your child's success or failures in sports. If you reward your child when he or she has done well but criticize or tease that same child when his or her performance hasn't met your expectations, it's a sign that there may be a problem. It's also a problem when a family's schedule revolves totally around a child's sports activities, especially if it shortchanges other family members.

If you find yourself too emotionally involved in your child's sports successes and failures, and unable to change, consider talking with a professional counselor specializing in family counseling. Getting a healthy emotional balance between sports and your parenting will benefit you and your child and let your child truly enjoy his or her healthy sporting activities.

Greenville-based Premier Medical Laboratory Services first commercial lab validated for COVID-19 testing

Greenville – Premier Medical Laboratory Services (PMLS), an industry leading diagnostic laboratory, headquartered in Greenville, recently announced that they are now validated for COVID-19 testing. The laboratory is currently increasing its testing capacity of 1,000 tests per day with plans to reach 28,000 per week in the coming weeks. Now available to hospitals and physicians offices throughout the United States, the test is developed under CDC guidelines for patient testing under the FDA’s Emergency Use Authorization (EUA).

Developed at PMLS’s 40,000 sqft COLA and CLIA regulated laboratory, results of this molecular diagnostic test are anticipated to be provided within 24 – 48 hours upon lab receipt of the testing sample. Lead times may extend due to volume. Assisting with PMLS’s testing capacity and quick turn around of results is their use of OnGen, a cloud-based Laboratory Information System (LIS) which allows testing orders to be entered and communicated directly to laboratory instruments. Expedited detection of the virus will enable further efficiency in response time to employ the appropriate courses of action for containment of the virus.

“We are proud of our team for working diligently around the clock so that we could attain validation

Premier Laboratory Services recently became the first commercial laboratory in South Carolina to be validated for COVID-19 testing.

status and increase access to testing, which is urgent at this time,” Kevin Murdock, Founder of Premier Medical Laboratory Services said. “Our lab is at the forefront of the most advanced technology and science available, providing cutting edge diagnostics to help flatten the curve of this global pan-

According to recent statements by the FDA, rapid detection of COVID-19 cases in the United States requires wide availability of diagnostic testing to control the emergence of this rapidly spreading, severe illness. The World Health Organization has urged all countries to test every suspected case. “We have not seen an urgent enough escalation in testing, isolation and contact tracing, which is the backbone of the response,” WHO Director-General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus said.

Premier Medical Laboratory Services’ COVID-19 test is a part of their comprehensive respiratory pathogen test. It is developed to determine the causation for symptoms that a patient may be experiencing, as COVID-19 can exist as a co-infection with other viruses and bacteria. These results deliver vital knowledge – ruling out and detecting multiple causative pathogens and allowing a physician to provide the most suitable care for their patients during this critical time.

Hospitals and physicians offices can provide COVID-19 testing by clicking on the following link for easy account activation with PMLS: www.premedinc.com/covid-19

Furman Libraries acquires unique music collection

Greenville - Two new collections of microtonal music – music played with tones that exist in the spaces between notes like C and C sharp or E and F – have a new home at Furman University. Composer Johnny Reinhard, founder of the American Festival of Microtonal Music (AFMM), has donated his personal microtonal archive and the archive of the AFMM.

Known for its sometimes unusual sound, microtonal music uses tuning structures different from the 12-note octave most people are familiar with. Furman came to acquire the collection through Michael “aTonal” Vick, an instructional technologist for the fine arts at Furman, who has performed and worked with Reinhard’s AFMM for more than 10 years. Reinhard has also spoken to Vick’s class, “Tuning Systems and the Aural Experience.”

Reinhard approached Furman with the possibility of housing what may be the largest microtonal music collection in the world.

The collections are currently being processed at Furman and will be available for research and consultation later this spring in the Department of Special Collections and Archives, with a major exhibition of the collection slated for 2021.

Proper pruning is all about the right tools

(StatePoint) If you are like most homeowners, you need to prune trees, shrubs, bushes and other plants in your yard from time to time. But do you know which tool is best suited for each particular job? Experts say that choosing tools wisely is key to maximizing beauty, and minimizing damage to plants.

There are a few things to keep in mind as you go about selecting tools for your pruning jobs, big and small, and landscape designer Doug Scott of Redeem Your Ground in Atlanta, Ga., is sharing a few insights to get you started:

- For most basic pruning around the yard, bypass or hand pruners, also known as garden or pruning shears, are go-to tools. Best for making clean cuts through living plants and tree branches, they work much like a set of heavy-duty scissors and are capable of getting into tight spots for close, precise cuts. Scott advises against a common pitfall here: the urge to save money.

“Since pruning shears see so much use, it makes sense to buy the best ones you can afford. From my experience, inexpensive models simply don't last very long,” he says. “A well-cared for, high-quality set of bypass pruners however can be a lifetime investment for the average homeowner.”

- For larger branches, Scott says anvil-style shears can be a good choice, which feature one sharp blade closing against a flat, wide blade and work much like a knife cutting against a cutting board. However, he warns that they should be used selectively, as they crush plant stems more than bypass-style pruners.

- When it comes to branches of more than 1/2-inch (12.7 millimeters) in diameter, loppers are the best choice. Like hand pruning tools, there are bypass loppers, which operate much like a large, long-handled set of bypass shears, while anvil-style loppers use just one cutting blade.

“Bypass loppers generally cut with more precision, while anvil-style loppers are typically capable of generating more cutting force,” Scott said.

Still have questions? New online resources can help. Scott has partnered with Exmark, a leading manufacturer of commercial mowers and equipment on a new video series for DIY homeowners called “Done in a Weekend.” Among the videos is “Cut It Out,” which explains the differences between different pruning tools, as well as provides tips for pruning more effectively with less effort. To view the video, as well as access the other videos in the series, which cover a range of home and garden topics, visit Exmark.com/DIY.

Regular pruning is necessary to keep your yard looking beautiful and well-maintained as well as to improve the health of plants. Be sure you're equipped with the proper tools and knowledge to do so effectively.

How you can help protect wild birds in your yard

(StatePoint) You may not think about it often, but wild birds use your lawn as a rest stop and place to call home. As you spruce up your lawn and garden for the season, there are simple steps you can take to protect them and help them thrive.

According to Spencer Schock, founder of WindowAlert, makers of bird-friendly products for homes, the following changes are easy to implement in order to create a safe harbor for wild birds:

- Plant native species: Planting native species on your property is one of the most impactful ways you can improve your local environment, as well as make your lawn and garden a healthy habitat for wild birds and other fauna. Native plant species provide birds with food and places to rest and nest. Birds in turn, spread pollen and seeds, while acting as a natural pesticide. Speaking of which, gardening organically will also go a long way to protecting the health and safety of feeding birds.

- Make windows visible: Up to 1 billion birds die annually from striking windows in US, according to the American Bird Conservancy. The good news is that it's relatively easy and affordable to prevent your home from being part of the problem. Special window decals that reflect ultraviolet sunlight, a wavelength of light noticeable to birds, have been proven to substantially reduce the likelihood of bird strikes. Giving the appearance of slightly frosted translucent glass but glowing like a stoplight for birds, those from WindowAlert feature a range of decorative patterns. To boost protection for birds, you can also apply a high-tech liquid called WindowAlert UV Liquid in between decals. More information, as well as useful application tips, can be found by visiting windowalert.com.

- Monitor cats: Monitor your cat's time outdoors to ensure they are not terrorizing or hunting birds. An enclosed play area for your cat is the most effective way to keep birds in your yard safe from your furry companion's natural instincts.

Good deeds start at home. This season, do your part to help migrating bird populations reach their destinations safely.

LEGAL NOTICE

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA
COUNTY OF SPARTANBURG
IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS
C.A. No.: 2019-CP-42-04016
Mamie M. Gooden, Plaintiff, v. Christopher Ron Tucker and South Carolina Department of Revenue, Defendants.

Final Order

This matter was before me on March 16, 2020 for a final hearing on the Complaint of the Plaintiff efiled November 12, 2019. An Order of Reference was filed on November 14, 2019. In Plaintiff's Complaint, she seeks to obtain a proportional value of the subject property as to her ownership and that of Defendant Tucker; that the subject property be sold and funds distributed according to the proportional value, with any monies owed to the South Carolina Department of Revenue to be deducted from Defendant Tucker's portion of the proceeds; and, attorney's fees and costs. The subject property is described as follows:

ALL that piece, parcel or lot of land in the City of Spartanburg, County of Spartanburg, State of South Carolina, being known and designated as Lot 33, Block 8, as shown on Plat No. 1 of Summerhill Subdivision, recorded in Plat Book 59, Pages 218-220, in ROD Office for Spartanburg County, South Carolina.

This being the same property conveyed to Willie Gooden, Sr. and Mamie M. Gooden by deed dated March 30, 1970 and recorded on April 1, 1970 in the ROD Office for Spartanburg County in Deed Book 36-T, Page 414. Willie Gooden, Sr. died intestate leaving his portion of the property to Mamie M. Gooden, Sylvia E. Mitchell, Willie Gooden, Jr., Gedell Cureton, Gwen L. Smith, Larry D. Gooden, Steve S. Gooden and Dianne Dixon.

Property: 210 Westmoreland St., Spartanburg, SC 29301
Tax Map No. 7-11-16-153.00

The pleadings were properly served on the Defendants as evidenced by the Affidavits of Service previously e-filed. Defendant South Carolina Department of Revenue filed its Answer on November 22, 2019. Defendant Christopher Ron Tucker did not file responsive pleadings. An Affidavit of Default regarding Defendant Tucker's failure to respond was filed on December 30, 2019. Notice of the hearing was given to the Defendant South Carolina Department of Revenue by Certified Mail, Return Receipt Requested and to Defendant Christopher Ron Tucker by publication in "The Spartan Weekly" as evidenced by the Certified Receipt and Affidavit of Publication previously efiled. An Affidavit of Plaintiff was previously efiled as well as the Appraisal of Real Property dated May 29, 2019 from Precision Appraisals.

Prior to the hearing being called, the attorney for Plaintiff, Scott F. Talley, was notified that it was not necessary to appear.

Based on my review of the file, evidence efiled, and the applicable law of the State of South Carolina, I hereby find as follows:

1. The property which is the subject of this action is located in Spartanburg County, South Carolina, and this Court has jurisdiction over the subject matter hereto.

2. Plaintiff and her late husband, Willie Gooden, Sr. owned the subject property. Willie Gooden, Sr. died intestate (see Estate File 28484, Spartanburg County Probate Court), leaving one-half of his interest in the property to the Plaintiff, and the other one-half to their children, Sylvia E. Mitchell, Willie Gooden, Jr., Gedell Cureton, Gwen L. Smith, Larry D. Gooden, Steve S. Gooden and Dianne Dixon. This left Plaintiff with 75% ownership of the subject property and the children of Plaintiff and Willie Gooden, Sr. each with 3.57% ownership.

3. Sylvia E. Mitchell conveyed her interest in the property to the Plaintiff by deed recorded on October 5, 2017 in Deed Book 117-G, Page 411, Spartanburg County Register of Deeds.

4. Willie Gooden, Jr. conveyed his interest in the property to the Plaintiff by deed recorded on October 5, 2017 in Deed Book 117-G, Page 415, Spartanburg County Register of Deeds.

5. Gedell Cureton conveyed her interest in the property to the Plaintiff by deed recorded on October 5, 2017 in Deed Book 117-G, Page 423, Spartanburg County Register of Deeds.

6. Gwen L. Smith conveyed her interest in the property to the Plaintiff by deed recorded on October 5, 2017 in Deed Book 117-G, Page 419, Spartanburg County Register of Deeds.

7. Larry D. Gooden conveyed his interest in the property to the Plaintiff by deed recorded on October 5, 2017 in Deed Book 117-G, Page 431, Spartanburg County Register of Deeds.

8. Steve S. Gooden conveyed his interest in the property to the Plaintiff by deed recorded on October 5, 2017 in Deed Book 117-G, Page 427, Spartanburg County Register of Deeds.

9. The subject property is now owned by Plaintiff with 98.215% ownership and Defendant Tucker 1.785% ownership in the subject property.

10. The appraised value of the property based on the e-filed appraisal is $130,000.00. The Department of Revenue's lien amount is $680.55, plus interest.

11. The total attorney's fees and costs incurred by Plaintiff in bringing this action is $3,213.06.

Based on these findings of fact, it is hereby ordered as follows:

1. Plaintiff may purchase the interest of Christopher Ron Tucker in the subject property upon doing the following within 30 days of this Order being filed:

a. Providing the Court evidence that the lien against the subject property by Department of Revenue has been paid;

b. Payment to the Court in the amount of $23.42 to be held for claim by Defendant Christopher Ron Tucker, said amount representing the difference in the value of his interest in the subject property, his one-half of fees/costs found to be due and owing and the payment by Plaintiff of the DOR lien.

c. The DOR lien and fee/costs amount assessed to Defendant Tucker totals $3,917.03.

2. Plaintiff shall serve this Final Order on the Defendant South Carolina Department of Revenue, by certified mail, return receipt requested. Defendant Christopher Ron Tucker will be served with this Final Order by publication, one time being published in a local newspaper, "The Spartan Weekly" If Plaintiff is not able to purchase the interest of Defendant Tucker as set forth herein, the subject property shall be sold at the next available sales date upon a notice of sale being issued with any proceeds received being divided based on the percentage ownership set forth above, after deducting the fees/costs due and the amount of the DOR lien, which shall only be assessed to Defendant Tucker.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

The Garden Bug

Ferns generally prefer soil that is more acidic than alkaline, with lots of decaying organic matter and filtered light. Ferns prefer a highly moist environment, such as in a wetlands or along a water source, so if rain is infrequent in your area, try to induce wet conditions in your garden by watering enough to keep the top 6 inches of soil moist but not soggy.

As you age, keep nutrition top of mind

(StatePoint) Getting proper nutrition can be challenging for everyone, but especially as we age for a variety of reasons, including changing tastes, physical or dental conditions, and lack of access to healthy foods.

“It’s critical that people of all ages get proper nutrition, but especially seniors, and particularly now with the spread of COVID-19 in the United States,” says Dr. Gina Conflitti, chief medical officer with Cigna’s Medicare Advantage business, which offers Medicare plans in 18 states and the District of Columbia. “Good nutrition helps older adults stay active and vital, and can help them stave off or better manage chronic conditions.”

Cigna provides the following nutrition tips:

- Make healthy choices. Add plenty of fruits and vegetables to your plate for colorful, nutrient-rich, fiber-filled meals. Add flavor with spices and herbs instead of salt. Stay hydrated with plenty of water. Even light exercise can stimulate appetite and strengthen bones and muscles.

- Consult your doctor. If your appetite is changing or you’re losing weight, talk to your primary care physician. There could be an underlying reason for these changes. For instance, your medication might be affecting your appetite. Or maybe you’re dealing with depression. Your doctor can work with you to identify possible causes.

- Adapt to changing tastes. There are a number of ways to change your eating habits to improve your nutrition, from eating more frequent, smaller meals to trying new foods and cooking styles. For tips on preparing healthy meals, visit ChooseMyPlate.gov.

- See a dentist. A dentist may be able to address any dental problems impacting your ability to enjoy food. If you have a Medicare Advantage (MA) plan, you may have access to dental benefits at no extra cost. Check your plan for details.

- Explore options. If mobility is an issue, look for local organizations offering transportation or meal delivery to older adults. If you have an MA plan, you may have access to home-delivered meals following a hospitalization. One-third of hospital patients are malnourished at admission and poor nutrition increases their risk of having to return to the hospital after being released. Good nutrition helps patients regain their strength and energy faster for better recoveries. Check your plan for details.

- Get help. Some older adults with limited resources may qualify for assistance with food purchases through programs such as the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP). Many older adults qualify for this program and don’t know it. One way to verify eligibility is to visit Cigna.BenefitsCheckup.org and enter your information under the “Food & Nutrition” section.

If you aren’t eligible for this type of assistance, you can still find ways to save on food bills, including asking for senior discounts, using coupons, having a store discount card and buying store brands.

These are just a few resources. Every individual has unique needs. Cigna encourages you to talk with your physician for additional information about your personal nutrition requirements. For videos about senior nutrition and some warning signs of malnutrition, visit wnpt.org/agingmatters/nutrition-aging.

Proper nutrition is essential to overall health. As you age, keep nutrition top of mind and explore new ways to eat well.

The U.S. Department of Commerce has appointed Erin Ford, Executive Vice President of SCBIO, as a Member of South Carolina’s District Export Council for 2020-2021. District Export Council (DEC) Members are a dedicated group of nearly 1,500 leaders from across America appointed by the U.S. Department of Commerce to work with exporters and export service providers to expand America’s exporting activities to the world.

Ms. Ford was appointed to the South Carolina DEC by Ana Guevara, Deputy Assistant Secretary for U.S. Field operations, in the International Trade Administration of the United States Department of Commerce.

The District Export Councils were created in 1974 by the U.S. Secretary of Commerce to support the expansion of export opportunities for American organizations, and to serve as a vital communication link between the business community and

Department of Commerce. DEC’s assist companies in local communities to export, promoting U.S. economic growth, thereby creating and sustaining new and higher paying jobs in local areas. There are 61 DEC’s across America, and Members are appointed by the Secretary to renewable four-year terms.

As Executive Vice President of SCBIO – South Carolina’s official life sciences organization – Ms. Ford works on corporate strategies emanating from the organization’s 3 statewide offices, its Board and hundreds of supporting Members and Investors. Her comprehensive responsibilities include serving as primary lead for SCBIO’s business operations and finances, championing investor relations and existing industry strategies, and spearheading integrated marketing initiatives.

While at the Upstate Alliance, Ms. Ford served as an ex-officio SCBIO board member from 2013-2015 and led a regional biosciences task force comprised of industry executives from across the region. She also has extensive television experience as a documentary producer and sportscaster and received her B.A. in Communications from La Salle University in Philadelphia.

“Erin is a strong and forward-thinking leader for the SCBIO organization and South Carolina’s life sciences industry, and we are pleased that her contributions to our state are being recognized with this important appointment,” said Sam Konduros, President and CEO of SCBIO. “With her efforts and leadership, South Carolina and SCBIO should benefit greatly from the rapidly growing export economy here in the Palmetto State.”

SCBIO is South Carolina’s investor-driven public/private economic development organization exclusively focused on building, advancing, and growing the life sciences industry in the state.
