Hannah Jarrett named Director of countywide homelessness effort

Adapted from information provided by the City of Spartanburg

A Place to Call Home, an effort spearheaded by multiple community partners to address homelessness and housing instability in Spartanburg County, will be led by Hannah Jarrett. As Director of A Place to Call Home, Jarrett will collaborate with diverse stakeholders, developing and executing effective strategies and leading efforts to prevent and reduce homelessness countywide.

Launched by a collaborative group that includes the City of Spartanburg, OneSpartanburg Inc., Spartanburg County, Spartanburg Housing, Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System, United Way of the Piedmont, and The Faith Initiative to End Child Poverty, A Place to Call Home focuses on a continuum of support to prevent homelessness, serve those experiencing homelessness, and expand access to affordable housing.

Prisma Health triples outpatient behavioral health services in Upstate with new $3.7 million outpatient center

Adapted from information provided courtesy of Prisma Health

Greenville - Prisma Health has tripled patient access to outpatient behavioral health services in the Upstate with the opening of its new $3.7 million Behavioral Health & Wellness Pavilion.

The 24,000-square-foot facility opened on Monday, January 27 on the Greenville Memorial Hospital campus. It features therapy options through the former Brownell Center (now expanded and renamed the Grove Road Clinic) and ultimately also include five specialty day treatment programs, including a groundbreaking first-in-state mother-infant wellness program for women suffering from depression and anxiety disorders during pregnancy and postpartum.

Adult programs specializing in behavioral health and substance use disorders opened in January. Adolescent programs will include an eating-disorders program and a general behavioral health disorders program, both opening in May.

"We're excited to bring increased outpatient access and innovative behavioral health therapies to our communities through our new Behavioral Health & Wellness Pavilion," said

Dr. Karen Lommel, the Robert A. Jolley Jr. Endowed Chair of Psychiatry and Community Health for Prisma Health in the Upstate.

Lommel said day treatment programs can be a good option for patients who don't require hospital-level care but who would benefit from treatment that's more intensive than regular office visits. These daytime programs are most often used for patients facing complex mental health challenges such as depression, anxiety, eating disorders, obsessive-compulsive disorders, post-traumatic stress disorders and bipolar disorder.

"Not only are patients able to get the additional treatment they need, but they go home every night for support from family and friends," said Lommel. "It's a very supportive option that we're thrilled to offer on an expanded basis in the Upstate."

The outpatient expansion, along with the construction of a recently announced 112-licensed behavioral health hospital, will provide the Upstate significantly enhanced care options across a broader continuum of needs. The projects are part of an almost $143 million expansion of outpatient and inpatient mental health services in the Upstate.

For more information on the Pavilion or how to access care, visit its website at <https://prismahealth.org/locations/practices/behavioral-health-wellness-pavilion>.

Prisma Health is a private nonprofit health company with over 32,000 team members, 19 acute and specialty hospitals, 3,131 licensed beds, 320 practice sites, and more than 5,900 employed and independent clinicians across its clinically integrated inVio Health -. Each year, Prisma Health serves more than 1.6 million patients in South Carolina and Tennessee.

S.C. Department of Veterans' Affairs announces opening of new 128,000 square foot nursing home for Veterans in Sumter

Columbia - The South Carolina Department of Veterans' Affairs (SCDVA) is now accepting applications for Veterans seeking residency in the new state Veteran home, Patriot's Village in Sumter. Construction on the nearly 128,000 square foot is now nearing completion and expected to accept the first Veteran resident in February.

Patriot's Village will house 104 beds offering both semi-private and private rooms. The state-of-the-art facility also has a memory care unit, large physical therapy area, bistro, barbershop and beauty salon, activity rooms, a chapel, and spacious common areas.

The Avalon Health Care Group is the contract monitor for Patriot's Village working closely with SCDVA in the construction process to ensure the goal of supporting Veterans and providing a healthy living environment for those who have served to receive the best arrangements and care possible.

"We are incredibly excited to collaborate with the South Carolina Department of Veterans Affairs' (SCDVA) in providing exceptional care to the Veterans of Sumter and the surrounding areas," says Carl Hugie, Regional Vice President of Avalon Health Care. It's a true privilege to contribute to the well-being of those who have sacrificed so much for our country. Together, we are committed to ensuring that every Veteran receives the high-quality care and respect they deserve."

In July of 2023, South Carolina Governor McMaster signed legislation transferring the responsibility of State Veteran Homes to the South Carolina Department of Veterans' Affairs. Since July, SCDVA has assumed responsibility of all contractor-operated homes to include the newly built Patriot's Village in Sumter.

"The opening of Patriot's Village in Sumter marks yet another milestone in the state of South Carolina's commitment to providing quality, long-term care to our Veterans," says SCDVA Secretary Todd B. McCaffrey. "Expanding access to high-quality long-term care for Veterans is a priority for the South Carolina Department of Veterans' Affairs. We are committed to working with Veterans, family members, local communities, and our care providers to ensure our facilities continue to meet the evolving needs of our Veteran population and provide a comfortable, dignified, and supportive environment for them to thrive."

SCDVA and Avalon Health Care held a ribbon cutting ceremony to commemorate the grand opening of Patriot's Village at 915 North Wise Drive in Sumter on January 17.

For Veterans seeking residency at Patriot's Village or any other State Veteran Home in South Carolina, visit SCDVA's website for information and an application at <https://scdva.sc.gov/state-veterans-nursing-homes>.
