Spartanburg School District 7 earns best community for music education

Information courtesy of Spartanburg School District 7

During the Board of Trustees meeting in September, Spartanburg School District 7 honored their music teachers and celebrated the District's recent national designation as a "Best Community for Music Education". Their excellence in music is attributed to several things - the support of trustees and belief that the arts enrich the growth and development of students in immeasurable ways; partners and programs in the greater Spartanburg arts community; investment in facilities that enable both creation and performance in the arts; and most of all - the many talented musicians who dedicate their careers to teaching in District 7.

Whether helping a child learn to play a musical instrument for the first time, encouraging them to audition for their school musical, or dedicating their early mornings and late nights for rehearsals, the gifts our music teachers give students have an impact that extends far beyond music alone. The District often hear stories about the most unlikely of students discovering a talent they didn't know they had, and developing a love of music that led them to finally find their place - their people - within District 7. The District recognized ALL these teachers, because each one contributes to making District 7 a best community for music education.

Each teacher received a framed poster celebrating this award to hang in their classroom, so that all students may take pride in their teacher, their school, and their district. Hannah Simpson, Education Manager with the Spartanburg Philharmonic Orchestra, brought the school district the opportunity to pursue the award and encouraged Dr. Terry Pruitt to apply for the designation was also recognized at the meeting. Our work together across the greater Spartanburg community enables students to be enriched by music.

District 7 would like to congratulate all 28 music educators (some of whom were unable to attend due to rehearsals with student ensembles): Adena McDaniel, Alexa Cotran, Allison Key, Bobby Cotter, Chelsea Durrah, Denise Arthurs, Gary Stroup, Helen Tipton, Janet Kuntz, Jeff Key, Jeff Kuntz, Jennifer Diehn, Jessica King, John Kvasnicka, Joseph Gonzales, Kate Thrift-Winch, Kevin Maloney, Kim Colon, Leigha Keller, Lori Patton, Matt McDaniel, Megan Hannan, Mirella Samuels, Rachel Odom, Robin DeHollander, Sam Tam, Sharon Atherton, Theresa Jenkins-Russ, and Nate Erps.

Duke Energy Carolinas requests rate review by Public Service Commission of S.C.

Information provided by Duke Energy

Greenville - Duke Energy Carolinas recently asked South Carolina regulators to review its current rates – the first such review since 2018 – as the company continues working to increase system diversity and reliability, enhance the customer experience and meet future energy demands for more than 658,000 customers primarily in the Upstate region of South Carolina.

“We realize many of our customers are facing challenging times and we are committed to working to keep customer bills as low as possible,” said Mike Callahan, Duke Energy’s South Carolina president.

“We also know that our customers expect us to responsibly invest for the future to increase the reliability and resiliency of our system, help reduce outages, protect against damage from extreme weather and provide them with the level of service they expect. These investments are the main reason for the proposed rate increase,” Callahan said.

To mitigate the requested rate increase filed with the Public Service Commission of South Carolina

(PSCSC), the company proposes to accelerate the return of excess deferred income tax benefits resulting from the Federal Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017 (“Tax Act”). This proposal more quickly returns the outstanding tax benefits due to customers, making the requested increase in annual retail revenues about 11.4%, or a $239 million increase, over the first two years that the new rates would be effective.

An additional overall increase of about 4.1% would occur after the first two years once the reduction for excess deferred income taxes expires. If the proposal to mitigate the requested increase is not approved, it would result in a requested annual revenue increase of $323 million, or overall increase of about 15.5%, starting in year one of newly effective rates.

If approved by the PSCSC, a typical residential customer using 1,000 kWh will see an increase of about 14.6% or $17.83 per month beginning Aug. 1, 2024. Beginning Aug. 1, 2026, residential rates would increase another 4.8%, resulting in an additional $10.25 per month.

Duke Energy has numerous current and proposed energy efficiency programs available to customers who would like to exercise more control over their usage to lower their bills, which could help minimize the impact of the requested increase. Customers struggling to pay their energy bills might also qualify for assistance from various government and nonprofit programs for utility bills and other household expenses. Duke Energy also offers programs and resources to help customers manage their usage to lessen the impact of rate changes, as well as flexible payment arrangements to help customers experiencing uncertainty. Additional customer support is available through the Share the Light Fund, a Duke Energy program that provides energy assistance.
