Spartanburg County Foundation distributes $12,500 surprise Just Because grants

The Spartanburg County Foundation distributed five $2,500 grants as part of a Just Because grant distribution day this year. The funds, given with no restrictions on their use, build the social, reputational, and financial capital of organizations serving Spartanburg County residents.

"While we know providing surprise grants to these organizations is important, this day is also about building awareness of the important ways they serve the community. The Foundation aims to illuminate their impactful work, addressing often overlooked needs of Spartanburg County residents," said Troy Hanna, President and CEO of the Spartanburg County Foundation.

Fund-holders and donors to the Just Because Fund were invited to participate in the grants distribution day. Just Because grants address specific community needs in Spartanburg County, and those who participated witnessed nonprofit organizations directly responding to those local needs. The bus tour and grant delivery event left an impact on participants, showcasing firsthand the work of nonprofit organizations in action.

The five recipients were: • LISC Upstate SC -LISC Upstate SC is a program office for Local Initiatives Support Corporation (LISC). With residents and partners, LISC forges resilient and inclusive communities of opportunity across America – great places to live, work, visit, do business and raise families. LISC Upstate SC opened in mid-2019 and is focused on driving progress in workforce development, support for small business development with capital and management expertise, affordable housing and commercial development strategies and investments, and community safety, education, and healthy living initiatives.

Upstate Family Resource Center – Upstate Family Resource Center offers families in northern Spartanburg county the tools, support, guidance, and encouragement they need to become self-sufficient and resilient. Their key areas of focus encompass Crisis Intervention, Financial Literacy, and Development. Family Through alliances with local, countywide, and state organizations, along with the implementation of evidence-based programs, they offer families the opportunity to stabilize, progress, and thrive.

• Spartanburg Area Conservancy (SPACE) -SPACE is the second-oldest local land trust operating in the state of South Carolina and works to promote, protect, and preserve natural resources and open spaces in our community. Their staff works closely with local landowners to identify and protect significant lands by using various conservation tools to protect land, including taxsaving conservation easements, donations, and bargain sales. Through SPACE, the community has access to green spaces like the Cottonwood Trail.

• Temple Education Ministries (H.O.P.E. Soup Kitchen) Temple Education Ministries, Inc. strives to make an impact in the Upstate through love, fellowship, and outreach while addressing individual needs of the homeless and underresourced citizens in Inman, Campobello, Landrum, Gramling and surrounding areas. The H.O.P.E. Soup Kitchen serves food-insecure individuals in northern Spartanburg County with weekly hot meals and take home food to augment their home meals. The program is open 8:30 am -10:45 am for activities and provides a meal 10:45 am -

• Carolina Miracle League, Inc. – Carolina Miracle League operates under the philosophy that every child deserves the chance to play baseball. By providing children with mental and/or physical challenges an opportunity to play baseball in an organized league, they've seen the transformative power of being a part of a team. The children play on a specially equipped field called "Miracle Park" in Boiling Springs, South Carolina. This customdesigned venue incorporates a cushioned synthetic turf that accommodates wheelchairs and other walking assistance devices while helping prevent injuries. Just Because grantmaking is part of the Spartanburg County Foundation's grantmaking framework. The effort brings awareness to issues throughout the County and highlights nonprofit organizations that are working diligently to meet those needs. The Foundation partners with donors and other funding institutions to leverage resources and award nonprofit organizations for their efforts. Nonprofit organizations are selected based on their work, geographic location, and the need being addressed. The first Just Because Day sponsored by the Spartanburg County Foundation was held in 2014. "Just Because grants connect the dots by bringing resources and awareness to organizations that improve the lives of Spartanburg County residents. As Foundation staff, we're excited to share this time in the community with donors, fundholders, and nonprofit organizations," said Ashley Whitt, Spartanburg County Foundation Vice President of Grants and Community Impact.

The Spartanburg County Foundation is committed to improving the lives of Spartanburg County residents by promoting philanthropy, encouraging community engagement, and responding to community needs.

Converse wins prestigious Body, Mind & Soul Dr. Alan Patterson Cup

During the 2024 Conference Carolinas annual endof-year awards banquet, Converse University was named the winner of the prestigious Body, Mind & Soul Dr. Alan Patterson Cup for the 2023-24 academic year.

"What a moment it was to hear our amazing institution's name called on Tuesday night," Converse University Director of Athletics Jenn Bell said. "After years of pursuing excellence, we are starting to see the fruits of our labor, and it is incredibly rewarding. I am so proud of the work our staff and student-athletes have put in, as we have proven that we can win championships while displaying good sportsmanship and continuing our academic success."

This is the sixth year of the Body, Mind & Soul Dr. Alan Patterson Cup, the ultimate comprehensive conference annual award. The award recognizes the member institution with the best average ranking when combining the Hawn Cup, the Sharp Award and the Messick Award. It is named after the former Conference Carolinas Commissioner who served 32 years as the Commissioner of Conference Carolinas before retiring after the 2018-19 academic year.

Athletically, the Valkyries had their best finish ever in the final Hawn Cup standings, finishing fifth overall this season. This past season, the Valkyries won championships in both women's cross country and indoor women's track & field. Converse also had runner-up finishes in both men's soccer and outdoor women's track & field. The Valkyries set a new program record this year, sending 18 teams to the postseason.

In the Messick Sportsmanship Award overall standings, the Valkyries finished fourth. In the men's standings, the Valkyries finished second behind Belmont Abbey, and on the women's side, the Valkyries placed fifth. During the fall season, the women's soccer team won the Messick Sportsmanship Award; during the winter season, the men's swim team captured the award.

The Alan Sharp Award is given out annually to the member institution with the highest student-athlete graduation rate as determined by the faculty-athletics representatives. Converse is the only school in the conference to have won the award on six occasions. Once again, the Valkyries were in the top five of the Alan Sharp Award standings.

In the classroom this year, the Valkyries athletic teams excelled once again. A total of 206 athletes were named to the Conference Carolinas Presidential Honor Roll, 115 athletes earned a spot on the Dean's List, and 70 student-athletes earned Academic All-Conference accolades.

Upstate bioengineers aim to fight bacterial infections with new sensor

By Paul Alongi for Clemson News Services

A new sensor in development at Clemson University is designed to detect bacterial infections in wounds before they become serious and resistant to antibiotics, a problem affecting millions of Americans each year.

Jordon Gilmore, an associate professor of bioengineering, said his long-term goal is to make the sensor simple and inexpensive enough that it could be used by an at-home caregiver with no special medical training. It would provide answers about infection severity in as little as five minutes.

The sensor could eventually be combined with an imaging device and artificial intelligence to create a fully integrated diagnostic tool, he said.

"Someone could put a sensor on a wound and take a picture, and we could put that information together and determine at what stage of infection the wound is," Gilmore said. "That is the goal, and that is important, because the climate of healthcare and health economics is moving a lot of wound care to home health. Fewer and fewer people are able to afford going to specialized wound care centers, so it's really important that you have access to clear diagnostics."

More than 2.8 million drug-resistant infections occur each year in the United States and lead to 35,000 deaths, mostly because antibiotics are ineffective against drug-resistant bacteria, Gilmore said. The healthcare costs hit $4.6 billion annually, he said.

The problem that patients and their doctors face is that bacteria form biofilms that protect themselves from antibiotic treatments. The cell-communication strategy that bacteria use to form biofilms is called quorum sensing.

The sensor that researchers envision would track quorum sensing to provide information on how quickly bacteria are growing and how fast biofilms are developing.

Part of what makes the sensor unique is that it would be flexible and able to measure electrical and chemical activity related to bacteria growth.

The sensor would help take some of the subjectivity out of how wounds are now diagnosed, Gilmore said.

Doctors now consider factors such as the wound's size, depth and smell and classify it on a scale of 1-4 with the higher numbers signifying greater contamination. What might seem like a Class 2 wound to one doctor could be a Class 3 to another, Gilmore said.

The sensor would help eliminate some of the ambiguity by giving a quantitative measure of how the wound is doing, Gilmore said.

A better and quicker diagnosis would help doctors prescribe the correct antibiotics and dosage at the most opportune time, he said.

Gilmore is conducting the research as part of a CAREER Award from the National Science Foundation. He received his Ph.D. in bioengineering at Clemson and did postdoctoral research at the University before joining the faculty.

As part of the CAREER award, he is planning to start a 10-week virtual education program that would be focused on biomedical applications of artificial intelligence and aimed at veterans and non-traditional students at undergraduate institutions. The goal will be to expose them to undergraduate research through coursework, research and workshop experiences.

Gilmore said the idea was inspired by his undergraduate experience at The Citadel, where he received a Bachelor of Science in electrical engineering. Some of his most impressive classmates were veterans and active-duty personnel who had families and other commitments that prevented them from participating in experiences that would have helped prepare them for research and graduate school, he said.

"I want to be able to tap into that really amazing talent pool that they are," Gilmore said.

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA

COUNTY OF SPARTANBURG

Chad Edward Stark, Defendant.

Complaint Plaintiff alleges:

1. The parties are citizens and residence of Spartanburg County, South Carolina.

2. The parties married on December 7, 1999, and have no minor children together and are not expecting any children. 3. The parties separated on October 1, 2022.

4. Plaintiff is informed and believes that she is entitled to a divorce on the grounds of adultery, or in the alternative, a decree of separate maintenance of and from defen-

5. The parties acquired assets and debts during their marriage and Plaintiff is informed and believes that the Court should inquire as to the parties' assets and debts and divide them equitably.

6. Plaintiff believes a restraining order should be issued prohibiting Defendant from coming about, harassing, stalking, excessively calling or texting, or in any way causing distress or harm to Plaintiff.

7. Plaintiff believes an injunction should be placed on Defendant and prohibiting him from destroying, selling, hiding, altering, or gifting any property belonging to Plaintiff or that may be considered marital property.

8. Plaintiff is without sufficient funds to pay legal fees and believes Defendant is financial capable of paying all legal fees and costs and he is the cause of the breakup of the marriage; therefore, Defendant should be responsible for all costs associated with this

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff prays: A. For a decree of divorce on the grounds of adultery; or in the alternative, a decree of separate maintenance of and from Defendant;

B. For equitable division of assets and debts; C. For a restraining order relative to individuals; D. For an injunction relative to property; E. For such other relief as the Court deems just and proper.

Morris, Deceased, as a child of the Decedent pursuant to the provisions of Section 62-3-203(a)(5) of the Code of Laws of South Carolina, as amended.

5. Petitioner has requested that the Respondent sign a Renunciation of Right to Administration and/or Nomination and/or Waiver of Bond. However, Respondent has refused to sign or even discuss the issue with Petitioner.

6. Petitioner is further informed and believes that the Respondent cannot be located at his former residence of 691 Clearwater Road, Landrum, South Carolina 29356, and is intentionally avoiding contact with Petitioner, and that it may be necessary for this Court to issue an Order for Publication of Notice of Hearing in The Spartan Weekly, a newspaper of general circulation in Spartanburg County, South Carolina, the county in which the Respondent last resided.

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays that:

1. this Court schedule a hearing of the matters set forth

2. this Court issue its order that in the event the Respondent be served with a Notice of Hearing at his last known address of 691 Clearwater Road, Landrum, South Carolina 293356; and, that in the event the Respondent cannot be located at his said last known address and cannot after due diligence be located elsewhere, this Court issue an Order of Publication of the Notice of Hearing in The Spartan Weekly, a newspaper of general circulation in Spartanburg County, South Carolina, the county in which Respondent's last known address is located; and,
