Spartanburg Community College holds first graduation ceremony on Campus Green

On Thursday, May 5th, Spartanburg Community College held the first ever graduation ceremony on the Campus Green of the College's Giles Campus in Spartanburg. Four hundred thirty-six graduates received their degrees, diplomas, and certificates from the College as they transition into highgrowth, high demand careers or continue their education towards a bachelor's degree and beyond. "Over the last year, the Campus Green has played host to significant milestones, such as the announcement of our free tuition initiative and the launch of the College's very first mascot, Chaser. Holding the first in-person graduation ceremony since 2019 on this location is the perfect bookend to an academic year that will be remembered for its impact - the reverberations of which will be felt for generations to come," said Dr. Michael Mikota, President of Spartanburg Community College. "The 436 graduates here today are Chasers in every meaning of the word. We at Spartanburg Community College gave them the tools and resources needed to chase their dreams, and today, they are on the precipice of being able to live out those dreams and leave their mark on the world." In addition to being the first graduation ceremony held on SCC's Giles Campus, the 2022 Commencement Ceremony represented the first inperson graduation ceremony SCC has held since 2019, the first graduation ceremony of Dr. Michael Mikota's tenure as president, the first graduation ceremony to feature SCC's new mascot, Chaser, and the first graduation to feature students who have benefited from the College's free tuition initiative that was launched in May of 2021.In marking the historic milestone in SCC's history, the College welcomed South Carolina Lieutenant Governor Pamela Evette to deliver commencement the address.

"Spartanburg Community College's motto of 'Dream It, Chase It, Live It' fits a philosophical belief I hold dear. I have long said that it is important to dream big, but just as SCC's motto suggests, you must be willing to chase your dreams," said Lieutenant Governor Evette. "Because of Spartanburg Community College, the students graduating today have the opportunity to become part of South Carolina's legacy; one of continued growth and success." "We are honored to have Lieutenant Governor Evette join us to mark this significant moment in the history of Spartanburg Community College," said Dr. Mikota. "Spartanburg County has been the nexus of economic development in South Carolina over the last year, and Spartanburg Community College plays a crucial role in not only the recruitment of that growth, but also the sustainability and continuation of it. With the support of our elected officials, we will continue to supply the region and state with a well-educated workforce and make strides in our mission to become the most affordable, accessible, and relevant institution of higher education in the country. A new tradition of honoring a distinguished alumnus was launched as part of the 2022 SCC Graduation Ceremony with Mr. Marcus Smith being the first recipient of the Distinguished Alumni Award. Smith and his sister Ashely set a joint goal of attending college and earning a degree in Computer Technology. Sadly, Ashley passed away due to cancer in 2019 and was never able to pursue her degree, however her passing served as motivation for Marcus to succeed for the both of them. Marcus graduated SCC in May of 2021 with an Associates in Applied Science for Computer Technology, Networking/ Cybersecurity and a GPA of 3.6.

He currently works as an IT Specialist for the Charles Lea Center and is pursuing a bachelor's degree in Cybersecurity at Middle Georgia State University.

Liquor serving box

Antiques are given many names, often changed to be written in a new language or used in a different way, and there can be confusion. Is a "cave a liqueur" the same as a tantalus? Both have decanter bottles; both have drinking glasses; both can have locks; and both are used to serve liquor to guests, one usually before dinner, the other during and after a meal. In the past, formal service of alcoholic drinks, especially at banquets and special-occasion dinners, was important. The tantalus bottles held liquor, a distilled alcoholic drink like scotch. And it should be easy to remember that a cave a liqueur held -- what you would expect -- liqueur, an after-dinner fermented sweet drink like brandy, flavored with fruit or spices. The names sound alike but are spelled differently.

The two containers and contents follow formal rules of design. The tantalus has decanters in an open rack with tops that are locked, opening only with a key. The tantalus was named for Greek King Tantalus, who was condemned to stand in a pool of water in Hell and never be able to get a drink. The cave a liqueur holds small decanters and glasses suitable for the small after-dinner drink. Both of the serving boxes were large, often made of wood with added brass or other metal decorations and goldpainted accents. They very much in style from 1850 to 1900. The 11-inch-high box pictured holds four decanters and 16 liqueur glasses. There are many jokes about the locked liquor supply, but it seems possible that the locks were meant to keep the household help from taking drinks and leaving empty decanters or adding water or other liquid.

Q: I have several calendar plates in mint condition from the 1960s, '70s and '80s. How can I find out how much they are worth and how to sell them?

A: Calendar plates were popular between about 1906 and 1929. Many were given away by stores and other businesses as advertising. There was renewed interest in yearly calendar plates in the 1970s to '90s. Calendar plates are still being made but aren't as popular now. Check websites to see what plates like yours sell for. The year is as important as the picture when determining price. Most sell for $5 to $30. ***
