Spartanburg County's manufacturing sector has a lot to celebrate

Spartanburg County's manufacturing sector is always worth celebrating, but October 6 was National Manufacturing Day, and recently, Spartanburg was named the #1 Medium Metro by Economic Development Projects Per Capita. This accolade was driven largely by Spartanburg's continued manufacturing success. That was topped off by South Carolina being named the #1 Top State for Manufacturing in 2023.

Spartanburg City Council approves deal for largest development in city history

Information provided by the City of Spartanburg

"This is, in my judgement, a very exciting day," City Manager Chris Story said as he opened his presentation of a proposed deal with Development Johnson Associates (JDA) for the largest economic development project in the city's history to Spartanburg City Council on Monday, September 25. First announced in May, the centerpiece of the transformational development will be a new Minor League Baseball stadium to serve as the future home of the current Down East Wood Ducks of cles, and a large public plaza and event space. Construction on the project will take place in phases, with the stadium and first parking structure expected to be completed by spring of 2025 and subsequent phases to be completed over several years.

Under terms of the agreement, JDA will invest $305 million to construct multiple structures for the development's office space and commercial component, a new 150-unit hotel, and three parking facilities. Public funding for the development will pay for the stadium and public infrastructure construction and comes in the form of $54,000,000 in state funding, $3.6 million in Downtown Partnership Committee set aside for downtown development, $1.8 million in Spartanburg County Accommodations Tax funding, and $58.6 million in City funding. The City intends to issue bonds to cover its portion, with repayment to be made using Spartanburg County Accommodations Tax funding, Downtown Partnership Committee funding, City Hospitality Tax funding, and lease payments and revenue from the stadium. The City also agreed to transfer a number of parcels within the main project block to JDA immediately, as well as parcels bounded by S Spring St., S Daniel Morgan Ave, and W Broad St., and a parcel along S Daniel Morgan Ave adjacent to the Hampton Heights neighborhood at a later date.

Also included in the agreement is a restriction preventing the City from offering a higher ratio of incentives to any development for five years from the signing of the agreement and another restriction stating that no incentives at all can be offered to a hotel project in the downtown area for three years. Prior to the vote, several City Council members voiced concerns regarding the hotel restriction, questioning the wisdom of limiting potential competition during a time of unprecedented growth in Downtown Spartanburg. Ultimately, the transformative, historic scale of investment included in the project was the deciding factor, with City Council approving the agreement 6-0. Council member Rob Rain, who is employed by JDA, recused himself from the vote.

Self-esteem in personal finance

By Indiya Clarke '26, Wofford News Service

Promise Henry '25 knew she didn't want to pursue a traditional internship in finance at a bank to gain experience in the financial field.

"I have an interest in higher education," says Henry '25 a double major in finance and accounting with a minor in education from Cowpens, South Carolina. "I thought it would be best for me to reach out to one of the finance professors here at Wofford to see what things look like in academia."

Henry contacted Josh Harris '09, visiting assistant professor of finance, and Harris introduced Henry to a long-term project that explores the

The most cost-effective way to fix Spartanburg County's roads

In 2017, voters approved a one percent sales tax that has funded a new Courthouse and more. In November, voters will decide whether the one percent sales tax is continued, with revenue going to road projects.

Overall, Spartanburg County roadways earned a failing grade. The penny sales tax is the most cost-conscious way to fix roads and fix them quickly, especially with 34%-39% of the cost covered by non-residents.

Learn more about the condition of our roads and a potential solution to fix them with Spartanburg County Administrator Cole Alverson, and hear the benefits of voting YES in November with OneSpartanburg, Inc. President/CEO Allen Smith on Monday, October 30, 11:30 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. at Spartanburg Community College Middle Tyger Campus,Room 354, 1875 E. Main Street, Duncan. Register at https://spartanburgareasc.chambermaster.com/ Kinston, NC. The team is expected to be renamed in the move.

Far more than merely a baseball stadium development though, the $425 million development will cover a total of around four blocks of Downtown Spartanburg, bounded by W Henry St. to the south, W Main St. to the north, S Daniel Morgan Ave. and Spring St. to the east, and the CSX Railroad to the west. In addition to the 3,500-seat stadium, the development area will include 200,000 sq. ft. of office space, over 375 apartment units, a 150-room hotel, parking facilities to house at least 1,500 vehi-on, quesn of limitmpetition "We are trying to exam-we are trying to examine what role, if any, personal self-esteem has in financial resiliency," says Harris. "If someone has high self-esteem, does that mean that they are less likely to miss a payment, or is someone who has low self-esteem less likely to miss a payment?"

Harris says Henry's fresh perspective helped make the research paper more comprehensive.

"Promise and I come from very different backgrounds," Harris says. "I might be thinking of selfesteem and resiliency from one standpoint, and she might be looking at it from another. So maybe we need to modify the research and include a more real-world discussion of why this matters."

Henry and Harris plan to present their findings at undergraduate research conferences, beginning Family Weekend (Oct. 6-8) in the Rosalind Sallenger Richardson Center for the Arts. They also hope to have their research published in an academic journal.

Henry says the experience helped prepare her for life after graduation.

"I never experienced this type of academic writing in my life," Henry says. "It was beneficial considering this is something I'm going to do in my future."

Celebration of pets is held on the feast day of St. Francis

Courtesy of Wofford News Services

Olivia Turner '23 returned to campus on October 4 to have the newest furry members of her family blessed.

Turner recently adopted two dogs, Rosa and Striper, from the Spartanburg Humane Society. They received pets and cuddles during the celebration.

The Rev. Dr. Ron Robinson '78, Wofford's Perkins-Prothro Chaplain and Professor of Religion, blessed a total of 250 animals during the event. A handful of them, like Rosa and Striper, showed up with their owners. Most, however, were represented by photographs displayed in the lobby of Burwell Building.

"I worked for Ron Robinson as a student, so I'm happy to be able to come back and bring my pets for the blessing," Turner says.

The annual event began over a decade ago and is celebrated on October 4 each year. The blessing coincides with the feast day of St. Francis, the patron saint of animals.

Robinson read each pet's name during the event, inviting the audience to pray alongside him at the end. The celebration also featured treats for both two- and four-legged attendees to enjoy.

Most pets featured in the service and on the wall of photographs were cats and dogs. There were a couple of horses, a cow, a mouse and a pig named Homeless Ted sprinkled in. The photographs will remain up through October.

Becky Smith brought Latte, a goat, at the urging of Elizabeth Fields, director of the Halligan Campus Ministry Center. Latte received lots of attention from adoring attendees as he munched on the grass outside of Burwell.

"Many students miss their pets, so this gives them an opportunity to reconnect with and celebrate them," Robinson says. "It's also a fun thing to do, and it lets us give thanks for the role of animals in our lives."

Piedmont Natural Gas forecasts lower monthly winter bills for customers

Piedmont Natural Gas recently issued its annual winter bills forecast for the coming winter period.

The company estimates that, depending on the state, its typical residential customer's monthly natural gas bill will decrease by an average of approximately $3 to $26 per month from November to March, or $16 to $131 total, when compared to rates in effect during the 2022-2023 winter period.

Piedmont officials say they purchase natural gas at the best possible price and then pass the cost directly to customers with no markup. The company closely monitors natural gas costs and requests adjustments to its rates throughout the year based on changing market conditions and other factors.

"The downward trend in the cost of natural gas is great news for Piedmont customers," said Sasha Weintraub, senior vice president and president of Piedmont Natural Gas. "In addition to the lower overall price of natural gas this season, Piedmont offers tips, tools and programs that can help lower natural gas bills."

With seasonal cold weather on the horizon, Piedmont reminds customers that higher energy consumption related to colder temperatures is the largest contributor to increases in the average household's home-heating expenditures during the winter months.

Natural gas use typically spikes in the winter as customers combat low temperatures to stay warm.

Company tips to help manage your energy use when temperatures decline include:

• Learn how to reduce energy use. The first step to reduce energy use in your home is to identify and prioritize energy-saving improvements. Company officials say this can be accomplished through a certified auditor or by performing your own energy audit.

• Seal air ducts. Make sure the air ducts from your home's furnace and central air conditioner are properly sealed. Ducts that leak into the attic or crawl space can substantially increase your heating and cooling bills.

• Seal your home. One of the quickest energy-saving tasks you can do is caulk, seal and weatherstrip all seams, cracks and openings to the outside. This can save 10 percent to 20 percent on your heating and cooling bills.

• Install "smart" thermostats. Installing a smart or programmable thermostat will reduce your energv use while you are asleep or away. Set your thermostat to the lowest comfortable setting to help save.

• Manage water heating. Set your water heater temperature to 120 degrees Fahrenheit or consider installing an on-demand or tankless water heater that only heats water when you need it.

• Consider insulation. Consider whether you need to add insulation to your ceilings, floors and walls. Insulation between the indoors and outdoors reduces energy demand, saving you money while improving the comfort of your home.

Level out your bill with the Equal Payment Plan (EPP) program

The free service helps customers manage their budgets by eliminating high winter bills. The EPP program levels out a customer's natural gas bills, allowing them to pay a predictable, equal monthly amount to help avoid billing surprises.

Piedmont determines the payment by adding up a customer's annual natural gas usage and then dividing it into the same payment amount each month.

Energy-saving tools

Piedmont Natural Gas offers a variety of energysaving tools to help customers and communities identify ways to save money and energy all year long.

Assistance for customers in need

Share the Warmth provides funds to local agencies to assist families with their utility bills, no matter the source of energy they use.

The Low Income Energy Assistance Program (LIEAP) provides winter heating assistance to pay for natural gas, electric and other methods customers use to heat their homes.

Piedmont says anyone in need should apply for this and other newly available programs to see if they qualify. For detailed federal and state-specific information, go to piedmontng.com/WinterBills and click on your state.

Piedmont Natural Gas, a subsidiary of Duke Energy, distributes natural gas to more than 1.1 million residential, commercial. industrial and power generation customers in North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.
