Wofford student Victoria Biggers was recently named the first SCICU Student of the Year, receivin a $3,000 scholarship for her works and leadership.

Wofford student named first SCICU Student of the Year

Victoria Biggers '17 has been busy throughout her college career at Wofford College — pursuing majors in finance and economics, working in the college Admission Office, enjoying Greek life as a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, singing in the Goldtones women's a capella group, participating in Wofford spirit groups such as W.A.R. and the Boneyard, serving as a residence adviser, and starting her own business through The Space.

She's exactly the type of

Once decision Biggers wasn't sure of when she first came to Wofford was whether to become involved in Greek life. After hearing differing opinions, she decided to go through recruitment to see for herself. "I'm so glad I did that," she says. "I met some of the most talented and driven women - in every single sorority. I knew I wanted to 'Think Theta,' though. This was the group of women that I most connected with, and they were truly genuine." The sorority has served as a support system for her, and given her "invaluable" experiences in leadership.

Wofford's Admission Office, Biggers was "working" for herself as she started a new business, Wee Celebrations, a children's party service, through The Space in the Mungo Center. The business garnered her a win in the Impact and Launch Competition, which included a $5,000 prize and co-working space at the Iron Yard entrepreneurship incubator. While the timing didn't allow her to take advantage of the services of the Iron Yard, she used her winnings to purchase equip-

Let's put your school counselor to work this year

From the American Counseling Association

With the new school year either just started or right around the corner in most parts of the country, it's easy to hear that sigh of relief from parents as they turn the responsibility of educating their little darlings over to the classroom teacher.

And while that instructor is certainly going to be a major part of your child's life and your focus over the coming school year, the classroom teacher is only part of the equation for a successful school year. Your school counselor is a vital member of the academic team, especially if your child or children are facing any learning or developmental issues.

Professional counselors who serve as school counselors, whether at the elementary, middle or senior high school levels, are usually among the most trained and educated people in the school system. While requirements vary slightly from state to state, all school counselors are certified by the State Board of Education. Most states require school counselors to not only have a college degree, but a Master's degree in counseling and some even require classroom

Started as a way to highlight creativity and entrepreneurial spirit, this festival underscores the value of collaboration, inspiration and innovation found in the Greater Spartanburg community as it brings together more than 100 local and regional artists, inventors and entrepreneurs to demonstrate the best of their work.

Visitors to the two-day festivities can enjoy fare from local food trucks, entertainment from regional musicians and dancers, as well as fun and games for all ages.

Also on Saturday, USC Upstate's Johnson College will be open for tours. Information about its business and entrepreneurial courses will be available in the atrium of the building.

Wofford College Pi Kappa Phi brother participates in cross-country ride with The Ability Experience Journey of Hope

When Ernesto Barquet-Arrambide, a Wofford College sophomore from Aiken, rolled into Wofford College on Aug. 3, he was all smiles.

The 95-degree heat and more than 3,000 miles on the seat of a bike couldn't dim the joy he felt for his mission - to raise support and awareness for people with disabilities.

Before stopping at Wofford for the night, Barquet-Arrambide, a biology and theatre major, and other Pi Kappa Phi brothers and Journey of Hope riders visited the Charles Lea Center to meet some of the people who benefit from their ride.

Barquet-Arrambide gets it. During high school he suffered a football injury that changed his life. He was diagnosed with reflex sympathetic dystrophy, and was told that he may never walk again. It took two years of therapy and hard work, but Barquet-Arrambide regained his ability to walk.

The Journey of Hope, a part of The Ability Experience, the philanthropy of Pi Kappa Phi, is a 3,555mile bicycle ride from Long Beach, Calif., to Washington, D.C. A typical day involves cycling an average of 75 miles in the morning then visiting friends with disabilities or local groups of supporters in the afternoons. Colleges and universities such as Wofford give the riders rooms for the night during the journey.

student that South Carolina Independent Colleges and Universities Inc. was looking for when it decided to name her as the first J. Lacy McLean and Sterling L. Smith SCICU Student of the Year, providing her with a $3,000 scholarship. Biggers, who is from Clover, was selected by an independent committee from among 20 nominees, one each from the 20 SCICU member colleges. The award, which combined the previous two McLean and Smith scholarships, is for a rising senior who has performed well academically and who has demonstrated a commitment to public affairs, community service and leadership.

"It's such an honor to receive the first SCICU Student of the Year Award," Biggers says. "I feel so thankful to the staff, professors and my classmates at Wofford who have pushed me to excel in and outside of the classroom in everything I do."

From day one at Wofford, Biggers has worked in the Admission Office, giving tours, hosting prospective students, traveling to events, serving on student panels at hospitality and event days, and much more. "I think the best part of the experience, above gaining incredible networking and public speaking skills, has been being able to interact with future students," she says. "The most valuable thing I've learned was that my job was not to 'sell' Wofford, but to share my experiences and give the prospective students the information they needed to see whether Wofford was the right place

It was Biggers's experience as a Theta to drove her to create a new green space on campus in memory of a sorority sister she never knew, the late Martha Cammack '13, who died unexpectedly in October 2013 while visiting Wofford for Homecoming.

As a first-year student, Biggers saw how her sorority sisters grieved the loss. "I had never met Martha, but it was really hard for me to see the rest of the women of Theta grieving so hard from losing their friend. I wanted to be able to support my sisters, but I didn't know how." The more she learned about the Cammack, more Biggers felt compelled to honor her. "One of the reasons I came to Wofford is because the campus is so beautiful. It is absolutely gorgeous, but there's not really a space to go that's in nature." So, she decided to help build one, raising money for Martha's Garden, a peaceful space with flowers and benches that students, faculty, staff and visitors can sit and enjoy each other's company, or simply meditate in its beauty.

As a finance and economics major, Biggers plans to enter the financial services industry after graduation. She feels like the industry will be a great outlet for her creative problem-solving skills. She's learned through numerous internships that it's also a place that fuels her passion for entrepreneurship.

Even as she worked for ment for her parties - speakers, game sets and more. "I have been working with the team at The Space to make my business launch ready. I think there is much to be said for getting out in the real world in industry, gaining a few years of work experience and seeing the nitty gritty of what it takes for a business to succeed. I feel that after this experience, and with the ability to support myself financially, that I would love to go full force into starting my own small business."

Biggers says she owes many people for her receiving the SCICU Student of the Year Award - "There are so many professors I wish I could recognize for all they do for the college. The professors and staff care so much about the success of each student."

She notes that the SCICU scholarship "sealed the deal" for her at Wofford, allowing for her senior year of college to be completely paid for. "I cannot thank the SCICU organization enough for this," she says.

According to Biggers, Wofford is a place that inspires you and supports you to do great things. "That is truly the reason I believe I have been able to accomplish so much," she says. "Things are never done for me or put on my plate in front of me ... I had to work hard toward my goals, but when I put the energy and effort into getting a task done, all of the support I could have ever asked for was right at my fingertips. That's the Wofford Way, and that is what has helped me excel in my time here."

teaching experience.

This training produces a professional who understands both the educational process and the developmental stages children go through. They are able to recognize barriers that can interfere in the learning process, and have the tools to help overcome such barriers.

At the elementary school level, not being one of the "popular" kids may not seem so important to a parent, but a school counselor can recognize the issue and how it can affect the learning process, and can help the child deal with it. The same is true for middle and high school students when there may be self-concept developmental issues, especially around the age of puberty and early adolescence. A trained school counselor is there to offer students assistance in addressing these issues.

School counselors also provide a variety of assessment instruments and information programs to help students facing problems from attention and discipline issues to more severe learning disabilities. And for high school students, school counselors provide important guidance toward college or careers.

It's a good investment for every parent to make an appointment with the school counselor and to learn what types of help and services are being offered. It's an investment that can help make your child's school year happier and help ensure academic and personal success.

'Back to school' safety tips for motorists & pedestrians

Charlotte, N.C. - As the new school year begins, AAA Carolinas wants to remind motorists about safe ways to share the roads with young pedestrians, bicyclists and school buses. The afternoon hours are proven to be the most dangerous for kids walking home from school. Over the last decade, nearly onethird of child pedestrian fatalities have occurred after school hours between 3 and 7 p.m.

"This is the perfect time of the year to remind everyone to be a defensive driver when driving near schools," said Tiffany Wright, President of AAA Carolinas Foundation for Traffic Safety. "We all need to be extra vigilant when driving through school zones and neighborhood streets, as children are traveling to and from school."

AAA urges motorists to follow these six tips for sharing the road:

Wait your turn: It is illegal to pass a school bus that is stopped to load or unload children. School buses use yellow flashing lights to alert motorists that they are preparing to stop. Red flashing lights and an extended stop sign arm also signal that children are getting on or off the bus.

Don't Drive Distracted: practices Dangerous behind the wheel, like eating, grooming, texting and talking on the phone, take a driver's eyes off the road and can have devastating consequences. AAA encourages all motorists to put down their mobile devices and Disconnect and Drive.

Check the medians: Traffic in both directions must stop on undivided roadways when students are entering or exiting a school bus. On a divided roadway, traffic behind the school bus must stop. Extra room: The area 10 feet around a school bus is where children are in the most danger of getting hit. Stop your car far enough from the bus to allow children the necessary space to safely enter and exit the bus. Slow down: During busy weekday commutes, remember to slow down, allow for extra commute time and avoid driving distracted on your way to and from work. Keep in mind that fines are doubled in school zones when signs are out.

Don't cross the line: Drivers should not block crosswalk when the stopped at a red light or waiting to make a turn. Leave pedestrians with plenty of room to cross safely.

If your child will be walking or biking to school, AAA urges parents and caregivers to discuss the following five safety tips with them:

Be alert: Look left, right and left again, before crossing the street. Children also should be advised to avoid distractions and watch for potential road hazards.

Take heed: Always stop when directed to do so by a school patrol sign, school patrol officer or crossing guard.

Wear a helmet: Kids who bicycle always should wear a helmet. The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety states that a helmet can reduce the risk of head injury by 85 percent.

Phone a friend: Have kids walk to school with a relative, friend or neighbor.

Walk with caution: Walk only on the sidewalk, and cross the street only at crosswalks. Avoid walking in front of, behind or between parked cars. Remind children that even though they can see a vehicle, doesn't mean that vehicle can see them.

The Spartanburg Little Theatre announces upcoming 2016-17 season

The Spartanburg Little Theatre recently revealed the five productions that will make up its 2016-17 production season, the organization's 71st consecutive year of bringing the best in live, local theatrical entertainment to Spartanburg and the Upstate.

With three musicals and two non-musical plays, the Spartanburg Little Theatre season offers a diverse repertoire of beloved classics and modern favorites, all presented at the Chapman Cultural Center in Downtown Spartanburg and performed entirely by outstanding local actors, singers, dancers, and musicians.

"We are truly blessed to be sitting on a talent goldmine in Spartanburg and the Upstate," said Jay Executive Coffman, Artistic Director of the Spartanburg Little Theatre. "The Little Theatre's success, for a large part, is due to the amazing capabilities of our performers. We're excited to be able to showcase them in this incredibly exciting upcoming seaThe Navy lawyer, a callow young man more interested in softball games than the case, expects a plea bargain and a cover up of what really happened. Prodded by a female member of his defense team, the lawyer eventually makes a valiant effort to defend his clients and, in so doing, puts the military mentality and the Marine code of honor on trial.

Ring of Fire: The Music of Johnny Cash (January 13-22, 2017)

From the iconic songbook of Johnny Cash comes this unique musical about love and faith, struggle and success, rowdiness and redemption, and home and family. More than two dozen classic hits-including "I Walk The Line," "A Boy Named Sue,"

"Folsom Prison Blues," and the title tune-performed by a multi-talented cast, paint a musical portrait of The Man in Black that promises to be a footstompin', crowd-pleasin' salute to a uniquely American legend!

Blithe Spirit by Noel Coward (March 10-19, 2017)

Researching for his new novel, Charles Condomine invites the implausible medium Madame Arcati to his house for a séance. While consumed in a trance, Madame Arcati unwittingly summons the ghost of Charles' dead wife Elvira. Appearing only to Charles, Elvira soon makes a play to reclaim her husband, much to the chagrin of Charles' new wife Ruth. Now if he wants his latest marriage to stand a GHOST of a chance, he'd better conjure up a solution quickly. One husband, two feuding wives and a whisper of mischief in the air - who will win in Noel Coward's unworldly comedy?

Monty Python's Spamalot (May 5-14, 2017)

"Lovingly ripped off" from the classic film Monty Python and the Holy Grail, this Tony Award-winning Broadway smash serves up a delightfully outrageous take on the tale of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table, and their legendary quest for the holy grail. You'll enjoy some mostly handsome knights, a bevy of beautiful show girls, not to mention cows, killer rabbits, and French people, before the familiar sound of clomping coconut shells brings down the curtain on one of the stage's goofiest comic delights.

Families are tapping more scholarships and grants to pay for college

(StatePoint) Families spent less out-of-pocket for college in academic year 2015-16 compared to last year, as they took advantage of more scholarships and grants to foot the bill, according to "How America Pays for College 2016," the national study from Sallie Mae, the country's largest private student lender, and Ipsos, a global independent market research company.

Scholarships and grants covered 34 percent of college costs, according to the report, the largest percentage of any resource over the last five years. Approximately, half of families used a scholarship or grant to help pay for college.

"Families wrote smaller checks for college this year as they looked less to their wallets and more toward free money to make college happen," says Raymond Quinlan, chairman and chief executive officer, Sallie Mae, a company focused on helping families save, plan and for college. pay "Scholarships and grants have become an increasingly important part of the pay-forcollege mix, and it's encouraging to see organizations, schools, and the government stepping up to provide them."

• Bachelor's: the new norm: Families are firmly in agreement on the value of college: 98 percent believe it's an investment in their student's future and 90 percent expect their student to earn a bachelor's degree. What's more, 54 percent of families expect their student to earn a graduate degree.

Families are putting their money where their mouth is -- the vast majority are willing to stretch financially to make college happen.

· Making college more affordable: Nearly all families took at least one cost-saving measure, while most took five or more. These measures include cutting personal school, living at home, and taking accelerated coursework to graduate faster.

Additionally, four in five students attended college in their home state, and one in three started at community college. Eighty-five percent of families completed the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

• Borrowing not a forgone conclusion: Fewer than half of families borrowed last year. In fact, the proportions of funding from family savings and income and scholarships and grants were twice as high as the proportion of funds borrowed. Student borrowing paid 13 percent of all choosing a college are split college costs, down from 16 evenly between academic percent last year.

• Cost important, but not top factor: Sixty-seven percent of families narrow college choices based on cost, but when it comes to making the final decision, this takes a Only 40 percent of families back seat. Primary reasons in have a plan to pay for college program and personal choice, which includes campus culture, extracurricular activities and student population. Cost ranked third at 27 percent.

• Planning still pays off: — but in families with plans, students are more likely to pursue bachelor's degrees, there is more willingness and ability to spend on college, and students borrow 40 percent less than those from families without plans.

"The results of this important annual study shed light on critical financial decisions families are making for and with their college-bound students," said Julia Clark, senior vice president at Ipsos Public Affairs. "The changing roles that college cost, borrowing, and savings play in this process are essential to understand as key factors in the broader higher education landscape."
